

FIRST SOLDIERS AID MONEY WILL BE PAID ON JAN. 1

No payment of money has as yet been made by the secretary of state's office under the provisions of the soldiers educational aid bill, nor will any payment be made before January 1, 1920 according to a statement prepared by Sam A. Koser, deputy secretary of state, today. The funds for the administration of this act are to be provided by taxation and will not be available until that date, according to the statement which follows:

In order to clear up any misunderstanding that may exist in the minds of any of the soldiers, sailors or marines who are attending such institutions, the secretary of state's office wishes to state that the law providing for educational aid to the extent of $25 per month, appropriates annually the equivalent of .2 of a mill on the taxable property of the state. When this law went into effect at the close of the special election June 3, 1919, the state tax commission had prior thereto in December, 1918, made the annual tax levy for the year 1919, consequently no amount could be included in the tax levy for that year to pay the claims for aid furnished by the state. The annual levy of taxes for the year 1920 will be made by the state tax commission in December, 1919, and the amount which it is authorized to include in such levy under the financial educational aid law will become available and credited as an appropriation January 1, 1920.

When the educational institutions with which applications have been filed were furnished vouchers and statement forms for rendering their monthly statements of aid furnished to the several soldiers, sailors and marines in attendance thereat, the executive heads of such institutions were advised on the conditions of the appropriation and the time when the moneys appropriated by the state would be available, and it was suggested by them that in view of the fact that the state could not pay these claims before January 1, 1920, (though it would pay all claims of soldiers, sailors and marines in attendance at their institutions from January 4, 1919, who had made application for the aid), that it would very likely be necessary for them to make some local financial arrangements in order to carry them over until January 1, 1920, when their claims would be paid by the secretary of state as any other claims against the state. That is the condition which exists with respect to all the institutions of the state with which applications to pursue courses of study therein have been filed by honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

This matter was also considered by the executive heads of the larger institutions at a conference in Salem in July and they generally understand the conditions and that it would be necessary for them to arrange to make these advances to the students until the state moneys could be paid. It has been suggested in some instances that the state could issue certificates of evidence of allowance of claims, but they cannot be issued by the secretary of state except upon the authorization of a deficiency by the emergency board. In the case in point, no deficiency exists. Provision has been made by the legislature for the payment of the claims but the payment hereof has been deferred by reason of a condition which existed at the time the law went into effect and could be in no manner remedied except through some special legislative enactment.

The secretary of state's office is merely making this statement in order to clear up any misunderstanding which may now exist with regard to the time when the state moneys become available, so that the executive heads of institutions and ex-servicemen who may be in attendance, may know the exact conditions and the reason for their failure to receive the money which the state has provided for them, before January 1, 1920, in the event the institutions which the ex-servicemen may be attending are unable to make local financial arrangements to advance the money to them until the first of the year.

Canada's Promising Water Power.

An important feature of the water-powers of Canada is their fortunate situation with respect to existing commercial centers. With economic transmission range of practically every important city from the Atlantic to the Pacific, except those in the central western prairies, there are clustered water-power sites which will meet the probable demands for hydro-power for generations.

BILL WOULD MAKE ALL INTEREST OVER 5 PER CENT ILLEGAL

In the event the proposed constitutional amendment initiated by J. F. Albright of Oregon City should be approved by the voters of the state at the general election in 1920, any interest rate above five percent charged upon any transaction in Oregon would be usury, according to an opinion prepared today by Attorney General Brown at the request of Will H. Bennett, state superintendent of banks.

The proposed amendment fixes the rate of interest at four percent per annum upon all money after the same becomes due, but upon contracts, interest at the rate of five percent per annum and no more may be charged by the express agreement of the parties.

According to the opinion of the attorney general this would have no effect whatever upon contracts executed prior to the going into effect of the proposed amendment. The proposed amendment however would reduce the present rate of interest in ordinary commercial transactions, would forbid the execution of notes drawing interest of more than five percent per annum, would limit the interest charge upon all moneys after the same becomes due to four percent, and would fix four percent as the rate of interest to be collected in the event a person agreed to pay interest but no rate was specified and would require that any brokerage or commission charges upon any transaction should be included in the five percent maximum interest rate. The proposed amendment would not, however, prohibit the ordinary bank custom of discounting or rediscounting commercial paper by deducting the interest in advance, the opinion holds. No new licenses could be issued to persons under the act which would permit the charging of more than the amount provided in the amendment, the attorney general states but declares that it is not now necessary to decide as to whether the act would be deemed an impairment of existing license rights to charge more than the specified rates.

Coast Taylor Shops Open On Non-Union Basis Today

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—The man who has waited ten weeks for that suit of clothes watched today to learn the effect of the announcement of the Pacific Coast Merchant Tailors association that all tailoring establishments would open for business today on the "open shop" basis.

Shops in all cities on the coast, it was announced, would open without their union employees.

ELECTION NOTICES BEING SENT OUT NOW

Preparation of the notices of the forthcoming primary election which are to be sent to the various county clerks over the state, was begun by Sam A. Koser, deputy secretary of state today. In conformity with the advice contained in the opinion prepared by Attorney General Brown and in line with the declaration made by Secretary of State Olcott based upon that opinion the office of governor will be omitted from these notices. This early action in this matter is taken in order to permit ample time for testing the legality of the omission should "any citizen or voter" desire to institute mandamus proceedings to compel the secretary of state to include the office of governor in his certification to the county clerks. The law provides that the certification shall be made not later than 45 days prior to the date of the election but no other time limitation is provided.
