Had the Prince of Wales asked N. J. Sanford, Jr., this unforgivable question, "Where is Boston?" he would have received all kinds of valuable information about Bunker Hill and a few other points of interest. Mr. Sanford, Bostonian accent and all, was a guest last evening at the Bligh hotel.

Persons who live in Hood River are very lenient in their criticism of Adam and Eve. They contend that if the apples that grew in the Garden of Eden were of the Hood River variety, our first parents could scarcely be blamed for eating them. C. K. Marshall, who visited in Salem yesterday, hails from Hood River.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Cunningham and four children have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hobbs. Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Hobbs are sisters. They left today for California, looking for a location, having just sold their farm and stock in Walla Walla, and may return in January to look into farming conditions around Salem.

Harry Wenderoth has been appointed chairman of the committee on arrangements for a special session of the local lodge of Elks, November 20 when a hundred new candidates will be initiated. A banquet and dance at the armory will follow the celebration and it is expected that more than a thousand Elks will take part in the festivities.

Major W. Carlton Smith, president of the local post of the American Legion, left yesterday for the first annual convention of the Legion, which is being held in Minneapolis. On his way home he will study for a week with the Mayo brothers at Rochester, Minn. Dr. Smith plans to be gone about three weeks.

The running down of himself as he was riding a bicycle on South Commercial street yesterday evening by an auto bearing Oregon license 59605, that did not stop, was reported to police by Loren Morris, South 13th street. The license number shows that the auto belongs to L. N. Myers, 697 North 18th street, city. The bicycle was demolished, but young Loren escaped uninjured.

City Recorder Earl Race said this morning that more applications for positions have been coming in the past week to the municipal labor bureau than there are jobs to accommodate them. There are several good positions on file, with good wages, Mr. Race said. Most of the applicants for jobs are persons from Portland and Seattle, or other cities where strikes have tied up industries.

James E. Stewart of Corvallis was in the city this morning on his way home after attending the meeting of the state highway commission at Portland the first of the week. NORTH SALEM TO GATHER TONIGHT IN REGULAR MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the North Salem Improvement association will be held at the Highland school at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Rev. James Elvin, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will discuss community welfare in the light of his recent experiences. Mrs. Dr. E. E. Fisher will describe the work of the new Salem Children's bureau and the vital importance of this child welfare work to the mothers and the children of North Salem.

In working for community welfare the North Salem Improvement association believes no question of improvement can exceed in importance those social efforts in behalf of child welfare, which will secure for the children of Salem every advantage of scientific medical inspection, and such guidance of parents, as well as every social and civic aid to them in rearing strong bodied, clear thinking, clean minded, joyous children.

Therefore, the officers of the association at their first meeting heartily endorsed the movement for a supervised public playground in Salem, and will work persistently to that end. They also are ready to co-operate in any way possible with other city workers in behalf of the Salem Children's bureau and urge the mothers of North Salem to come to the meeting tonight in order to get a clear idea of how this bureau may help them.

A good musical program and a reading by a representative of the department of public speaking of Willamette university will precede the regular business meeting.
