According to City Recorder Earl Race, Salem is faring exceptionally well this winter so far as the employment situation is concerned. The recorder reports that, though he is in charge of the only labor bureau in Salem and, that without charge to either parties, employer or employe, there is a very apparent dearth of non-employed in this city. Judge Race reports that a few transients come in occasionally in search of jobs, but that the demand is not in excess of the jobs offered.

Jack Lucker, a sophomore in Willamette University, has returned to school after two months absence on account of a severe case of diptheria.
