

COAL SHORTAGE GROWING ACUTE OVER COUNTRY

plan would be illegal and unconstitutional. Governor Harding have vetoed the United Press that inasmuch as comparatively few mines in this state are idle and production is more than 75 per cent normal, no drastic action is necessary here.

"As to my attitude regarding Governor Harding's proposal the strike has been declared unlawful by the president and the federal court. A vast majority of the miners of this state accepted that decision in good faith."

Would Close Industries. "I would favor closing non-essential industries, conserving the coal supply and fighting it out if it takes all winter, rather than usurp authority not rightly vested in the state.

"Governor Harding's proposal would probably be welcomed by the radical leaders who planned the steel and coal strikes and expected a general railroad strike to pull them across."

Governor Black of Kentucky said: "I will, of course, exercise all the authority I possess in the case of an emergency. Miners are gradually resuming work in Kentucky."

Washington, Nov. 21.—Coal operators and chiefs of four hundred thousand miners still on strike may reach agreement here today or tomorrow. Miners have decided to recede from their demand for sixty per cent wage increase, according to Secretary Green of the United Mine Workers.

"I suppose we shall have to submit a proposal counter to the one the operators made yesterday," said Green. "It will be an irreducible minimum. It probably will be submitted today."

The proposal which the operators made late yesterday was rejected as "entirely inadequate," by the miners. It included an offer of 15 cents more a ton for both machine and powder or pick miners who now receive 72 and 84 cents a ton, respectively.

SEATTLE UNION RECORD PLANT AGAIN SEIZED

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 21.—If the United States marshal's office seized the plant of the Union Record, a labor paper here, a second time on November 14, the seizure was without authority from United States Commissioner McClelland.

This decision was given by the commissioner today. The Union Record's plant was seized the first time on November 13.

"My understanding of the testimony," said McClelland, "is that it was later given up. If that is true the writ of seizure is dead.

The Union Record was closed shortly after the Centralia armistice day killings when warrants were issued against the publishers charging them with violating the espionage law.

Employees of the Union Record appeared at the plant this afternoon and demanded possession of the place. The officer in charge refused the demand, saying he had no authority to surrender it.

Packers Use Old Tactics To Prevent Regulations

Colver, chairman of the federal trade commission, told the convention of American specialty manufacturers here today.

Colver mentioned the resolution by Senator Sherman, charging the commission with treason and the resolution by Senator Watson, charging that employees of the commission were favorable to bolshevism and socialism. He did not, however, mention Watson by name.

Colver said the question to be determined was whether the packers were a "blessing" or a "menace."

HELP FOR THE HAREM UNCLE SAM STEPS IN

1919 GRADUATING CLASS REPRESENTING—3 TURKS 9 ARMENIANS 5 BULGARIANS 4 GREEKS 1 HEBREW

AMERICA is helping all the world. No one needs her more than the shut-in women of the Near East. Christian, Moslem and Jew, they all ask to have windows opened into a larger world. Thousands of them want education and other thousands shipwrecked by war, need training for self-support.

Constantinople College for Women, conducted by the trustees of the American College for Girls at Constantinople in Turkey—chartered under the laws of Massachusetts, with American headquarters at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York city—is doing a great and merciful work among girls by introducing courses in practical arts and professions, so much needed in the new social reconstruction of the immediate future.

Few forces have done more to inculcate the principles of peace and justice in the Balkans and Asia Minor than Constantinople College. Here the daughters of many nations study and live together in complete harmony. Thus they learn a large tolerance that directly influences their lives and the evolution of their people.

The purpose of the college is character building through higher education. It aims to guide the nations of the Near East toward democratic principles, the American spirit of independence and courage and the love of freedom and truth.

est seclusion have been forced by war conditions to break away from custom and become wage earners. For centuries they have received the very slight education required for their limited sphere. With this poor equipment many are now trying to earn a living. The time has come when Turkish women who have long needed and conscientiously desired education are at last permitted to obtain an education.

On every hand there is not only an increased desire for education, but an increased opportunity, unprecedented and amazing, for the educated woman to be of service. Closed doors have been opened and fifteen nationalities of the Near East are waiting for the help of their own trained women.

With a modest beginning as a mission school on the Asiatic shore of the Bosphorus, Constantinople College has developed from year to year until today it has the distinction of being the only college of its kind in the Near East. It occupies a site of fifty-four acres on a hill at Arnautkoy, on the European shore of the Bosphorus, about six miles from the center of the city. It has a faculty of American women and Near Eastern scholars. Its curriculum is based on those of the best women's colleges in the United States. The work of Constantinople College is entirely non-sectarian; the students include girls of every faith. This institution is not endowed. It is maintained by voluntary contributions supplementing student fees.
