SQUARE DEALING

You'll have customers contented if the goods in which you deal always are as represented in your advertising spiel. But if you deceive your patrons, lured by falsehoods to your store, there'll be angry men and matrons thumping their fists on your rich red door. Claiming well and selling shoddy will not get you anywhere, and excesses large and gaudy will not make the matter square. I can sell a fisherman's sonnet to consumers now and then, but when they want odes, doggerel, they won't come to me again. I must do the best I'm able every time I sell a song, or some gent will prod my gable with a pitchfork's rusty prong. Such excuses as I offer, broken health or Jim H. Jams, find the scorner and the scoffer and I cannot sell my usulas. Once you've fooled a human being, you've earned an ebony mark; and a hundred, that mark seeing, will avoid you as a shark. Let no bilking schemes enchain you, put temptation on the ice; you may sting me once, I grant you, but you cannot do it twice. And the dealer who is wiser than a wise old setting hen is the honest advertiser who would have you come again.

Odds and Ends

Milwaukee, Wis.—Milwaukee mothers insist that their daughters in high school wear silk hosiery. They look nice and do not fade as readily as cotton—and cost the same, say the mothers.

Minneapolis, Minn.—R. W. Gilmore telephoned his niece just in time to stop arrangements for his own funeral. Police then discovered the man killed by an auto truck was Charles Johnson—not Gilmore.

Pestland, Or.—Describing a fire which destroyed a house boat on the river, Patrolman Steens officially reported in writing: "The building was burned to the ground."

RECORD SMASHING IS PRELUDE TO ARRESTS

Portland, Or., Oct. 27.—George V. Adams and Forrest Bradley, who announced recently the breaking of automobile road records between Astoria and Portland by making the 104-mile trip in two hours and 21 minutes, were lodged in the county jail Friday afternoon on a complaint sworn to by Walter Green, special agent in the office of District Attorney Evans, charging violation of speed laws of the state. They were released later on bail of $500 each.

Insisting that road racing had been discontinued all summer by the authorities and that he was being "picked on" without justice, Adams declared that if he was "going to be the goat" he would see to it that some rival automobile drivers who had broken a few road records during months past would get into hot water also, if he had to swear out warrants against them, himself.

HOPS BRING 85 CENTS

L. R. Hill, most commonly referred to as "Dewey," is now ahead of the local hop growers as far as receiving the highest price for his crop is concerned. On Wednesday, Mr. Hill sold 25 bales—his 1919 crop—approximately 5800 pounds at 85 cents per pound. "Dewey" is such a sociable chap that he wish he had had 53,000 pounds in stead of 5800.—Polk County Post.

POINDEXTER.

SENATOR MILES POINDEXTER, of Washington, has announced his candidacy for the presidency. He seeks the republican nomination on a stand-pat platform. We do not know whether his candidacy is seriously considered—if it is, it instances the decadence of the republican party, and typifies its bankruptcy of ideas, ideals and leaders.

Of course, this is a free country and there is no law against anyone's seeking the presidency. There are several perennial candidates at Dr. Steiners popular resort. Poindexter's candidacy is simply another case of the megalomania of the political charlatan enraptured with his own harangue. It is doubtful whether he can hypnotize the republican party, which has always selected as standard bearers men of character.

Poindexter, like Johnson, and some other candidates seeking selfish aims at the expense of human welfare, has lustily hammered the league of nations and deluged the president with billingsgate in his frantic effort to secure publicity. Unlike Johnson, however, Poindexter has no record as a constructive executive. He has always been a wind-jammer, veering with the breeze apparently without sincere convictions or party principles, save to hold office.

A score of years ago Poindexter was an ardent free-silver populist, leading Bryan parades; later a candidate for office in eastern Washington on the democratic ticket. When defeated he changed his residence and was elected to office as a republican and later as republican congressman. Then he deserted the republicans and was elected senator as a Bull Moose, but later joined the republicans to secure re-election. Since he has deserted the progressives to become a stand-patter. Populist, democrat, republican, progressive and stand-patter in turn, he is now running for president as a demagogue.

DEFYING THE PRESIDENT.

PRESIDENT WILSON has demanded that the coal strike leaders recall the strike order, declaring that under the circumstances the strike will not only be unjustifiable but unlawful, and that as it would affect the domestic comfort and health of the people, demoralize industry and inflict widespread suffering, the "law will be enforced and means found to protect the interests of the nation in the emergency."

In reply, John L. Lewis, acting president of the miner's union defies the president as follows: "I thank God we have a country where men may strike. May the power of my government never be used to throttle and crush the efforts of the toilers to improve their material welfare and elevate the standards of their citizenship."

The mine workers are in the wrong for they are abrogating an agreement as to wages made with the sanction of the United States fuel administration which was to run during the war but not beyond next April. The peace treaty has not yet been signed, and the miners are treating their agreement as a scrap of paper.

The "efforts of the toilers to improve their material welfare and elevate the standards of their citizenship," consist in a demand for a 60 per cent increase in wages, a six hour working day and a five day week. The strike order is the work of the labor leaders as no referendum has been taken by the men.

In the anthracite strike, the strikers had public sympathy and support because their demands were just. They were being worked as much as 12 hours a day, often 7 days a week on small wages, forced to live in unsanitary hovels and treated like serfs. In the present strike, the men are not entitled to public support, for they seek high wages without a full day's work.

President Wilson will have the support of the people in his efforts to prevent big-headed radical labor leaders from plunging the country into misery, for no union is greater than the government and no union can dictate to the government—and the people are not yet ready to Russianize our democracy.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE by the noted author Idah McGlone Gibson

MY HUSBAND
"No, no, I didn't mean that! I couldn't mean it!" I heard a voice say in low tones of blended protest and horror.
A cold shudder shook me from head to foot. I looked up quickly—furtively—as John pushed an annoyed face above his newspaper, with a grunt. And then I realized that the voice was not his; that he had been silent, as usual, behind the effective screen of his newspaper which stood propped up by the salt and pepper shakers.
"What did you say?" he inquired gruffly. "If you must talk, speak out, won't you, so that one can hear? You should know by this time that I detect these mysterious whisperings which take my mind from my paper and yet are too indistinct for me to understand."
Again a convulsive shudder swept over me. I caught my hands tightly together in my lap as the realization dawned upon me that it had been my own strained voice, in horrified denial that had annoyed my husband and yet that quick, terrified exclamation had come as unconsciously as had the awful wish which it denied.
"What shall I answer?" I asked myself. And then I breathed easier because I saw that my life partner had calmly raised his newspaper to a high angle, again obscuring his face, and from what I could hear seemed to be proceeding with his breakfast and the sporting news with his usual noise and speed.
As was his wont, he did not expect an answer to his question. Already he seemed to have forgotten that I had spoken at all. Nothing disturbed the silence of the room except the rustling of the newspaper, as John turned to the first page, and I knew he was reading some of the news stories, the headword to speak he had continued in a would-be jocular manner:

"You look so pale and washed out this morning! Are you going to be one of those women who, if their husband stays out a little later than usual at night, the next day has a headache which should belong to him?"
I did not speak—I could not.
As I looked in the glass behind him, I knew he was right—I did look pale and washed out. I saw that my features were drawn, but I knew it was because I was telling myself that I was the wickedest woman in the world—the very wickedest!
I. Kate Gordon, had wished that my husband, the man to whom I had been married barely three years—the father of my baby—were dead!

SALE IS SUCCESS

Marion county is waking up in the dairy business, according to the prices which the dairy cows brought at the J. W. Woodruff's and W. H. Witzel sales, conducted by F. N. Woody during the last week. The prices were as follows: One grade 5 year old Jersey sold for $150; one grade 8 year old Jersey sold for $138; one grade 6 year old Jersey and Holstein sold for $131; one grade 2 year old Jersey and Holstein sold for $72.50; one grade 4 year old Jersey sold for $129. The above sales were well attended and good prices obtained for everything.

FORMOSA'S CAMPHOR CROP

It is calculated that Formosa contains about one million camphor trees, some ten thousand of which are cut down every year. At this rate the supply will be exhausted in a hundred years, but Japanese will see that reforestation is properly undertaken and a continuous inexhaustible supply ensured.

Two hundred teams and 150 men are at work on the mill and logging railroad being created by the Alsea River Lumber company at Glenbrook near Monroe.

TO MY SALEM FRIENDS AND PATRONS

I wish to state that I am now located in Portland with offices at 414 Failing Building. My new offices are fully equipped with all modern appliances for the scientific fitting of glasses and correction of eye troubles. Salem people are cordially invited to call on me when in Portland.

How Do You Feel—When You Stoop?

Slow and sluggish movements, tired action, backache, rheumatic pains, stiff joints or sore muscles indicate that something in the human system is out of order. In most cases, these symptoms are the result of waste matter or poisonous acids being left in the blood by the failure of the kidneys to properly do their work of filtering and casting out impurities from the blood.

STOPPED HIS BACKACHE

"I am 70 years old. I tried Foley Kidney Pills, thinking I needed them—my back was hurting and aching all the time. I got so bad that when I would stoop over in the store while at work I could hardly raise up such a awful catch in my back. After taking just one bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, my backache was entirely gone and I felt good and strong. I think they are the greatest remedy for back and urinary troubles of the bladder."—W. P. Tatum, R. F. D. 1, Washington, Pa.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

have been used by young, middle-aged and old with complete satisfaction. You will find them different from all other remedies. They act quickly and surely and have given relief in cases of years' standing. If you have cause to suspect your kidneys are weak, disordered or inactive, you should act immediately.
