An additional appropriation of $3000 with which to build an eight-stall garage at the company's plant 13th and Oak streets, has been obtained by the local branch of the Associated Oil company, according to R. O. Snelling, district manager, Thursday. The company has just completed the enlargement of the plant's capacity, and with the erection of this garage it will be one of the most complete in the state.

The interests of William McGilchrist, Sr., in the Royal Cafeteria have been purchased by A. B. McKillop, and the new owners plan to begin a complete renovation and remodeling of the place in the near future. Mr. McKillop was formerly the owner of a restaurant in Albany, and is co-owner of the business, L. L. Tweedale is the other owner of the Royal.

The offices of W. M. Smith, county school superintendent, present a busy scene these days, as the office forces are occupied in getting out the county library report. Order sheets will then be filled out and sent to the various county schools in order that they may secure the books they desire for the coming year. Ten cents a child is allowed in the tax budget for the purchase of books for the school library, and socials are often given in the different schools to swell the fund. In some cases a part of the year's school budget is used for this purpose.

Willamette university will be represented by Paul Wapato, Friday evening at Forest Grove, when a number of colleges and universities in the state will compete for the oratory championship of the state. Mr. Wapato has made a reputation for himself in this particular branch, and his friends are confident that he stands a fair show of carrying off the honors. His oration is entitled "Americanization."

Monday and Tuesday of next week have been set as the dates for the interclass basketball series at Willamette university, instead of Thursday and Friday of this week as was formerly planned. According to present arrangements the juniors and seniors and sophomores and freshmen will meet on Monday and the winners will clash on Tuesday.

J. E. Day filed divorce proceedings Wednesday against Lora Day. In his complaint Day charges that continued abuse and ill treatment inflicted upon him by his wife, caused him to finally leave his home and to ask the courts for relief. Day, in his petition, alleges that when he started from home on March 6 to get a divorce that his wife handed him his rifle with the admonition "take this along and flow your damned brains out." He further charges that his spouse called him "old devil," "old hag" and "old hussy." At another time he alleges that she told him that she had met one of his "lady friends on the street and had slapped her face good." The couple were married in Salem October 25, 1917. There are no children and no property rights to adjust.
