Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Keene and daughter, Ruby, of San Francisco, are in Salem for the holidays, as the guests of Mr. Keene's brother, Ed Keene, of the Salem Hardware company. They are former residents of Salem, and are well known here. Mr. Keene is now a successful business man of the California metropolis.

Dr. Linton, the well known physician of Waldport spent Friday in Salem visiting old friends.

W. S. Clement, residing near Quincy, has discovered a new variety of blackberry, and is of the opinion that it will be extremely popular after it has been cultivated more thoroughly. The first plant, Mr. Clement says, was a chance seedling discovered near Hubbard several years ago. The vine, which is a vigorous trailer, yields as abundantly as the evergreen or loganberry, ripening about July 1. The fruit is sub-acid, and excellent for canning purposes. Before placing the plant on the market Mr. Clement desires to do some private cultivating, and will set out 200 young plants on his own farm next spring.

D. L. Polindexter of Bowbells, N. Dak., who has been in Salem for the past three or four weeks, has become so charmed with the Willamette valley, that he is considering settling in this section. Mr. Polindexter, formerly a merchant of Bowbells, sold out his business interests there, some time ago with a view to settling in the west. He spent several weeks in Washington and Montana before coming to Oregon, but in his opinion, this state is superior to any he has yet seen.

E. J. Greenwood, operator of a large ranch near Lebanon, has been held up in the Capital city since the first days of the storm, and plans to remain here until the roads between this city and his home, are made passable. Mr. Greenwood motored to Salem last Monday, intending to return immediately. Being imbued with the ambition of the average Oregon farmer, he would rather work than "load" and so is improving each shining hour by working for the Oregon Electric company, until such time as he can safely drive home.

Rebecca K. Wait, 83, a widow resident of this city for 23 years, passed away at her old home, 507 N. 20th street, Thursday evening. Paralysis is believed to have hastened death. No funeral arrangements have yet been made; but the body is at the W. T. Rigdon company's parlors. Mrs. Wait is mourned by six children, Mary Wait, Salem; Mrs. B. Southwick, Salem; O. C. Wait, Salem; Otis Wait, Rickreall, Ore.; G. K. Wait, Rickreall, Ore.; F. L. Wait, Calgary, Canada; and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Egan, and one brother, James Bowen, both of Silverton, also survive her.

James S. Stewart of Corvallis is in Salem today calling on state officials on his way to Portland where he will attend the session of the State Highway Commission tomorrow. "Jim" declares that he is not worrying at all about whether the legislature will grant him his seat in the house at the special session as he would just as soon stand as to sit down anyhow. Stewart will attempt to have the legislature refer his bill increasing the limitation on the bonded indebtedness of the state for highway purposes to four per cent, thus saving him the trouble and expense of circulating initiative petitions.

William J. Gurbarg is among the Portlanders who are spending a few days in Salem.

Edward Seebers of Portland was a business visitor in Salem Friday.

Miss Georgia Shaw and her sister, Miss Mildred Shaw, both of Dallas, spent Thursday in the capital city, visiting with friends and doing Christmas shopping.

Miss Grace Humphreys is another member of the college set that is taking advantage of the lengthy Christmas vacation to visit with relatives and friends in Salem. Miss Humphreys is a student at the Oregon Agricultural college.

Property valued at $1975 is involved in the estate of Ernest Mader, who died in Marion county, December 12. Mader was unmarried and had no known relatives living in the United States. It is known that Mader has relatives in Germany, but their names or places of residence are not obtainable. Judge Bushey has appointed Gordon R. Watt as administrator of the estate and has also named D. F. Olney, Zena Schwab and L. I. Snyder as appraisers of the property.

The national guard, Co. M, will give a military ball on December 31st. Special features will take place beginning at midnight. Everybody is invited. Tickets on sale at the armory. Oscar Steinhilber will have charge of the music.

The dancing classes of Mrs. Ralph White's juvenile pupils, will be resumed Saturday at the usual time and place. Because of the extreme cold and inclement weather they were not held last week, but it has been decided to hold them Saturday, as the climate has moderated sufficiently for the children to attend.

Miss Vera Roberts is among the Willamette university students who are spending the holidays out of town. Miss Roberts is the guest of relatives and friends in Portland.
