Victor Point News. (Capital Journal Special Service.)

Victor Point, Or., Oct. 27.—Hunters everywhere are taking advantage of the short period which the law still allows them and several of this neighborhood have found time to devote to this seasonal sport. Edward Krenz, Martin Doerfler Jr., and Roy Fox left Sunday night for the Coos Bay country where they expect to prove themselves excellent deer hunters. A. N. Doerfler, Frederick Doerfler and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Doerfler drove to Harlsburg Friday, where they will visit relatives and also spend a few days in pheasant hunting.

Mrs. Garje of Salem is visiting with Mrs. J. Amstutz.

A farewell dance in honor of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Doerfler was given last Saturday night and was said by many to have been the most enjoyable one given at the farm. Owing to the very short time of preparation for it the crowd was not as large as usual but this only made it more pleasant as well as impressive and afforded an opportunity for close friends of those going away to bid them good-bye. Mr. Doerfler with his family left Thursday morning for Bangor, Maine, where he will take up his new position as manager of the Ayredale Jersey farm.

Glady Jones, who attends school in Silverton, spent the week-end with home folks.

Joseph J. Doerfler and Miss Una C. Darby were quietly married in Salem, Tuesday morning, and left immediately after the ceremony for an extended trip through California. Among the places they plan to visit are San Francisco, Los Angeles and Long Beach, going also into Lower California and probably crossing over into Mexico. On their return they will be at home to their friends in their farm home near Victor Point.

Auto Bandits Rob Street Railway Cashier Friday

Portland, Or., Oct. 27.—Three armed bandits held up the cashier in the car barns of the Portland Railway Light and Power company, in a suburb last night and escaped in an automobile with nearly $300.

Patrolman R. A. Pratt, who arrived at the barns while the robbery was in progress, was shot in the arm during a revolver battle with the high-waymen.

While one robber secured the money, his two companions covered and held helpless seven carmen who were in the barns.

WALRUSES WEIGH A TON

The averaged-size Alaska walrus is as big as an ox and often weighs more than a ton. A walrus was recently killed by some whalers near Point Barrow whose head weighed 80 pounds, and skin, including flippers, 500 pounds. The animal has a girth of 14 feet, the skin was from half an inch to three inches in thickness, and the blubber weighed 500 pounds.

A strike of the police force at Roseburg was averted Tuesday night when the city council agreed to allow the night and day officers each eight hour shifts. The arrangement leaves the city without guardians eight hours out of the twenty four, as only two policemen are employed.

Coming to Oregon Theatre

In "The Lady of Red Bluff", coming to the Oregon Thursday--One day.

"BEAUCOUP FRANCS" FOR BROADWAY MEANS "SIDE-DOOR PULLMAN" FOR HIM

It would not be quite fair, per- for Portland, and was on the last lap haps, to tell his name, so for con- of the trip.

At Umatilla and the Dalles he was Brakemen Are Hostile. forcibly ejected from his reserved compartment but with his ultimate destination so near at hand it took more than mere inhospitality on the part of a brakeman to daunt him.

And, finally, after a long hard journey, Martin Smith, arrived in Portland, tired, half-sick, and ready to agree with any one that "it was a great little war."

He is safe at home now, with his mother and the rest of them, and whether the story he tells them coincides with the one he told in the comfortable room in the post office building, or not, is of no importance.

How do you know that your own Martin Smith has not just such a story to relate if he were not a trifle ashamed to tell you? Some day perhaps, when the newness of his return has worn off, he will "fess up" and you will get the chance to tell him that it is nothing at all to be ashamed of; that it is only one little part of youth's great adventure.

Robert Burnham was killed in the Noyes-Holland logging camp near Rainier Tuesday, his neck being broken by a flying snag which was struck by a log.

So New York it was, and never, as long as the money lasted, did an American doughboy have such a time! Until one morning he awoke with a great empty space in the region of his stomach, and never a cent in the pockets of his uniform, and Oregon more than a thousand leagues away.

Blind Baggage for Him. O well! if one cannot ride in a private car, one can still, if one is wary enough, ride "blind baggage" and nothing daunted at the signs of inclement weather and the increasing emptiness of which he was becoming more than ever aware, he climbed aboard a west bound freight, and found himself some hours later in Chicago. Here he sought the hospitality of the Soldiers and Sailors club, and telegraphed from there to the Red Cross home service section in Salem for transportation. Before an answer could be received, he left Chicago, once more travelling "de luxe," and landed in a little town outside the Illinois state borders penniless and hungry and wet to the skin. Despairing of a reply to his message to Salem, he managed to collect enough money to telegraph to the Portland home section of the Red Cross. Then while Salem and Portland were both attempting to locate him and send the desired transportation, he boarded another west bound freight, only to be put off in a some too gentle manner, in a town in Iowa.

Jail Next Stop. Fortunately there was a Red Cross canteen in the place, and after a hearty supper the little girl in charge at that hour told him of a troop train that was due that evening and assisted him in getting aboard. By an unfortunate coincidence he had sent his discharge to Washington, D. C. and upon being unable to produce it, was put under arrest as a deserter, by the officer in charge of the train, and thrown in jail at the next town. It was a week before the difficulty was cleared and he was allowed to continue his transcontinental trip.

All through Montana and the sage brush country the riding was easier because of the dry weather, except when he suffered from thirst. In Spokane an elderly man, with sons of his own in the service, gave him a little money and some meal and bed tickets. The tickets he turned over to another soldier, a little worse off than himself, who was intending to remain in Spokane, and unutterably glad to be so close to home picked himself a comfortable spot behind an engine on a freight headed

Shipley's Smart Accessories

To Complete One's Costume
