

PEACE TREATY DEFEATED BUT NOT DEAD; SECOND INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE COMING

PRESIDENT TO PUT PACT UP TO NEXT SESSION

Failure Of Ratification Proposal Means Only Continued Fight; Wilson Expected To Issue Statement.

By Raymond Clapper (United Press Staff Correspondent.) Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson is expected to submit the peace treaty to the next session of congress, starting December 1, in another attempt to obtain its ratification. The treaty is dead today, so far as the senate is concerned. It went back to Wilson, following failure of the ratification vote at the spectacular final session last night. The Lodge resolution of ratification, containing reservations, was turned down 41 to 51. The resolution of unqualified ratification was defeated, 38 to 53.

NATION LOOKS TO CHIEF FOR NEXT MOVE IN FIGHT

By Hugh Baillie (United Press Staff Correspondent.) Washington, Nov. 20.—The nation's attention was riveted on the White House today for the next move in the peace treaty battle. Friends of President Wilson could not believe he would swallow defeat on the treaty and the league of nations, in the interests of which he has already sacrificed his health.

The president, it was understood today is working on a statement to the people telling them that chaos confronts the world as a result of the treaty failure, that it is a victory for bolshevism and Germany, and putting the blame on leaders of the opposition in the senate. His hottest shot may be reserved for his message to the regular session of congress December 1, to which he intends to submit the treaty. One of his first moves was expected to be formal withdrawal of the treaty from congress—where it has been laid on the table—so that it may be presented again. Failure of the treaty knocked the ground from under hopes that there would be a "wet" Christmas Peace, through treaty ratification, is farther away than ever before, it seemed. The only chance of the wets was that the president would issue a proclamation of peace and lift the war time prohibition ban, regardless of consequences but this seemed hardly probable.

Foreign Reaction Watched. The administration today was anxiously awaiting the world's reaction to the treaty defeat. Government officials believed it would be a severe shock to other nations which participated in the peace conference, pointing out that America took the lead through out and now refuses to accept the document or be a party to any of the arrangements it sets up. President Wilson himself is known to believe that with the United States standing aloof, Europe is liable to be plunged into another war, worse than the one just ended, in which this country will again become involved. Those close to him say he regarded the league of nations as the only safeguard against this. Therefore he is expected to continue his fight. If the league should hold together without the United States, the president fears the two important countries shut out from the league would be thrown together in an entente and that is the object toward which Germany propagandists are working.

TREATY TO BECOME EFFECTIVE DEC. 1 COUNCIL DECIDES

Paris, Nov. 20.—The peace treaty will become effective by December 1, the supreme council decided today. Nations which have accepted the treaty will exchange formal ratification in time for the pact to become effective on that date.

Professors Patten and Weisman of the faculty of Oregon Agricultural college have purchased a 95 acre tract near Sheridan, which they will plant to walnuts and loganberries.

ESCAPED CONVICT AND TR. IN ROBBER ELUDES SEVEN POSSES TO DATE

Denver, Colo., Nov. 20.—William Carlisle today had outgassed seven posses, a troop of United States cavalry and the keenest sleuths of the Union Pacific railroad, hunting him for train robbery after his escape from Rawlins penitentiary in a wooden box. The latest authentic clue to Carlisle's whereabouts came from Casper, Wyo., where he was said to have entered a newspaper office and nervously inquired how the chase was progressing.

Another theory that he had entered Denver on a Union Pacific freight train caused the local police to throw out a dragnet. Carlisle is conceded by authorities to be the most daring train bandit ever operating in this region. The search for the escaped convict is the biggest man hunt ever staged in the west. The Casper report did not surprise law officers because in 1916, before he was caught following three successful train robberies, Carlisle had forced an armed train guard to "pass the hat" in one holdup, robber another train after informing Union Pacific officials of his plans and kept an admiring public laughing at his pursuers with his letters to newspapers. His escape from prison in a shirt packing case and his single handed hold up of a Los Angeles limited Tuesday, despite presence of an armed guard on the train, were on a par with his former exploits.

CONFESSION OF CONVICT CLEARS TWO MYSTERIES

Through the confession of Frank Wagner, alias Frank Weger, 35, now in the penitentiary serving a 40-year term for crimes committed in Astoria and vicinity, made today to Sheriff Needham and Deputy Warden Tally, two robberies that have been puzzling authorities here for a long time have been cleared up. Wagner admitted to the officers that he robbed the store of Smith & Fontaine, at Jefferson, June 1, and the stores of Julius Alms, clothing, and Springs & Banks, grocers, at Silverton, the night of June 25. Information that Wagner was connected with the robberies led authorities to make an investigation the past few days that led up to the convict making a clean breast of the whole affair. He has been bound over to the grand jury, but will continue serving his term at the penitentiary.

In his statement to Sheriff Needham and Deputy Warden Tally, Wagner told how Louis Tebeau and Howard Coffman, who were released from prison last week, were arrested and suspected of the robberies he had committed himself. Wagner Escaped. About a week after the robbery of the stores at Silverton, when clothing valued at $150 and bonds, war savings stamps and cash worth $250 were stolen, Coffman and Hebeau were arrested per Portland for speeding. Wagner, who was in the auto, which had gone to Silverton and Jefferson to pick up the loot Wagner had taken in his burglaries, leaped from the machine and made his escape in some nearby brush. Coffman and Tebeau, who were parole violators, were returned to the penitentiary. Wagner remained free until arrested and convicted at Astoria. Wagner also told Sheriff Needham that he had cached a quantity of dynamite and caps near Milwaukee. He did not say what he had intended to do with this. He also told how he robbed a store at Amity, and had picked up the loot with the auto driven by Tebeau.

Three Killed And One Hurt In Los Angeles Auto Crash

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Three men were killed and one woman was seriously injured early today when their automobile crashed into a Pacific Electric freight train at 25th and Alameda streets. Peggy Perry, 28, pretty motion picture actress, suffered a broken leg and painful burns which, resulted when the automobile caught fire after the wreck.

BATTLESHIP CALIFORNIA IS LAUNCHED

Mare Island, Cal., Nov. 20.—The super-dreadnaught California, which was launched this afternoon, stranded on the mud flat on the Vallejo side of the Mare Island channel. Powerful checking devices used to stop America's largest battleship were not strong enough to prevent the vessel dashing into the mud and tearing down a number of piles. The California was not damaged, it is believed. As it slid down the ways it gathered a speed of about 12 knots and momentum sufficient to carry it two miles in smooth water. The California is 824 feet long and the channel is less than twice that number of feet in width. The shell of the ship with its present equipment weighs about 16,000 tons.

Real Champagne Used. Little difficulty will be experienced, it is believed, in towing the California off the mud flats and the launching, despite the unfortunate incident, was considered a success. Mrs. Randolph Zane, daughter of Governor Stephens and widow of the late Major Randolph Zane, broke a bottle of real champagne on the bow, the bugle sounded attention and the signal was given by Commander Beach of Mare Island navy yard. The great shell was released and rapidly gathered momentum as it slid down the ways. Immediately after it had reached the water, however, the powerful hydraulic checking devices which had been devised expressly for this purpose, were brought into play. They checked the monster vessel almost immediately and it was unnecessary to point its nose down the channel.

Employment of Aliens On Roads Denied By Boss

The charge made by Sheriff Wilson of Clackamas county in a letter to Governor Olcott that certain men in the employ of the Western Contract company engaged in state highway work in Clackamas county are un-American and not entitled to be paid out of the funds of good American citizens is emphatically denied by C. H. Knowles in charge of contracting work in question. In a telephone conversation with Herbert S. Nunn, state highway engineer, this morning Knowles stated that there were at one time a few agitators in his camp but that these have been eliminated by discharge. Inasmuch as Knowles is an overseas veteran with 18 months of active service to his credit and a member of the American Legion, members of the state highway department here are inclined to regard his statement as sufficient.

SPOKANE DOCTORS REFUSES SERVICES TO SCHOOL CLINIC

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 20.—School and Red Cross officials today are up in arms against the Spokane County Medical association, following the summary closing of a junior Red Cross clinic at one of the public schools. The clinic, consisting of a five-bed ward and an operating room, installed at an expense of $2000, was to have been devoted to treating children of parents who couldn't afford to send their children to regular paid hospitals. The medical association served notice on its members that if they donated their time to the clinic they would court the disfavor of the association, on which they are dependent for much of their practice. The association charges that the free clinic privilege is abused by many who can afford to pay for service. School officials are point to Seattle's success with a free clinic, and are preparing to go ahead despite the medical association.

MISSING MAN'S BODY FOUND

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 19.—The body of C. P. Cobb, missing from this city since November 10 has been found frozen in a snowdrift, 17 miles from Orient Ferry county. Cobb, on a hunting trip, apparently fell down a 50 foot bank, so crippling himself that he was unable to get back to a cabin about a mile away.

PLOT TO ROB BANK AT SHEDD REVEALED; MEN LOST NERVE IN CRISIS

How a daring robbery of the bank at Shedd, Or., was planned and carried up to the point where the robber intended to hold up the cashier, when he got "cold feet" and fled; and the story of his thrilling escape to Portland, became known today upon information given out by Sheriff Needham and Prosecuting Attorney Gahler. Portland authorities have been notified and a search for the would-be robbers is being conducted in the Rose City. Taxi Driver Tells. Word of the contemplated robbery was given the sheriff and prosecuting attorney and local police by a taxi driver who was defrauded out of $50 by the men. Armistice day he told the authorities he was engaged by the man, who offered to give him $50 "if he'd drive him fast and wouldn't break his neck," to drive him to Shedd and return to Portland. Something came up, however, and the man didn't go on Armistice day. November 12, evidently believing it the proper time to stage the robbery, he called upon the taxi driver, whose name has been withheld by police, and was driven to Shedd. Acts Are Suspicious. While there he aroused the suspicion of the driver. He ordered the car stopped in front of the Bank of Shedd, and entered saying he intended to "cancel some checks." Soon, according to the story of the taxi man, he appeared and made a careful survey of the building. Then he entered again. "For the third time he came out, and ordered the driver to 'go like hell to Portland.'" In passing through Salem en route to Portland, the mysterious man tapped the driver on the shoulder and said: "These men are going with us."

Two Join Party Here. And two fellows, uncouthly dressed, unshaven and described by the driver as being tramps, left the front of the Hotel Marion and entered the car. They then drove to Aurora, where the man again ordered the car stopped. The trio vanished behind a shed at the paving plant there and held a lengthy consultation. In returning to the car the leader of the band dropped a bunch of envelopes. Although the taxi driver called his attention to it, he did not pick them up. He then ordered the driver to make haste to Portland, getting them in their at 6 o'clock that night. Trio Disappear. Upon the orders of the leader, the driver went to the North End, and the two men, suspected as being accomplices in the planned robbery, left the machine at different places in the underworld. The leader, saying that he would take a car to Portland Heights, where he wished to go, dismissed the driver, leaving a 22 calibre revolver in the seat. He did not pay the driver. Returning to Salem the taxi driver reported the whole affair to the authorities. Investigation revealed that the fellow had entered the bank at Shedd, and had made several remarks leading the cashier to believe that he intended to hold up the bank. He seemed to lack the courage, however, and the cashier ordered him out. No Trace Found. It was first thought that the men might be connected with the robbery of the Harrisburg bank several weeks ago, when $120,000 worth of bonds and certificates were stolen. Later information, however, relieved this trio of complicity in this robbery. Sheriff Needham, believing that if the trio planned to rob the bank, they would make a later attempt, and kept a close watch throughout the county for their reappearance. But they have not since been reported seen, although accurate descriptions of the men have been broadly circulated.

Hunted "Red" Is Thought To Be Surrounded

Centralia, Wash., Nov. 20.—No further reports have been received from the posse which was reported last night to have surrounded a man believed to be Ole Hanson near Rochester, the United Press learned at 7:30 o'clock this morning at American Legion headquarters. Hanson is one of the two I. W. W. outlaws who are still being sought in connection with the Armistice day murders. The reported employment of the man believed to be Hanson is said to have followed a skirmish between him, a companion and the posse just before dark Wednesday evening. The posse came upon the bandits holding up a woman and demanding food. They ran, and after replying to the fire of the posse disappeared. A runner who returned to Centralia last night reported that the posse thought it had succeeded in surrounding the outlaws.

CENTRALIA POLICE NOT YET ARRIVED TO TAKE RADICALS BACK

Edward W. Coffee, 24, and Walter Larson, 24, suspected of complicity in the shooting at Centralia, Wash., Armistice day, and who were arrested here by police Tuesday, were still in jail here this afternoon. The officer from Centralia, expected to arrive here this morning to return the pair to the scene of the massacre, had not yet, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, arrived and police here have heard nothing further from the Washington town. The officer is expected to arrive this evening, however. Neither Larson or Coffee will discuss the affair. They seem anxious to keep in touch with events in connection with the search for "reds" in the Washington hills, and several times today asked police in charge at headquarters for newspapers. BATTLE ON "REDS" URGED. Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 20.—A nation wide campaign by city, county, state and federal authorities, against all forms of radicalism, was advocated by Governor Campbell in a statement given the press. Declaring the radicals thrive on publicity, he urged that the campaign be carried on quietly until the country is rid of such elements.

EXCHANGE GOES LOW

New York, Nov. 20.—Sterling exchange today broke through $4 at the opening of the foreign exchange here, setting a new low record. Demand bills were quoted at 43 3/8, off one and one-fourth cent. Franc checks opened at 97 1/2 francs, off five centimes.

WILSON CALLS NEW ECONOMIC SESSION TODAY

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson today dispatched invitations to seventeen men to constitute an industrial commission. The formation of this body has been under consideration for several weeks. The new commission will meet in Washington December 1. Secretary Wilson will be included, it was announced. Others invited were: T. W. Gregory, former attorney general; George W. Wickersham, Oscar S. Straus, Henry W. Robinson, Prof. Frank Rausser, Samuel W. McCall, Herbert Hoover, Martin H. Glynn, Henry C. Stuart, Dr. William O. Thompson, president of Ohio State university; Richard Hooker, George T. Slade, Julius Rosenwald, O. D. Young, H. J. Waters and Stanley King. None of these men was a member of the industrial conference which broke up in Washington. Suggestion Followed. The invitations were sent through Secretary Wilson to whom the president dispatched the following explanatory communication: "My dear Mr. Secretary: In accordance with the suggestion given me by the public group of the recent industrial conference, I am calling a new body together to carry on this vitally important work and I trust you will give me the pleasure of naming you as one of its members. Guided by the experience of the last conference, I have thought it advisable that in this new body there should be no recognition of distinctive groups, but that all of the new representatives should have concern that our industries may be conducted with such regard for justice and fair dealing that the workman will feel himself induced to put forth his best efforts, that the employer will have an encouraging profit and that the public will not suffer at the hands of either side. Looking to Future. "It is my hope that this conference may lay the foundation for the development of standards and machinery within our industries by which these results may be obtained. "It is not expected that you will deal directly with any condition which exists today, but that you may be fortunate enough to find such ways as will avoid the repetition of these deplorable conditions. "The conference will meet at a place to be hereafter designated in this city on the first of December next. Cordially and sincerely yours, Woodrow Wilson."

SECOND CLINIC FOR CITY BABIES IS BIG SUCCESS

With the thirty babies registered for the date in attendance with their mothers, the second eugenic clinic to be conducted by the Marion County Children's bureau was held this afternoon in the auditorium of the Salem Commercial club. The tests which were under the supervision of well known doctors and dentists were conducted in a systematic, orderly manner, the confusion incident to the first clinic, when double the number was accepted for examination, being entirely eliminated. Booths screened and placarded admitted but one person beside the mother and child. The work was necessarily more quickly carried on and in consequence more successful. Mrs. N. A. Flegel, president of the Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' association of Portland, was present conducting the work. She was assisted by a group of local women identified with the bureau. Each child was given a number upon arrival and examined according to the plan.

FEELING STILL HIGH OVER MURDER OF LACK

El Centro, Cal., Nov. 20.—(United Press.)—Although feeling is still running high at Calexico over the murder of Eugene Lack in Mexicali by a Mexican policeman, the situation is calmer today. Prompt action by the state department yesterday went far to compose the situation, according to the authorities here. The Mexican officer accused of the murder is held in jail at Mexicali under orders of Governor Cantu of Lower California and will be given a speedy trial under Mexican law, Americans were informed today.

SUFFICIENT REASON

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 20.—J. A. Hatcher signed a note for $500. It worried him so he became almost maddened and used a hot heating stove for a clothes-rack, his wife told the court. Court ruled he need not pay the note after he testified he must have signed it while drugged or unconscious.

BAD CATSUP DESTROYED. Spokane, Wash., Nov. 20.—Five thousand gallons of catsup which the government charged was adulterated, was burned today at the city crematory by the United States marshal, on district court orders. Its approximate value is $4000.

COAL MINERS TURN DOWN WAGE SCALE OFFER OF OWNERS

Washington, Nov. 20.—Increases offered by operators to miners were "temporarily rejected," according to a statement given out at operators' headquarters here late today. Washington, Nov. 20.—Coal operators heretofore made their first offer of increased wages to miners, 400,000 of whom are still on strike. The offer included an increase of 15 cents a ton to machine miners, who are paid on a piece basis, and an increase of 20 per cent to other workers paid by the day. The increase offered machine miners represents approximately one-half of what they demanded, according to William Green of the United Mine Workers. "The machine workers now receive approximately 70 cents a ton," Green said. "Their demands were for approximately 27 cents more per ton. "It can be seen that settlement this week or early next week is not impossible."

LOGANBERRY CASE TO BE OPENED ON FRIDAY

The suit of the Phez company against the Salem Fruit Union and 88 loganberry growers in the county, will begin in district court here tomorrow before Judges Bingham and Kelly. The trial will be bigger than the one of the Salem King Products company against another group of growers, it is said, and much interest in the case is manifest. The Phez company is suing the growers for alleged violation of a contract between them calling for the deliverance of berries to the company's plant. The trial is expected to last several days.
