

MALONE REFUSED CHANCE TO TELL PART HE PLAYED

New York, Nov. 27.—(United Press)—The Lusk legislative investigating committee Wednesday refused to allow Dudley Field Malone, prominent New York attorney and former collector of the port of New York, to complete his voluntary testimony before the committee.

During a tumultuous session of the committee which had been hearing testimony of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, "ambassador" from the soviet government of Russia, Assemblyman McGilligott ordered Malone off the stand after Assistant Attorney Charles B. Newton had accused Malone of attempting to insult the committeemen.

Malone appeared before the committee and asked to be allowed to make a statement, which he said was due him following testimony given yesterday by Martens, who said Malone had accepted $1000 for legal advice given the "soviet ambassador."

Malone was sworn and accorded the privilege of testifying as a "voluntary witness." He had not finished his first sentence before Newton sprang to his feet and shouted to him to stop. Malone had started his statement with: "I come as a taxpayer, a citizen and a member of the bar to denounce the immoral, cowardly and un-American conduct of this investigation by your counsel and the attorney general."

"Wait a moment. You must not continue these remarks," shouted Newton, his face flushed.

Talk Grows Heated.
"You have no right to interrupt. Only the chairman has. If what I say is not true, the committee has full right to examine the facts," returned Malone.

Assemblyman McGilligott: "You could at least be polite to the attorney general. Your attitude is discourteous to the committee."

Malone: "The attorney general insinuated in questioning Martens yesterday that I had misused political influence and I now demand an opportunity to explain the true facts."

Newton: "A courteous was extended Malone in making the statement. The manner in which he started showed he did not want to explain but to insult the committee."

McGilligott to Malone: "Leave the stand. You are here to agitate and not to explain."

Insists on Hearing.
"I am not agitated, but determined," retorted Malone.

"Your opening statement does not warrant further courtesy. Please step down," shouted McGilligott.

"I insist I be given a hearing. I have already given a statement to the press," pleaded Malone.

"We have had enough out of you," said McGilligott.

"You will hear more out of me before it is over if you continue these insinuations are now under way in Copenhagen between representatives of Great Britain and Litvinoff, soviet representative, regarding the question of recognition."

HUNS REPORTED TO BE BLOCKING PEACE

By Carl D. Gross
(United Press staff correspondent)
Berlin, Nov. 27.—Strong pressure is being brought to bear on the German government to force refusal of the entente protocol, providing enforcement of the peace treaty, it was learned.

The democrats particularly desire this refusal. It was learned. They object principally to the provisions requiring Germany to deliver certain stocks and shipping to the entente, claiming even if France occupies a larger part of western Germany it is better than a surrender of shipping facilities, which will paralyze the nation's maritime and industrial life.

Some democrats even predicted fall of the government if it yields to the entente demands.

View in connection with the workmen's council law—which gives workers a partial share in the management of industry—this opposition apparently may render the government's bloc precarious.

France, in the opinion of the confident democrats, is "whistling in the dark" to keep up her courage since American support vanished through the senate's refusal to accept the Franco-American treaty.

C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner, left Wednesday for Toledo and Newport on official business.

Be Young for Your Years

You were taught at school that your body undergoes a complete change of structure every seven years.

This tearing down and building up process of body tissue continues without a moment's pause throughout life.

And when a man gets into a physical condition that the tissues keep breaking down and wasting away faster than Nature can replace them, right then he begins to grow "old."

This doesn't necessarily mean, however, that he has reached an advanced age. Thousands upon thousands of people begin to break down, their vital organs giving evidence of fast approaching decay, long before they reach middle age simply because they fail to give Nature, at the proper time, the needed help to rebuild.

If you are beginning to show the slightest sign of a physical "let-down"—if you are losing your "old time" pep, vim and vigor—if high tension energy and nervous strain are beginning to tell on you—it's a sure sign that you are growing "old"—too old for your years. You've reached that stage where your vital forces need rebuilding. Don't make the serious mistake
