Even before his announcement newspapers throughout the county have been making mention of his probable candidacy and are urging support of voters in case he should decide to enter the race.
Mr. Steelhammer has been secretary of the Business Men's league for about a year, and served six years as chief deputy county assessor—from 1913 to 1918. He has never been a candidate for the position before, although he is intimately acquainted with the duties of the office, and has several times before been urged to become a candidate. Mr. Steelhammer will enter his name on the republican ballot.

CONCERNING MUSIC
By C. A. DAVIDSON
(Director of Music for Salem Schools)

COMMUNITY MUSIC
What we know as community music is, in most places, the singing of patriotic, popular and old favorite songs. It is this and more—very much more. There is hardly a limit to the extent of its possible development. Like public school music, and in fact like music in general, community music began with singing. The war gave it a great impetus and a great stride forward. It is bound to go forward very rapidly for the simple reason that it is established on a firm basis—that basis being the longing for self-expression that exists in us all.

Music has too long been a highbrow, snobbish sort of thing, holding itself aloof with its head in the air, supercilious, pretentious, demanding that it be coaxed and flattered before it will condescend to visit the rank and file of humanity.

Now comes "music for the masses." It is as normal to mankind to sing or whistle about their work, as it is for the birds to sing, for horses to neigh, for cattle to low and for dogs to bark. It is only the conventions, the repressions, the disgruntled views and habits that we acquire as we grow up and fight our battles of life, that obscure the spontaneous outburst of song.

But music is a great game of make-believe. And if the world is kind or unkind, we may think the same thoughts and feel the same emotional thrills; and get together more closely thru its medium than thru the other.

Accordingly the Bureau of Community service, New York, is beginning a survey of music conditions of the country. In the questionnaires sent out some 100 questions are asked.

From the data thus secured a recognition of the immediate means of each locality, and of the best methods of approach will be obtained. The general aim is eventually to raise the standard of appreciation, and first of all to make sure that every individual citizen has a taste of song, band, or orchestra first hand and not by proxy. We shall probably hear more of this subject in Salem within the next few months.

French to Build Port at Honfleur
Paris, Mar. 20.—A contract has been signed by representatives of the Transatlantic Syndicate, a French engineering company, and John M. Egan, a consulting engineer of New York City, for the construction of a new port at Honfleur, the intention to eventually join the port of Honfleur to that of Havre and improve sea connections between the mouth of the Seine and the important cities of Normandy and the interior of France.

Expenditures totaling several hundred million francs will be involved in the carrying out of the contract and a great deal of American capital will be invested.

wait for the American composer, he is already here." No doubt henceforth he will be given a hearing and will find his place alongside those we have been wont to honor across the water.

In spite of the high cost of living everyone has money and in spite of the thrift campaigns, everyone is spending money as never before. Any-way McCormick and Galli Curci sang to capacity houses of 7,000 people, thru all their New York engagements.

Two new songs by American composers that are having quite a vogue on concert programs are "There is no Death," by Geoffrey O'Hara, and "Christ in Flanders," by Ward Stephens.

New York's concert audience numbers 30,000 people. Practically the same people make up the symphony audiences from time to time. Isn't there some way to provide symphony concerts for the whole population? How much longer will it be till municipalities provide good concerts for public consumption just as they provide good water?

When a Feller Needs A Friend
—When a fellow really needs a friend is when, because of weakened eyes, he must have someone else read to him.
—So many people, because of neglect of their eyes, die earlier life, are now depending upon others.
—Had they provided the finest lines of glasses to their eyes at the right time in their life, they would still be enjoying good eyesight and independence.
—An examination will reveal the true condition of one's eyes. It's a little thing to get, but so important.
