

CHRISTMAS SEALS SALES GOING FASTER THAN EVER BEFORE

Throughout the state of Oregon the sale of Christmas seals is going bigger than ever before. The main office of the Association in Portland is deluged with mail, including letters containing checks, many of which are for twice the amounts usually sent by the same subscribers and letters from the county chairmen, principals of rural schools and others handling the sale of the seals. These are almost invariably for additional supplies of seals and health bonds. The health bond, which is issued in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100, is for the convenience of those who wish to make a substantial contribution to the tuberculosis work and yet haven't any use for a large number of seals.

Oregon's budget for 1920 is $44,260 and it will be necessary that five seals per capita for the entire population of the state be sold if this budget is reached. The extensive educational and preventive work which the association has planned for the year will demand a larger outlay than ever before, hence it is necessary that the full amount be raised if the dreaded white plague of which there are at all times 8,000 open cases in Oregon, is to be checked.

Dr. David N. Roberts, state health officer, says of the seal sale: "The Oregon Tuberculosis Association since its organization four years ago has served as an efficient and valuable adjunct to the State Board of Health. Although organized to combat tuberculosis the association has at all times given cognizance to all matters affecting public health."

Higher Skirts Due; Misses' Are Not So Long

Cleveland, O., Dec. 8.—Skirts will be still higher in the spring of 1920, according to decree of the styles committee of National Cost, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association in convention here. Anywhere between two and five inches will be lopped off to raise skirts from seven to nine inches off the ground as compared with four and six inches of the present style, the committee decided. An extra inch anyway will be given misses' skirts. The committee held that skirts ten inches above the ground is proper for the younger women.

Prices will also stay up, Michael Prinz, Cleveland, chairman of the styles committee said. Good material for suits and skirts is at a premium and mildly insists on having the best, he said.

TOOZE TO MANAGE POINDEXTER'S FIGHT FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Walter L. Tooze, Jr., of McMinnville, has been chosen to swing the helm of Senator Poindexter's campaign to win the primary endorsement of Oregon electorates through which the Washington candidate hopes to clinch the votes of Oregon's delegates to the republican national convention next June, says the Portland Journal. He was selected by Poindexter upon the recommendation of Jonathan Bourne, who used to figure in the politics of Oregon, and who, it seems, has thrown himself and the propaganda machinery which he finances and directs behind Poindexter's presidential hopes and aspirations.

Tooze is the third presidential manager to make his appearance in the local field. Joseph E. Dunn, who, when not in politics, is the manager of the Hazelwood Ice Cream company, has been announced as the pilot selected to guide Governor Lowden's candidacy past the rocks in the Oregon channel. Dow V. Walker, who has resigned both his managership of the Multnomah club and his official connection with the American Legion to conduct the state campaign of General Leonard Wood, is the second wale Tooze is to face.

There is yet three to come, for it is scheduled that there are to be at least six presidential candidates who will try to win first place in the preference at the Oregon electorate. Lowden, Wood, and Poindexter have already made their appearance. Brian Johnson of California, Jim Watson of Indiana and Senator Harding of Ohio are yet to appear.

CRIME MEDICINE IS FURNISHED BY COURT

Portland, Or., Dec. 8.—Preventive medicine for crime is being successfully used in Portland. The city's greatest hospital for juveniles is not presided over by physicians and surgeons, but by a judge and psychologist.

Judge Jacob Kandler has completed his first half year as judge of the domestic relations court where psychology is applied to crime and law breakers. The expert who diagnosis every case which comes before the court is Dr. S. C. Kohs, former professor of psychology at Reed College.

"We try to help criminals rather than merely punish them," said Dr. Kohs, in an address at Reed college. "Most of them are really normal, and if we get them young enough we can help them."

"One of the greatest evils we have to fight is the results of corporal punishment in the public schools. It is brutal and unnecessary, and turns away those children who need education most. When boys and girls go wrong there's a reason. In the past, courts have punished each case by itself. We are diagnosing each case by psychological methods to discover the reason back of the crime, and we are helping the offender instead of merely punishing him."

Dr. Kohs characterized people who oppose the psychological methods of his court as chronic kickers. "When they were children, they were the kind who smash furniture and break crockery for pleasure," he said.

WAR PRISONERS ARE MISTREATED, CHARGE

Berlin, Dec. 8.—(United Press.)—The government today handed to the inter-allied naval mission a note of protest in connection with alleged mistreatment of German war prisoners.

The note grew out of an incident reported from Kiel. The British steamer Santa Elena, it was semi-officially stated, was carrying 500 German prisoners from England when one man escaped at Kiel. British sailors fired at the man. The German commandant then occupied the locks, went aboard the Santa Elena and investigated, it was stated. Prisoners complained to him, according to the statement, they feared they were being taken to Poland where they would be forced to enlist in the Polish army. They declared 400 German prisoners previously had been forced to do this.

The German commander ordered the prisoners released, the statement said, as they were within territorial waters. The British released them under protest.

ADMIT WILLAMETTE INTO NORTHWESTERN COLLEGE CONFERENCE

The northwest college conference at Seattle Saturday admitted to membership Willamette University.

Acceptance of the Salem school was at first voted down because of its application for admittance as a basketball member. When Coach Matthews changed the application to read "branches of sport," the conference accepted the application. Admittance to the conference, however, does not mean that Willamette must participate in all major sports.

The Pacific Coast college conference decided to postpone for one year action on the application of the University of Southern California for admittance to the conference.

Freshmen Games Limited.

Freshmen football teams were limited to two intercollegiate games in one season. No limit was placed on the number of high school gridiron games which the freshmen may play. It was decided that all freshmen football activities cease two weeks previous to Thanksgiving day.

Instead of medals and cups for winners of the annual conference track meet it was voted to present the team winning the most number of points with a plaque.

A resolution was adopted providing that no member of the conference may play more than one traditional gridiron contest each season.

The traditional games of the conference are University of Oregon versus Oregon Agricultural college, University of California versus Stanford university, University of Washington versus Washington State college.

Each to Play Three.

Heretofore California put across its annual tussle with Stanford, which this year drew close to $50,000 in gate receipts, and then played Washington in Seattle, thus giving the two largest schools two big moneymaking games to the detriment of the other four schools.

As the rule now stands each school will play three conference games with a fourth contest optional.

Forest Maps For Airplane Patrol Being Prepared

Lumbermen and Loggers throughout Oregon are requested, in a letter being forwarded by State Forester Elliott today, to cooperate with his department in the compilation of a new set of maps especially for the use of air plane pilots in patrolling the forests of the state during the coming season. The compilation is being made at the request of the federal air service which will provide and maintain the patrols. Cut-over lands from logging operations, the location of saw-mills the smoke from which is easily discernible from great heights, logging railroads and other salient features of the landscape as will aid the air patrol in its work will be indicated on the new maps.

WILDE ATTRIBUTES DEFEAT TO EXCESS OF TRAINING

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 8.—Jimmy Wilde today attributed his poor showing against Sharkey here Saturday night to the fact that he entered the ring weighing several pounds above his normal fighting condition.

Wilde was forced to make 167 pounds in order to fight under the Wisconsin boxing commission rules, which prevent more than a 10 pound difference in weight in fighters of that class.

The British flyweight champion stated the excess weight slowed up.

SIX INDICTED

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 8.—Six men have been indicted by the Mahaska county grand jury investigating the mysterious fires which destroyed residences and churches of Hollanders in that section of the state during the last year, according to word received today at the office of Attorney General Havner.

The state alleged the accused conspired to drive the Hollanders out of the Holland county by burning their homes and business buildings.

he case is expected to be brought to trial during January.
