

NEW HOME RULE BILL FOR IRELAND COMES IN FOR CRITICISM

Dublin, Mar. 5.—Sharp criticism of the new Irish home rule bill was expressed by Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Dublin convention, at a "welcome home" dinner given in his honor here tonight by the Irish Dominion League. He has just returned from the United States and gave his impressions of the American attitude toward Ireland.

"Long before the war broke out," he said, "I was convinced the peace of the world and the orderly progress, if not the survival of western civilization depended more than on any other one thing on mutual understanding between the British commonwealth of free nations—a term I prefer to the British empire—and the great republic of the west. . . . It is a matter of personal knowledge that from 1911 the Prussian government was organizing a German-Irish alliance in American politics with a view to the coming attack upon the world's freedom.

"I have not the least doubt that supposing the Irish trouble had nothing to do with the beginning of the war, it was an important factor in delaying America's decisive participation in the struggle. To the same cause was due a great deal of political embarrassment to the war administration in Washington.

"In America I found more bitter anti-English feeling than in all my forty years of observation. As usual, although due to many other causes, it was tangled up with the Irish trouble and was generally expressed in what I may call Irish terms. Americans do not bother themselves with details. They want Ireland to have as large a measure of self government as is consistent with the safety of the British empire, for which they in calmer moments recognize they are almost as much concerned as are the British.

"In my judgment America does not want Ireland to be an independent republic until the British government ceases to break its promises to Ireland the sentiment of America will be that the Irish people are justified in asking anything they like."

Sir Horace criticized the home rule bill because it gave Ulster and a minority of not more than one fifth of the Irish people a "virtual mandatory over Ireland—a mandatory with out responsibility."

DID "MYSTERY MAN" HAVE TRANSACTIONS IN MARION COUNTY?

In hopes that Marion county residents may be able to furnish information concerning probable Oregon transactions of Harvey Weyant, relatives of Weyant have written to County Clerk U. G. Boyer.

The letter received by Mr. Boyer is signed by Royal Weyant of Salt Lake City, Utah, and its contents might easily be mistaken as a synopsis of a long drawn volume of fiction, or "mollardrammar."

The letter is given in part: "Harvey Weyant was born at Jones Point, New York. Spent his boyhood there and later successfully engaged in the brick business at Jones Point and also at Springfield, Mass., to which place he moved with his family in 1874. In May 1896, he became involved in an affair with a woman and soon after this departed on an announced three months' trip through western states, with the purported purpose of clearing himself from the affair mentioned. He wrote to his family from Oregon, Washington, California and Utah until November 1899. From this date, his family which consisted of his wife, daughter and five sons, received no word concerning him until 1916 when they learned that he had died at Salt Lake City in July, 1916, under the assumed name of Harvey W. Fuller.

"It was learned later that when he left his home in New York in 1899, Weyant took with him about $100,000 in cash and the woman of the affair, traveling with her through various parts of the west and coming to Salt Lake in November 1899, where she gave birth to a child, a boy. From that time until his death Weyant made his home at Salt Lake and under the name of Harvey W. Fuller, engaged successfully in various enterprises.

"The child died in April, 1910, and Weyant by Fuller was arranging to return to his family when he died. He had been an invalid for three years previous to his death and his lawful heirs claim that this woman, posing as his wife, had laid plans to take possession of the estate and to loot same.

"Claiming that she was his wife and only heir, she was appointed administrator of his estate and obtained possession of three bank accounts of twenty-five thousand dollars each, contents of two safe deposit boxes, contents of his two private safes all of his private papers and account books. A strong box which he kept for several years in the vault of a prominent bank of Salt Lake City disappeared about this time. This woman also obtained possession of real estate he owned in Salt Lake county, and ten thousand dollars worth of jewelry belonging to the estate. No accounting was made to the probate court by this woman, of the jewelry, the contents of the deposit boxes (the safe or of the strong box.

"She had five years in which to loot his estate and get away with it before his family even knew of his death and the statute of limitations for prosecuting herself and associates criminally had lapsed during this time, and only civil proceedings could be brought by the heirs for the recovery of the estate.

"Although Weyant's or 'Fuller's' estates was known to have been over two millions of dollars, only $50,000 of the holdings have been uncovered this being located in Salt Lake county.

"The San Francisco Examiner or The Call, published a writeup of Harvey Weyant in 1903, giving a sketch of his business career both in the east and west and giving his right name, his birthplace and of his family living then at Springfield, Mass. This article stated that he (Weyant) had just then disposed of certain mining interests for something over a million dollars and was then intending to retire from business. Just how this article came to be published will never be explained, though no connection with 'Fuller' was made of it and no members of his immediate family heard of it until 1916.

"Anyone in Marion county knowing of any transactions of his, or of anything regarding this matter are asked to communicate with his heirs, who will appreciate any aid given in the restoration of this estate.

Speakers Before Farm Convention Visualize Danger

Chicago, Mar. 4.—Farm life in many parts of the country is dying out and unless something is done to revive it people will continue to go to the city, speakers told the farm federation bureau meeting here today.

"Rural churches and schools are deteriorating in many localities," Mrs. J. C. Ketchum of Hastings, Mich., declared. "As long as conditions remain as they are or continue to grow worse, the women will rebel and refuse to live on the farms.

Another thing which must be done is to educate the city people to a realization of these conditions. Many of them feel very bitter toward the farmer and think he is a profiteer."

"It is ridiculous to expect young folks with red blood in their veins and ambition tugging at their heartstrings, to stay on some farms," H. L. McKnight of Nacodoches, Texas, said.

Over to the national federation are to be ten per cent of the individual county dues received by the state, according to action taken by the meeting.

Born in 1839 Dr. Caldwell Still in His Office Daily

Wonderful vigor of the founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Millions now use his famous prescription

Physicians know that good health depends largely upon proper digestion and elimination and that much sickness results from constipation. No one knows this better than the "family" doctor, the general practitioner.

Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Illinois, was and is a family doctor. The whole human body, not any small part of it, was his practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it, for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is selling at the rate of over 6 million bottles a year.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL TODAY
Born Shelbyville, Mo., March 27, 1839
Began the manufacture of his famous prescription in 1892

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Dr. Caldwell in the course of 40 years' practice, for he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875, had found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year the preparation was first placed on the market. The picture of Dr. Caldwell that appears on the package was taken in that year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Syrup Pepsin, and the formulator of that prescription is fortunately living to see its wonderful success.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in the doctor's private practice. Today the third generation is using it.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home. Where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.
