

BOTH PARTIES PREPARE FOR '20 CAMPAIGN

Democratic And Republican Leaders Make Ready For National Committee Meetings In Washington.

By Hugh Baillie
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, Nov. 25.—Republicans and democrats today began actively organizing for the business of electing a president of the United States in 1920. Leaders were on the ground arranging for meetings of the democratic and republican national committees here January 8 and December 10, respectively, to pick convention cities.

Press agents representing the candidates were also beginning to appear, armed with much literature. Announcements of new candidates were expected to come thick and fast from the G. O. P. ranks within a few days, but the democrats were holding back.

Issues Uncertain.
There were many ideas as to what the issue would be. Miles Poindexter, senator from Washington and one of the first republican aspirants in the field, declared it would be bolshevism and that he would make his fight on a platform promising eradication of the "red" menace.

Senator Lodge's expressed willingness to go to the country with the peace treaty as an issue made it appear that he had presidential aspirations himself.

Senator Harding, Ohio, also a candidate, has not yet announced his conception of what the principal point of contention between the two major parties will be.

Some Holding Back.
Senator Johnson of California is understood to be planning his race on a "straight American" platform.

Some of the candidates who loom biggest, such as Governor Loden of Illinois and General Wood, have not entered the battle of press agents here as yet, the inference being they are holding back until the situation is a little more clarified.

As for the democrats, the fact that none has come out for the candidacy gave strength to a report here that President Wilson in spite of information to the contrary has not yet made up his mind with regard to making a third effort.

With the treaty out of the way, there is little doubt that, in view of his illness and his weariness of public life, he would be willing to step aside and not even participate actively in the campaign.

But if the treaty is to be the issue, the president may deem it his duty either to head the ticket which supports ratification or take a prominent part in naming that leader and fighting for his election.

McAdoo for Labor.
W. C. McAdoo was seen today as a bidder for labor support if he becomes a candidate. In view of his telegram to Fuel Administrator Garfield, vigorously supporting the miners wage demands and opposing the idea of letting the public pay the increase.

But McAdoo has not avowed his intentions and the other democratic possibilities, including Governor Cox and A. Mitchell Palmer, are keeping very quiet.

W. J. Bryan, although he has said he has no more political ambitions, is frequently brought into the situation when the democratic aggregation is being looked over.

Many cities are bidding for the republican national convention. They include San Francisco, Chicago, Asbury Park, St. Paul and Minneapolis combined. For the democratic convention, Baltimore, Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis are among those bidding.

TURKEY SUPPLY SHORT; HIGHER PRICES BLAMED

With turkeys selling at 65 cents wholesale on the Portland market, while only bringing 50 cents retail in Salem, the supply of Thanksgiving birds in this city is going to be considerable short of the demand, in the opinion of market men.

TURKEY SUPPLY SHORT; HIGHER PRICES BLAMED

Up to the present time the supply here has been but little better than the early orders for the birds and it is expected that the eleventh hour rush will find the local dealers unable to supply all their customers.

TURKEY SUPPLY SHORT; HIGHER PRICES BLAMED

But scarcity of the birds is not the only reason for the fancy prices they are bringing, according to growers, although it is a big factor. High prices of feeds has made a greater return necessary and has resulted in many farmers cutting down their flocks.

EMERGENCY BOARD HEARING REQUEST OF GRAIN DEPARTMENT

A deficiency appropriation of $18,800 for the maintenance of the state grain inspection department is being sought by the public service emergency board in session today. EMERGENCY BOARD HEARING REQUEST OF GRAIN DEPARTMENT

According to statements brought out at the session the present deficiency is the result of a "double cross" on the part of the Washington grain inspection department which, after agreeing to with the Oregon commission to a schedule of fees adequate to cover the expenses of the department secured a state appropriation to meet overhead expenses and reduced inspection fees necessitating a similar reduction in fees on the part of the Oregon department.
