True Naval Scenes Are Feature Of Coming Film

Battleship and submarine scenes, both exterior and interior, will be technically correct in the Thomas H. Ince special production, "Behind the Door," starring Hobart Bosworth, which comes to the Oregon theater for three days commencing next Sunday as a Paramount-Arcraft picture.

This was assured when Director Irvin Willatt enlisted the services of Lieutenant John Cook from the H-5 at the submarine base at San Pedro, Cal., to guide him through the nautical sets. Mr. Cook approved all the interior boat sets before they were photographed and he was with Mr. Willatt on the battleships and on the submarine while making the exteriors, so that every movement was in strict accordance with naval discipline.

Lieutenant Cook also directed the submarine while the action pictures were being taken. In doing this he performed a remarkable feat. It was desired to get a picture of Bosworth on the deck of the submarine submerged. To get the proper angle the cameras had to be placed on top of the conning tower. Lieutenant Cook was asked to submerge the boat, but to stop as close to the floor of the conning tower as possible, that the cameramen should not be drowned or their instruments ruined.

N. Swanson, a farmer near Roseburg, sustained a broken leg when the chain of a stump puller broke under tension. His leg was fractured just above the ankle.

The Lowest-Priced Highest-Value Six on the market

The Oakland Sensible Six has the distinction of being the lowest priced six-cylinder car built today. The importance of this fact to the buyer lies in the conditions which make possible the low cost of the Oakland.

These causes are—first, scientific, simplified design which reduces the manufacturing cost, at the same time improving the quality of the car, and second, steady large production which makes the Oakland company the sixth largest producer in the world and second to only one concern in the production of six-cylinder cars.

Since its first introduction four years ago, the unusual merit of the Oakland Sensible Six has given rapid growth to the popularity and esteem in which it is held by its users, and now the second hundred thousand of these cars is well along in production.

Although very moderate in cost, the "set priced" hundreds of dollars below comparable Sixes, the Oakland, by reason of its practical design, its large production and the great resources back of it, has the qualities demanded by experienced, discriminating purchasers.

Among its valuable features are the six-cylinder, overhead valve, 44 horse-power engine—the force feed lubrication of engine bearings—the heated intake manifold which gives fuel economy—the long semi-elliptic springs—the Hotchkiss drive—the 32x4 inch tires, extra large for the weight of the car—the genuine leather upholstery—the deep, wide, heavily cushioned seats—and the complete high-grade equipment and fittings.

Our spring shipment has arrived for delivery at once. Come and see our stock of Oakland Sensible Six
