Old Independence Resident Is Found Drowned In Slough

Independence, Or., Mar. 5.—Mrs. D. B. Boydston, a well known resident of this place, was found drowned in a slough near her home Thursday and the coroner, after an investigation, expressed the belief that she had committed suicide through despondency at the death of her daughter, Mrs. William Ridgeway, who succumbed to influenza two weeks ago. Mrs. Boydston disappeared from her home last Tuesday, and constant search for her had been made since that time.

Club Associate Members To Meet

A general get-together meeting of all associate members of the Commercial club, when the program for the year's activities will be discussed, will be held at the Commercial club chambers at 8 o'clock next Monday night. Announcement to this effect was made at the club Friday morning.

Plans for the inauguration of the silversmen's club that was much discussed several months ago, probably will be taken up with the members. Other matters of importance to the associate members will be discussed during the evening, and all such members are urged to be on hand.

Announcement was made Friday by Miss Flora Case, librarian, that the public library has been closed because workmen decorating the interior. No definite time could be given for the reopening, but it is probable that the building will be closed until Tuesday, Miss Case said.
