Asking for an absolute decree of divorce, the restoration of her maiden name of Elizabeth Merrill, and such other relief as the court may deem advisable, Elizabeth Long has started proceedings against James M. Long. With charges of general "crusl and inhuman" treatment, Mrs. Long alleges that her husband was in the habit of characterizing her actions as "selfish" and that he called her a "dirty little devil." She further alleges that Long chased her "ifelong friend" away upon the occasion of this friendly visit to her in October, 1919. The petition states that the couple had no children and no property rights are involved.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Congregational church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. F. Elgin, 474 S. Capitol street, on Friday, March fifth.

County Court Is Back Of Campaign For Big Hospital

Enthusiastic endorsement of the Salem General hospital project, and assurance that aid will be lent in the financial campaign for $100,000, which begins here Sunday, was made Thursday by the county court when a delegation from the hospital campaign committee called upon the court. The benefit the hospital will be to residents throughout the county as well as citizens of Salem, and the fact that any money that might be contributed toward the construction of the institution will not go toward the private benefit of any one, were cited by Judge Bushey as commendable features warranting the fullest possible support of the county.

William McGiechrist, Jr., chairman of the campaign committee, aided by J. F. Hutchason, Thursday morning were selecting the various campaigners to press the battle for funds when the first shot is fired from the church pulpits here Sunday morning. The names of the persons, which, it is understood, represent some of the most active business men in the city, will be announced Friday by the committee.

Suit Is End Of Conjugal Bliss

One month of domestic turmoil and unhappiness is revealed in the complaint made by Sarah A. Lehman in an action for divorce against her husband, Paul J. Lehman.

In her petition filed Monday, Mrs. Lehman alleges that her husband failed to provide a home for her and charges cruel treatment. A few days after their marriage at The Dalles, September 29, 1919, she alleges that Lehman said "Damn any woman, unless she is old and has money." She claims that Lehman was "filthy dirty" in his personal habits and that he took an automobile belonging to her, mortgaged it and then damaged the machine in an accident.

In conclusion, Mrs. Lehman claims that her husband left for the state of Washington October 25, 1919, after receiving a letter from a woman, and explained his departure by stating that he "would have to go, because he could not have two women together."

Mrs. Lehman asks that her former name, Sarah A. Sylvester be restored.
