

MAN INJURED WHEN BOILER EXPLODES AT LOGGING CAMP DIES

Dallas, Ore., Nov. 11.—Nelson Homer, an employe of the Willamette Valley Lumber company at their Bald-ace Camp near Black Rock, died in the Dallas hospital Saturday morning from injuries received Friday morning when the boiler of a donkey engine exploded. Homer's skull was fractured by the force of the blast and he was also painfully scalded from his waist up.

Thomas Cummings, the engineer of the engine, had his right arm blown from his body in the accident, it being taken off at the shoulder. He was also scalded in different parts of his body. Fred Sherman, a tree feller, who was near the engine at the time of the explosion, sustained a broken collar bone and was otherwise badly injured. Eye witnesses to the accident state that the men were blown about 25 feet by the force of the blast.

The injured men were rushed to the Dallas Hospital where, under the care of Dr. A. E. Starbuck, everything possible was done to relieve their pains, but little hope was held out for Homer's recovery on account of the mangled condition of the skull being cracked open from the forehead back. Little is known of the dead man in the Black Rock camp. He had been there several months but had little of his past. Corporal R. L. Chapman, who has charge of the body is trying to get in touch with a bank in the east where the dead man has been sending money to hopes of finding out his relatives.

ALASKA MORE THAN REPAYS EXPENSE OF RUNNING TERRITORY

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 11.—(United Press).—A letter showing that Alaska paid into the United States treasury $10,000,000 more than the territory cost the government last year, has been written to J. W. Halliwell, assistant to the secretary of the interior by Thomas Riggs, Jr., governor of Alaska.
Riggs' letter has been made public as part of the campaign for additional appropriations for the development of the territory. According to his statements, $7,665,285 was appropriated during the fiscal year 1918 by the federal government. During the fiscal year 1919, the federal treasury received $17,670,711 return, principally from the income tax in Alaska.

Comb Sage Tea In Faded Or Gray Hair

Look young! Common garden Sage and Sulphur darkens so naturally nobody can tell Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that faded, or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush, and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. (Adv)

HUBBARD CITIZENS PROTEST; ELECTRIC SERVICE IS PROBED

C. I. Kephart, electrical engineer for the Public Service commission was in Hubbard last Saturday investigating the service given Hubbard patrons of the Molalla Electric company. His coming to Hubbard was in response to a petition liberally signed by Hubbard patrons asking for the investigation and stating their grievances. Mr. Kephart came to Hubbard from Salem on the early morning train and went to the creamery where a volt meter was coupled up. On the 10:10 northbound Mr. Kephart went to Canby to inspect the generating plant and returned to Hubbard on the afternoon train, returning to Salem that evening.
On returning to Hubbard Mr. Kephart interviewed those patrons whose names had appeared on the petition reaching his office and found their complaint was practically the same, all indicating a lack of power. The volt meter showed a fluctuation for that day of twenty-five volts below normal to twenty-five volts above normal, 114 volts representing normal.
Mr. Kephart was told while here that it was the purpose of the Hubbard patrons of the Molalla Electric company to keep this matter of service continually before the commission until satisfactorily adjusted. Mr. Kephart stated that before the electric company was entitled to a hearing on the matter of rates that it would have to give service and after that had been attained an investigation into rates charged would be permissible.—Enterprise.
