

ROTARY DOCTRINE TO BE PREACHED IN SALEM ALL OF WEEK

This is All Rotary Week in over 200 clubs in the United States and Canada, and the "kick off" was staged in the main dining room of the Marion hotel Wednesday afternoon when District Governor Clayton Williams of Everett, Washington, addressed the Salem Rotary club and some 25 visitors from Portland and the northwest.

Rotary Means Service.
John W. Todd, president of the Salem Rotary club, introduced Clayton Williams, who explained that "Rotary" meant service to our fellow men. That close association of men of the business world who are responsible for the success of their respective sections of this big world in such a way that they may be of immeasurable service to all the people in their respective communities. Men who will come to gether once each week and call each other by their given names and many who will see the larger things that need to be done and who will do those things, not with the idea of personal gain, but for the purpose of making their community a better place in which to reside. Men who will join with other men in other sections of the country for the purpose of bringing about those ideals of life which tend to a higher civilization in the land and to promote patriotism and that love for country which only the best citizens would wish to promote.

Other Speakers.
Dr. Douglas, president of the Portland Rotary club; Nels Pike, also of Portland and a real live wire; John Cochran, another wonderful extemporaneous speaker, and John Scott, president of the Vancouver, B. C. Rotary club, gave short addresses which were much to the point and greatly enjoyed by all present.

John Scott of Vancouver spoke at the international meet of Rotary which is scheduled for his city in the month of April and to which many Salem Rotarians will go. He promised all Rotarians the freedom of the city and all the good things the best people of the city of the north can give. It will be a wonderful time and all Rotarians are supposed to take their wives along and the wives will be in on all the good things too.

Alex McFarland, past district governor, also spoke and told the club of the many good times in store for the future and pointed out some of the ideals for which the members of Rotary will strive.

Rotary Week for Salem.
The visit of the district governor and visitors was the beginning of the first day of an entire week of Rotary for Salem. Sunday at 7:30 p. m., the members of the Salem club will meet at the Congregational church and conduct services there. Meet at the Commercial club rooms at 7:15 p. m. and bring your wives and go in a body to the church.

Next Wednesday all Rotarians and their wives will go to the Cherry City bakery at 6 p. m., where they will be the guests of Roy W. Wise the manager. A banquet will be spread. It will be open meeting and you can invite a friend. There will be some fine singing and speaking and you will learn more of what Rotary means.

SHELL COMPANY SALES BIG.
A total of 97,301 gallons of gasoline and 1930 gallons of distillate were sold in Oregon during January by the Shell company of California, according to a statement just filed with the secretary of state's office. Accompanying the statement was a check for $982.46 representing the state tax on fuel oil sales, which money goes to the credit of the state road fund.

MANY ATTENDING AUTO SHOW; HUMOR IS SEEN IN CROWD

The second day of the automobile show at the armory, given under the auspices of the Salem Auto Dealers' association, saw dozens of enthusiastic motorists, prospective car purchasers and spectators, thronging the exhibition room. Thursday it was estimated at noon that already several hundred have attended the show, and with Friday the closing day, it is expected that more than a 1000 will have come to the city from outside points alone to attend the greatest auto function ever staged in Salem.

Auto dealers, while business was medium Wednesday, declared Thursday that sales were increasing, and they expressed the belief that record breaking sales would be made before the show closes at 11 o'clock Friday night.

The show room throughout the day Thursday was a scene of speculative groups, gathered around the many shink machines on display, discussing the better points of this and that car. Even women were taking an active interest in the talks on construction of machines, their care, and costs as upkeep, while impatient husbands stood by chaffing at the eagerness of their wives.

One of the most unique displays at the show is that of the chassis of the Dort auto. It is so arranged that every working part of the machine is shown, by illumination of light within glass-enclosed cases. The chassis was on display at the auto shows at New York and Chicago, and after this show will be shown at the exhibition in Portland next week.

The show is not all strictly business. Humor frequently ripples through the crowd. Thursday a refined lady was standing by an auto while the anxious salesman was reciting the virtues of his mechanical charge. He showed her an extra gear for the car.

"What is that for?" she asked.
"Why that's to replace the one when it breaks, ma'am," the salesman said without hesitancy, and with no small note of pride.

"Well," the woman observed sarcastically, "if that part of the machine is going to break I don't want it!" And she turned away.

For the entertainment of the persons attending the show Salem's leading orchestra—Oscar Steelhammer's "bunch"—play throughout the afternoon and evening.

Portland, Or., Feb. 19.—United States Senator George E. Chamberlain has forwarded to the secretary of state his declaration of candidacy for re-election in the 1926 democratic primary, according to Washington dispatches received here. His declaration follows:

"If I am nominated and elected I will during my term of office strive for world peace and such legislation by congress as will stabilize the agricultural, commercial and social life of our country and hasten the restoration of normal pre-war conditions; for legislation for proper care of those who have successfully fought the wars of our country; for co-operation between the federal and state governments in road construction; improvement of our rivers and harbors and reclamation of arid lands; for the establishment of aviation stations and the protection by airplane of national forests as well as forests in private control, in co-operation with the owners thereof."

The senator's campaign slogan will be "my country—its preservation and the perpetuation of its institutions."

PLEBISCITE FINDS FARMERS GLOOMY

Washington, Feb. 19.—Additional replies from farmers to the questionnaire recently sent broadcast by the postoffice department accentuate the feeling of dissatisfaction expressed in the first forty thousand of the answers which James I. Blakeslee, fourth assistant postmaster general, reviewed recently before the senate postoffice committee.

"About seventy thousand communications are now at hand," said Mr. Blakeslee, "and of those who make any comment beyond an explicit answer to our questions, there are none who do not complain bitterly of the shortage of labor, of the high price they must pay for the same, of the cost of fertilizer and farm implements, and cite as indication of their attitude that they propose to reduce and suspend production and that they did not propose to labor fourteen and sixteen hours daily, to supply the necessities of life for high paid, short hour, urban student consumers."
