

FIRST OF SERIES OF RILEY RECITALS TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

The first of a series of three Riley recitals will be given Tuesday evening by the Public Speaking Department of Willamette University, under the direction of Professor Della Crowder-Miller. The second recital will be presented December 4, and the last number December 11.

Forty students of the department will assist Professor Miller in the presentation of the living characters of Riley's poetry on the stage.

The public will recall that Professor Miller was author and director of the pageant which was presented at Willamette University last spring, and which attracted such wide attention throughout the west.

Given in Play Form

The numbers, which are entirely the class work of the students, have been arranged in play form, to represent Indians folk as Riley knew them.

The first program, next Tuesday night will represent morning; a fairy will swing back the gates of memory, and the audience will be permitted to look upon those folk as they go about the farm, each at his separate task.

The second recital, given December 4, will represent the afternoon of this day, when "Granny comes to our house," and the "Raggedy Man mows our lawn," and "Our Hired Girl" bakes the pies, and the children romp and play and swing under the old apple tree.

The third program, given December 11, will represent evening among the Riley folk. Of course the center table and the family group thereabout, the blazing fire and the little family organ in the corner will be seen. There will be a little Mille, who will entertain sister Eliza's beau prior to her appearance. Uncle Sidney will gather the children about him for the nightly story, as it was in the experience of the poet himself; and there will be reminiscences from those who have long since left the morning of life and whose glance is now turned back. The audience will see the faithful mother revealing her devotion to her home and her God. There will also be the hard-working father, whose sleep is made sweeter because of the patter of the rain on the low roof above his head. The old negro Pete, true to the characteristics of his race, when left alone fears the spooks and "hants," and is much relieved when Mother and Eliza return from prayer meeting. Then there is the hour of devotion, when the mother offers up the prayer for the family. The windows one by one grow dark, and the day is closing for those inside the little house; when a stranger passing by sees the mother's up-turned face as she calls down God's blessing on the household. Realizing that he has neither mother nor home, his yearnings carry him back to the time when his mother used to sing him to sleep. A fairy, found so often in the Riley Child Rhymes, glides here and there and adds a touch of romanticism and beauty to the humor and pathos found in the lives of these simple Riley folk. The fairy closes the gates of memory; and so the third number ends.

Setting Unusual. The settings for these programs will be most unusual. A stage will be made up of Hoosier timber and shrubbery, with the landscape in the distance, revealing the fields of corn, and the rolling hills of Indiana. Of course there will be the sycamore and birch trees, through which the candle lights from the little cottage glitter and gleam. There will be the vines climbing the little porch, showing the old-fashioned morning-glories and roses. A low fence borders the front lawn.

Professor Miller's unusual dramatic construction of this cycle, revealing the Hoosier characters in this Hoosier setting "On the Banks of the Wabash, Far Away," will be one of the most artistic productions the University has ever offered.

Knew Riley Personally. Professor Miller knew Riley personally, and lived near him and among the folks he writes of, for six years. She first met him in 1905. Later he commended and entrusted to her the interpretation of his poems. When the University of Indiana conferred an honorary doctor's degree on Mr. Riley, she was present as one of his friends. Several years later she gave a recital in Greenfield, Indiana, and was entertained in the home of John Riley, an older brother of the poet. It was from him, and from the many friends and relatives of the Riley family that Professor Miller gained most of her knowledge of the poet's life and work.

This "literary play" which is built upon the incidents and around the unique setting is the original conception of Professor Miller. She has narrated, and will put them into book form. She expects the book to be off the press by Dec. 20.

Miss Ruth Bedford, one of Professor Miller's students, has composed a piano interpretation of "Illies" which will be pantomimed by other students as Miss Bedford interprets it. Professor Miller has composed a musical theme interpreting two of Riley's poems of home life, which will be sung. There will be choruses and vocal and violin solos, interpreting other Riley poems.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. For 17 years he used these tablets as a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil in his private practice with great success. They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pain, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.

It isn't always on-coming old age that causes men and women in the middle years of life to slow up and feel a loss of ambition and energy. Eat Less And Take Salts For Kidneys

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing in time. (Adv.)
