PRINCETON FACING COLGATE IN SINGLE BIG EASTERN CLASH

By Henry L. Farrell
New York, Oct. 25.—Princeton faces the Marne of her season's football career this afternoon.

Looking the formidable bunch of Colgate huskies who invade old Nassau town today for the biggest game of the east, the Tiger following is breathing in chorus "they shall not pass." But they know better and there is mighty little hope that the Tiger squad will be much of a block in the way of the shock troops from Hamilton. Princeton was almost reconciled to hanging its pelt on Bankhart's door, beside those of Brown and Cornell.

Today's schedule isn't weighed down with the momentous games that brought about such a jolt last week. Next to the game at Princeton, the battle between Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech at Pittsburgh will be of importance, as it is the first big inter-sectional game of the season.

Cornell looks to be in for another drubbing at the hands of Dartmouth on the Polo Grounds. Syracuse is looked for an easy time with Washington and Jefferson at Syracuse.

Middle Western games scheduled for today are:

- Chicago vs. Northwestern at Chicago.
- Illinois vs. Wisconsin at Champaign.
- Kansas vs. Ames at Ames.
- Minnesota vs. Iowa at Minneapolis.
- Nebraska vs. Oklahoma at Omaha.
- Missouri vs. Drake at Columbia.
- Michigan Aggies vs. DePaul at East Lansing.
- Notre Dame vs. Kalamazoo at South Bend.
- Marquette vs. Creighton at Omaha.

Bears Meet W. S. C.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—A mighty thud will resound the entire length of the Pacific coast today when Washington State and University of California eleven clash at Berkeley this afternoon.

Yesterday's workout of the Washingtonians was interspersed with several showers which added to their display of snap. No one is accusing the California squad with being over-confident of victory.

At Los Angeles the pluckin will undergo rough treatment from the University of Southern California and Pomona. Through college and Whittier will mingle on the latter's field, while Occidental college and the Keel club battle at Long Beach.

The College of Pacific state and Nevada university mix at Reno.

SUCCESS TO BAUM MAY BE NAMED TODAY

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—Choice of the successor to A. T. Baum as president of the Pacific Coast league will probably be the discussion of the meeting of league directors here today. Baum's resignation was accepted late yesterday.

Harry Williams, Los Angeles sport writer, tops the list of possible candidates for the position.

The league in yesterday's meeting went on record as opposed to maiming the baseball games. It also adopted the 75 player limit for the 1920 season, an increase of two men over the season just closed.

Today's meeting will bring up for discussion the application of Vancouver, B. C., and Tacoma, Wash., for representation in the league.

BASEBALL

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—The resignation of Allan T. Baum as president of the Pacific Coast league, presented several months ago, was accepted at a meeting of the directors of the league Friday.

This action came as a surprise, as it was expected the letter of resignation would be permitted to die on file and Baum continue to hold office for another year.

BOXING

Portland, Oct. 25.—The art of manipulating their mitts is being learned by co-eds at Reed college here, a class in boxing having been organized for their benefit.

The girls are highly enthusiastic over the innovation and say they'll never again resort to scratching and hair pulling, for they find the left hook and the upper cut so much more effective.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—Roy McCormick won from Jack Reeves at Dreamland last night via the decision route. Frankie Haynes was "given" the decision over Perry Lewis.

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 25.—Frank Denny, of Oakland, outpulsed Kid Leo of Sacramento in the main event of the Hoffman club card last night. Chief Abernathy, of San Francisco, shaded Young Joe Gans of Oakland and Al Walker of San Francisco shaded Baby Blue of Marysville in the semi windups.

Medford and Jackson county is troubled with a serious and unusual visitation of horse and house flies.

STANFORD-AGGIE GAME OPENS COAST CONFERENCE TODAY

Portland, Oct. 25.—The Pacific coast inter-collegiate conference football season will be officially opened this afternoon when Leland Stanford tangles with the Oregon Aggies at Corvallis, and Washington State college tango into Coach Andy Smith's California Bears at Berkeley, Cal.

These games, while the most important on the coast today, are not drawing all of the attention. The University of Washington will play its first northwest conference game against Whitman at Seattle and it will be the first chance for the fans to get a line on Coach Hunt's men. Whitman is also an unknown quantity, so there is a lot of interest in this engagement.

Idaho, which was put out of the running last Saturday by Oregon, will tackle Utah at Salt Lake City.

The Oregonians are having an off day.

DALLAS MAN, MISSING SEVEN DAYS, RETURNS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Dallas, Oct. 25.—Edward Plogg, a Dallas resident, who disappeared from his rooms in this city a week ago and who had been sought for by friends and relatives for the past several days, assisted by the Polk county sheriff's force, returned to his boarding place at Mrs. H. S. Smith's residence on Washington street late Thursday afternoon in a dazed condition. He was unable to give much information as to his whereabouts since his disappearance.

Plogg, who has been in charge of the T. J. Leonard apple orchard just south of Dallas for the past year, says that persons are following him continually. A short time ago Sheriff Orr was called to the Southern Pacific railway yards to look after a man who was acting queer, and found Plogg pacing up and down the tracks. He told Sheriff Orr that a woman was following him trying to obtain possession of his money.

Since that time he had apparently been all right until a little over a week ago when he packed a suitcase full of clothes and leaving a number of boxes of apples picked and piled up in the orchard and others ready to be taken in custody by Sheriff Orr and will be given an examination for Sunday.

SOUTHERNERS LAUNCH CAMPAIGN TO MAKE BIRTHPLACE OF ROOSEVELT'S MOTHER MEMORIAL TO EX-PRESIDENT

New York, Oct. 25.—Leading southern states and is headed by Dr. Floyd W. McIlon, of Atlanta. It has the consent to make the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt's mother, the famous old Bulloch homestead at Roswell, Ga., a permanent Roosevelt memorial.

Both the Georgia senators, Hoke Smith and William J. Harris, as well as former Senator Thomas W. Hardwick all of whom were active political opponents of the late president, are leaders in the movement.

The birthplace of Martha Bulloch, a southern gentlewoman famous for her beauty and charm, who supported the southern cause in the sixties, although the wife of a northerner and living in New York, is a venerable mansion of the southern colonial type in a typical Georgia plantation setting at Roswell, near Atlanta. The old mansion was often visited by Roosevelt.

Roosevelt was always popular in Georgia. His devotion to his southern mother had much to do with this sentiment toward him, but his principled of Americanism made him many admirers among those who did not belong to his party.

The Bulloch committee is composed of one member from each southern state and is headed by Dr. Floyd W. McIlon, of Atlanta. It has the consent to make the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt's mother, the famous old Bulloch homestead at Roswell, Ga., a permanent Roosevelt memorial.
