

HONEST WEIGHTS TO BE SOUGHT IN BIG STATE CAMPAIGN

Illegal weighing devices and dishonest dealers—producer, wholesaler and retailer—are to feel the weight of the heavy hand of the department of weights and measures in an "honest weights" campaign to be instituted throughout the state immediately under the direction of W. A. Dalziel, deputy state sealer of weights and measures. The campaign will be especially intensive in the larger cities of the state from where most of the complaints regarding short weights and measures originate, according to Dalziel.

Aid Is to Help.

"This department aims to help and protect all honest persons whether they be producers, wholesalers, retailers or consumers, rich or poor and every honest person from the producer to the consumer should co-operate with weights and measure officials in reforming the short-weight artist or drive him out of business," Dalziel declares.

Family Scale Doomed.

One of the objects of the campaign will be the correction of the practice of weighing containers for sausage, lard, ground meats and similar commodities. Numerous complaints have been received by the department relative to this practice, Dalziel explains. The old "family scale" is also doomed to speedy extermination in the "honest weights" campaign. This type of scale has long been outlawed in Oregon, Dalziel explains and in most communities their use has been abandoned but there are certain sections of Portland where they are still in use with resultant short-weights to patrons of such places.

MAN IDENTIFIED AS 2 INDIVIDUALS

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 31.—Identification as two different individuals was made today of the man held by authorities here after having given himself into the custody of an officer at a scenic lake Wednesday night a request that he be held until he could recover his memory.

A picture of the man, published in the Chronicle of this city yesterday, was recognized by the proprietor of a local hotel as a man who she said registered at her place January 20 at George E. Raymond of Portland, Oregon.

A deed and tax receipt for a five-acre tract at Hood River, Or., and an accident policy in his suitcase, left at the hotel, bore the same name. He had been missing from the hotel since last Tuesday night, she said. His mother's name is given as Mrs. Sophia Raymond, Utica, Minn.

The picture was recognized by numerous residents of Endicott, Wash., as that of George Flick, missing from that town for a year, according to their statements to the police and to the Chronicle. They included a former employer of Flick, with members of his family and City Marshal James, who has been seeking him.
