

Revolution Responsible For Collapse of Hun War Machine Says Hindenburg

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press staff correspondent)
Berlin, Nov. 19.—The final "judgment of history" will show that the revolution was only a "keystone of Germany's military collapse," Field Marshal Von Hindenburg told the reichstag committee investigating the war.

Lack of cooperation, the weakness and failure of political leaders and lack of support in the demand for obedience was the real cause of the disintegration of the German land and naval forces, he declared. Operators were doomed before the revolution, Von Hindenburg insisted. It only put the finishing touches to Germany's collapse.

Yank Entering Forecast
Following Von Hindenburg, Erich Ludendorff, former quartermaster general, who shared with the field marshal the command of Germany's land forces, declared the situation was "most serious" when he and Von Hindenburg assumed command. Germany's armies were outnumbered ten to six he said, and inadequate equipment and ammunition caused heavy losses.

During Von Hindenburg's testimony yesterday the probes produced reports from Daniel Von Hainhausen, former secretary of the German embassy in Washington warning the imperial government that America would enter the war if the threatened unrestricted submarine warfare was started.

America's entry meant defeat for Germany, Von Hainhausen warned, according to his reports, adding that German-Americans in the United States generally were loyal to the American government.

U-boat Decision Hard
Ludendorff brushed these reports aside declaring that "such memoranda" always was referred to the "proper sources."

Von Hindenburg was inclined to give the reports more serious treatment. The decision for unrestricted undersea warfare was the "hardest" of the war, he admitted—excepting only the armistice.

Monarchists and pan-Germans staged a great demonstration at Von Hindenburg and Ludendorff came to the reichstag building yesterday. More than 2000 were gathered in front of the building in a blinding snow storm.

"Hoch Hindenburg! Hoch Ludendorff!" the crowd shouted. Then a group started up Deutschland Uber Alles and soon the whole crowd was singing. As Hindenburg came to the reichstag steps the crowd sang "Heil Dir In Siegerkranz."

Old Chiefs Cheered
Imperial colors appeared from everywhere and many men bared their heads in honor of their old chief.

Inside the reichstag building Von Hindenburg found upon his desk a great bunch of lilies, tied with ribbons in the imperial colors.

Heavily armed guards of the forces of Gustav Noske, minister of defense, plodded through the snow around the reichstag but made no attempt to stop the demonstration in honor of the two warriors. Machine guns were kept in readiness, however.

Another demonstration was staged as Von Hindenburg and Ludendorff left the reichstag. Monarchists again started "Hoch Hindenburg," but the anti-monarchists had gathered and drowned them with a counter demonstration, singing the Marseillaise and shouting "Hindenburg the slaughterer."

Arbitration Treaty Fills Place Of League Says Davis
Edinburgh, Nov. 19.—The British-American arbitration treaty will be the equivalent of the league of nations, in the last analysis, American Ambassador Davis declared in an address to the Scottish-American association here late yesterday.

"The league of nations merely is an effort to make universal those ideas, principles and customs, which America and Great Britain have fostered," Davis told the association.

Husband Given Divorce In Suit Wife Started

Although Mildred Marie Moorman began suit against her husband, James Lotis Moorman, for divorce, the de- was granted Mr. Moorman Thursday by Judge Bingham, and his wife was ordered to pay the costs of the suit.

Mrs. Moorman began suit against her husband alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, but during the trial it was brought out that she had been disloyal to her marriage vows, associated persistently with other men, and treated her spouse cruelly and inhumanly by promising to lead a better life and then failing to abide by her promises.

They were married in Salem, January 1916. On August, it was shown during the trial, Mrs. Moorman, after telling her husband that she was tired of wedded life, ran away to California. Again, in October, 1917, she ran away without his consent, attorneys for Mr. Moorman proved.

BUSINESS MEN TO AIE CAMPAIGN FOR OREGON PRODUCTS

Disappointment over the action of Mayor Wilson in opposing the appointment of additional policemen was expressed at last night's meeting of the Business Men's league. Discussion of the subject was general.

Aspiring to lead the state, and probably the union, the business men named a committee to work in conjunction with the Associated Industries of Oregon to stage a Home Products week in this city some time in January.

The committee is: R. L. Wise, Edward Schunke and Lawrence Gale. During this week it is planned to fill every shop window in the city with home products, and to conduct a diligent campaign pointing out to customers that the home product can be as cheaply and more easily acquired here than elsewhere.

It also is the aim to show the vast amount of manufacturing and producing activities here that now is but little known.

A nominating committee, to select three nominees for the post of director of the league was chosen. It will report at the next meeting of the league, December 17, the names of the candidates. It is rumored that J. W. Chambers, of Chambers & Chambers, furniture dealers, has been mentioned for the place.

A thorough campaign is being conducted in Deschutes county by the First National bank of Bend to induce the farmers of that section to purchase and breed pure-bred dairy cattle.
