In connection with the "tell the truth—it is good enough" policy, much debate was provoked at the open forum meeting of the Commercial club last night. J. W. Chambers, Sr., of the Chambers Furniture company, abhorring the fact that some people are inclined to speak ill of the city and county, declared that he would like to see a law in the court causing the fine of $10 to anyone convicted of such conduct. He said that there is absolutely nothing in either the city or county to be spoken derisively of, several others spoke against exaggeration of conditions in the city and county, saying that the truth was even "so good as to be suspected."

"TELL THE TRUTH IS SLOGAN FOR BOOKLET OF CLUB FEDERATION

"Tell the truth—that's good enough." And following out this dictum the County Federation of Clubs is preparing a booklet, soon to be published, for distribution in all parts of the world, telling of the opportunities in Marion county. The book will have 48 pages—one for every town—and on each page will be cited those things that township is most proud of. But there will be absolutely no exaggeration of these things. In fact, the men engaged in preparing the booklet, have been instructed to leave out the most favorable reports of crops etc., that the persons receiving the booklet will not know exactly what is to be found within the borders of the county should they come here. Booklet Unique in State. This booklet will be the only one of its kind to be prepared in the state. Twenty per cent of the copies to be made for the Salem Commercial club will be sent to the Portland Chamber of Commerce for distribution. Those persons desiring more explicit information of anyone county will, as a matter of necessity, then be given a booklet on Marion county. This is regarded as one of the most effective steps ever to be taken by commercial organizations for advertising Marion county.
