

GIRL AROUSED FROM SLEEP BY UNKNOWN MAN IN HER ROOM

The strange and thrilling experience of a girl staying at Lausanne hall, Willamette university campus, which has caused a ripple of horror through the varsity circles and impelled police to institute a vigorous search for the disturbers, was entered on the records at police headquarters Monday. The name of the principals in the exciting episode are not contained in the report made at police headquarters by Officer Les Morelock, who investigated.

At 5:30 a. m. Sunday one of the girls sleeping in the hall was awakened by the weight of a hand resting on her breast. According to her story to the officer the girl believed that it was one of the other girls in the sleeping quarters playing a prank on her, but when she fully awakened she discerned the outline of a man. He was kneeling at the side of her bed, holding to the covers that lay over her.

Although gripped in a terrible fight she called the intruder what he wanted. "I guess I had better get out of here," the girl told police the man said, and she saw him vanish through the open window in her room. It was very dark in the room, she said, but she thought that the man wore an army hat, army trousers and leggings. Because the girls always left the window in the room open it was easy for the man to gain access to their chambers. The investigating officer reported that nothing would indicate that robbery was the intent of the intruder.

RESTORATION OF PRE-WAR STATUS IN INDUSTRY TO BE ATTEMPTED

proper balance between the "volume of credit and the volume of concrete things," the board explained.

Greater Production Urged
The specific of greater production was urged again as one of the methods by which the "proper balance" might be materially aided. But the board directed attention to dangers which lie in the path of great production unless that production is immediately followed by distribution and avoidance of wasteful consumption.

These are the fundamental economic processes upon which the proper functioning of the federal reserve banks must depend," the report said. "The federal reserve system can do much to assist these processes but it cannot of itself alone compel them. While the federal board will always be mindful of inter-dependence of credit and industry and the influence exerted on prices by the general volume of credit, the board nevertheless cannot assume to be an arbiter of prices. Its primary duty is to see that the banks under its supervision function effectively and properly as reserve banks."

The granting of extensive credits to foreign trade and the resultant keen competition in our own markets with the foreign buyer was charged by the board as being "one of the potent causes of high prices." It was shown that the demand for commodities from domestic as well as from foreign sources was so far in excess of the supply that the increased cost of credit can be and is absorbed in the price. Speculation, therefore, has not been effectively checked by advances in interest rates because of the anticipated—and usually realized—large profits according to the analysis.

Opposes Long Term Credits
The board restated its opposition of the financing of exports which require long term credits through banking operations as distinguished from appeals to the securities market. Of America's balance of trade for the calendar year—$4,017,745,000—approximately $2,000,000,000 was declared to have fallen as credit transactions on the commercial banks. Treasury advances during the year amounted to $1,757,989,000 but this was not regarded as sufficient to offset the corresponding measure of expansion necessitated by the carrying of the credit balance.

All of these credit arrangements it was asserted, indirectly reflected back to the federal reserve banks. Although none of the paper tendered by the foreign buyers was discountable at reserve banks because of legal restrictions, commercial banks which have received it were believed to have turned in order obligations for rediscounting which, otherwise, would not have been sent through that channel.

Woodburn Man To Fight Verdict

Undertaking of appeal to the supreme court was filed Saturday in the case of Charles Coghlan against Nick Miller of Woodburn. Miller appeals from the verdict and judgment rendered against him by a jury in Judge Kelly's court, January 12, wherein he was required to pay $525 as punitive and special damages. Coghlan brought suit for $10,000 from Miller, alleging slander and malicious persecution. Evidence in the case tended to show that Miller had shown special antipathy to Coghlan while the latter was visiting one of Miller's neighbors. Coghlan had only recently returned from France and at the time of incidents specified in the suit, was recovering from wounds received at the battle of the Aisne and at Chateau Thierry.

MOVEMENT STARTED TO OUST MARRIED WOMEN FROM JOBS

With the object of his visit the replacement of married women, whose husbands are physically able to support them, in state positions by unmarried women who have dependents, E. F. Froman was in Salem Saturday investigating the situation regarding the employment of women in state positions and left Sunday to lay the results of his findings before the labor council in Portland. Mr. Froman represents the National Association for the Protection and Employment of Women and Girls.

The association has had an investigator in Salem for several days, according to Mr. Froman, and information has been gathered to the effect that there are 15 or 20 instances where married women with husbands able to support them are employed in state offices. The next step to be taken, said Mr. Froman, will be to secure the appointment of a committee by the labor council, which will act in conjunction with the association in urging state officials here to dispense with the services of the married women in question and replace them with girls having dependents. Such a conference with state officials may be held in ten days or two weeks.

According to Mr. Froman the labor council has already promised to support the movement in Oregon and his report to that body will be merely a matter of formality. Claiming the proposal is just, and that like action has been taken by the officials of other states, Mr. Froman says that the movement has been endorsed by many women's clubs, with the understanding that the removal proposal is directed only against those married women who have husbands physically able to support them. The action of removing the women must be done by the state officials, Mr. Froman points out, as the women cannot be legislated out of their positions.

LOYD-GEORGE AND NITTI BELIEVED TO FAVOR RUSS TRADE

London, Feb. 23.—Premier Lloyd-George and Premier Nitti are believed to favor resumption of relations with soviet Russia, although Premier Millerand of France is not inclined to agree to any immediate action, according to the Daily Mail. The question is called to attention by a memorial sent to Mr. Lloyd-George by a number of military men and others who during the past two years have been in Russia on official business. The newspaper says this problem must be considered by the supreme allied council at its sessions which begin today. The Chronicle maintains that "all candid minds must recognize that as no anti-bolshevik organization exists any longer, soviet Russia is now Russia."

"Do we want peace," it asks, "or do we want to continue the blockade with the risk of incurring the hostility of the Russian government, and military reprisals against the Letts, Poles, Rumanians, India and Mesopotamia, at the same time depriving the rest of the world of the Russian grain supply? Surely there is only one answer peace, which would be altogether better if it could be obtained on the proper terms." Similar views are taken by the Daily News which says: "By what right does a handful of politicians condemn their democracies to needless hardships and the democracy of Russia to hardships fourfold more acute by prohibiting a natural and beneficial exchange of needed commodities?"

The Manchester Guardian says that if the soviet government is as unsuccessful "as its opponents' publicity agents have told us then why not throw Russia open and let the world see the failure, and the failure due of consequent obloquy?"

ILLNESS HOLDS UP THE TRIAL OF NEWBERRY

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 23.—With ninety government witnesses either ill or held up by illness and business complications attributable to influenza, Frank C. Dalley, assistant attorney general who is conducting the prosecution in the Newberry election conspiracy trial was in doubt today whether he could finish the government's case this week without recourse to depositions in some instances.

Some people say that tea is bad for the nerves. They're right. Others say it is a gentle stimulant, and good for the nerves. They're right too. It all depends upon the kind of tea you drink. Common tea, with its large percentage of tannin, is harmful to the stomach and nerves. Very little tannin in Schilling Tea, and you avoid that by not steeping the tea too long. Then you get a pleasant, gently invigorating drink, that cheers and rests. Cheer and rest—that is good for the nerves.

There are four flavors of Schilling Tea—Japan, Ceylon-India, Oolong, English Breakfast. All one quality. In parchment-lined moisture-proof packages. At grocers everywhere. A Schilling & Co. San Francisco
