ATTENTION TO CITY STREET PAVING AND COST SAVING URGED

The city council and the county court are asked, in a resolution passed at a meeting of the North Salem Improvement association in the Highland school Friday night, to "give more careful attention to the possibilities of remedying street conditions in North Salem, and other parts of the city, with a view of paving them, thereby saving the city unnecessary expense, and also relieving motorists of much running costs. The resolution as passed Friday night reads:

Whereas the estimates of the city street commissioner indicates that the city of Salem is expending over $700 per mile per year in a vain effort to keep in proper repair the macadamized parts of the main heavy traffic arteries such as the Pacific highway within the city limits and the unpaved parts of Front street, Capitol street and Highland avenue, and

Whereas the heavy and increasing traffic on these main arteries, due to the paving of state and county highways to the north, destroys the macadam surface as fast as it can be repaired, and this high cost of maintenance is wasted so far as permanent and satisfactory results are concerned, and

Whereas the 500 to 300 machines a day using these rough macadam traffic links in effect pay a toll of at least one cent per mile for increased depreciation wear and tear, lost time, gas and tire expense, when traveling on poor macadam as compared with the same costs, when driving on smooth pavement, and for the low estimate of only 200 machines a day, the extra cost of macadam to the driving public amounts to over $700 per year per mile, and

Whereas, either the $700 per mile furnished by Salem tax payers, or the $700 and more per year added expense to the driving public, will pay interest at 5 percent and in due time retire the principal of one third of the issue of bonds necessary to pave these streets, allowing $25,000 per mile for that purpose, and

Whereas, the session laws of 1919, foreseeing such contingencies, in chapters 79 and 349, give ample authority both to the city council and the county court to cooperate with the owners of adjacent property to secure the paving of important traffic links, connecting with state and county paved roads, where the interest and profit of such improvement to the general public is much greater than to the adjacent property owners.

Therefore, be it resolved by the North Salem Improvement association, that the city council and the county court be requested to give most careful attention to the possibility of remedying these conditions by mutual cooperation with the adjacent property owners, and

Therefore, be it resolved by the North Salem Improvement association, that the city council and the county court be requested to give most careful attention to the possibility of remedying these conditions by mutual cooperation with the adjacent property owners, and

Be it further resolved, that the heavy tax payers, and all civic organizations, interested in the sound economic and creditable development of the city, be asked to investigate the possibility of preventing the absolute waste of city street funds on temporary betterments, where permanent and far more desirable improvements could be secured at the same cost by a more flexible policy of cooperation with owners of adjacent property.

Community singing, led by John W. Todd, and a talk by J. F. Hutchason on publicity and advertising, were features during the meeting. The advisability of printing a booklet setting forth the possibilities in North Salem was discussed following a proposal made by Mr. Hutchason that such a thing be done.

Special Pageant At Armory Gives New Indian View

The India mass movement pageant, showing how the caste system is being broken down and whole villages under the leadership of their mayors are seeking Christian baptism, will be presented in dramatic form Sunday evening, March 7, at 7:30 o'clock in the armory. The pageant will be directed by Rev. M. E. Osborn and Rev. C. C. Hermann, both of whom have served as missionaries in India for a number of years and are intimately acquainted with exotic features of that country.

The production will be a presentation of the astounding movement of the native masses of India toward Christianity, with a setting of the native life, modes of dress, customs and superstitions of the people. The Raja Yisu Aya song which has had tremendous influence in the Christianization of India, will be sung in the vernacular by the players in costume grouped about the village Chaudhri, and there will be added touches which the directors themselves are able to give because of their intimate knowledge of the manners and habits of the people of India.

This pageant was first given in the India building at the centenary missionary exposition at Columbus, Ohio, and created such an impression among those who saw it, that it had to be moved to one of the largest tents which seated hundreds of people. Later it was presented with tremendous success before an audience of 30,000.

The present production is essentially the same, and has had everywhere the same unparalleled success, arousing favorable comment for both its dramatic and instructive value. The appeal of the India mass movement pageant is interdenominational, and Christians of all creeds alike have attended its presentation with profit.

All protestant churches of Salem will unite in this special presentation, there being no evening services in any of these churches. There will be no admission charge.

Reform School Escape Found

Earl Mayo, 17, who escaped from the state boys' training school Friday evening, had not been found or heard of by attaches at the reformatory up to a late hour Saturday. Mayo was committed to the school from Portland. It is believed that he might attempt to make his way to his home there.

The disappearance of the boy was reported to police here Friday night. He is described, in a report made to them, as being five feet four inches tall, weighing 120 pounds, blue eyes, outstanding ears, large mouth, long, large teeth and wore a blue-gray regulation uniform of the institution.

By Norman M. Lewton, I. B. S. A.

"In this Lecture it shall be shown that the Fifth Dominion secures all the rights and privileges of the First one. The overignty of Earth has been a 'bone of contention' for the past six thousand years. Who rightfully owns it? Even now the Nations are girding themselves for a tremendous Commercial Struggle for World Markets."

Hear this interesting subject discussed and conclusions drawn, not from guesswork, but from the Word of God.
