CONVICTION UNDER SYNDICALISM LAW MEAN END OF L.W.W.

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 2.—Prosecutor W. D. Askren was greatly elated today over the conviction of the 36 alleged I. W. W. charged with violating the state syndicalism law.

"The conviction means that I. W. W. is taboo in Tacoma," Mr. Askren said. "The case establishes a precedent, and is an important step in the war against radicalism in western Washington."

The prisoners were found guilty by a jury in superior court at 11 o'clock last night after 59 hours of delibera- tion. The foreman of the jury said today that originally three members of the jury were against conviction, be- lieving that the I. W. W. organization rather than individuals were guilty. They finally voted for conviction when the other jurors agreed to ask the court to exercise clemency in sentencing the prisoners. The state law provides a maximum sentence of $1900 fine and five years in the penitentiary. Attorney Ralph Pierce, who defend- ed the prisoners, was not in Tacoma today. It is expected that he will ap- peal the case to the supreme court to test the constitutionality of the syndicalism law.

Eugene, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Bertha Shif- flet, an 18 year old country girl, wife of Harley Shifflet, was arrested Sat- urday and placed in the Lane county jail on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. It was easy, she said.

During the past month she has been writing checks in sums ranging from $5 to $20, using her friends' names and some she invented, then passing them on local business men.

No questions were asked, as on each check she gave a different fictitious home address. The going was good, she said, until one hardware store asked her to endorse the check again. This time she forgot and used her own name. She acknowledged her guilt. Her parents live at Shedd and other relatives up the McKenzie river.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Feb. 2.—Arnold Shotwell, who spent 16 months in the service with the Amer- ican forces in Siberia, returned to the University of Oregon to take up gradu- ate work.

Shotwell left the United States in August, 1918, as a member of Ambu- lance company 4 and was with the al- lied forces near Vladivostok until De- cember 11, 1919.

The majority of the population of Siberia, he said, are in sympathy with the Bolsheviks, and it is only the pres- ence of Japanese and Czech soldiers in large numbers that prevents the radicals from taking the whole coun- try around Vladivostok. At the time of his departure, Shotwell said, Bolsh- evik troops were rapidly driving for- ward along the line of the Trans- Siberian railroad and forcing Admiral Kolchak to make a swift retreat.

WARD CHANGES MAY EXPEL COUNCILMEN

The changes of precinct boundaries in the city by the court court has given rise to much speculation as to what shall be the fate of several councilmen of the city. Through the changes made by the court the original ward boundaries in the city have been completely disarranged, and action of the city council to re-establish the ward lines is necessary.

In this process of re-establishment, which, it is pointed out by City Attorney Macy, must be done to conform with the newly established precinct bound- aries several present councilmen may be ousted and new ones will have to be elected. Whether this shall be done, however, depends on what ac- tion takes in re-establishing the ward boundaries.
