

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
Published every evening except Sunday by The Capital Journal Printing Co. 134 South Commercial street.

Subscription Rates
By carrier $3 cents a month. By mail $36 a month, $1.33 for three months, $2.55 for six months, $4 per year in Marion and Polk counties.

Advertising Representatives
W. D. Ward, Tribune Bldg., New York; W. H. Stockwell, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago.

Member of Associated Press
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also local news published herein.

Oregon Observations

Marshfield—W. B. Boyer, engineer on a logging train at the Smith Powers logging camp...

D. A. Davis, 19, fell from the steamer Dispatch, on the Coquille river, while engaged in loading milk cans at a local wharf Monday.

Portland—Frank Davis, who, while acting as a prohibition enforcement officer, was arrested last week on a train near The Dalles, on a charge of drunkenness...

Portland—The 9600 ton steel ship Areturus will be launched from the ways of the G. M. Standifer shipbuilding corporation at Vancouver, Wash., Wednesday noon...

Hepner—Mrs. James L. Yeager, wife of a merchant here, died Monday from the effects of injuries sustained in an automobile collision...

Newport—Newport port commission has passed a resolution declaring its purpose to take over the Yaquina Northern Logging railroad...

Portland—Oregon's congressmen are of the opinion that the Tongue Point naval base appropriation bill soon will be passed...

Portland—Twenty two children in one dwelling was the phenomenon discovered by internal revenue officers...

Medford—Medford's growth and prosperity along with the expected great influx of tourists passing thru Oregon has resulted in a reported project by outside capital of erecting the largest modern hotel in southern Oregon...

Newport—The run of herring in Yaquina Bay this month has been so great that the fishermen have been fishing only two or three days a week...

Medford—Medford's growth and prosperity along with the expected great influx of tourists passing thru Oregon has resulted in a reported project by outside capital of erecting the largest modern hotel in southern Oregon...

WRITE HOOVER ON THE BALLOT.

As was to be expected, Herbert Hoover has refused permission to place his name upon the democratic primary ballot as candidate for president.

Mr. Hoover is not a candidate and refuses to align himself with either party, until he knows what that party represents.

The people of Oregon, both republicans and democrats, have the right to indicate their choice for president upon the primary ballot.

Every person who favors Hoover as the best qualified man for the presidency, regardless of party, will write his name on the ballot.

NEW PEACE COMPROMISE PROPOSED

A petition has been filed with the president, and will be on file with the senate also, fathered by Samuel Colcord, signed by such distinguished citizens as President Lowell of Harvard university, Cardinal Gibbons, George W. Wickersham, Augustus Thomas and many others...

The appeal comes from disinterested persons, not allied with politics and is inspired by the wish to secure for America and the world such of the benefits as would be decreed by a speedy settlement ending the suspense and uncertainty—a consumation devoutly to be wished.

The peace treaty is still in the hands of the president, who is waiting to ascertain what the senate does with its resolution declaring a separate peace with Germany.

Meanwhile the inability of the nation to function in peace and participate in the affairs of the world brings a blush of shame to every American except those blinded by the prejudice of partisanship.

THE BEST DEFENSE

As expected, the Portland Oregonian rushes to the defense of General Leonard Wood's million dollar slush fund, attributing ulterior motives to critics and justifying large expenditures in primary campaigns...

Continuing the Oregonian holds that campaign funds should not be limited. "The question as to what is too much money, and what is just enough money," says the Oregonian, "to be used in a political campaign may not be determined by any fixed rule."

The Oregonian admits the need of publicity regarding contributors but overlooks the fact that the best defense of his political purity General Wood could make would be to publish the list of the contributors to his campaign fund...

The list of Wood's millionaire friends has been published and the list is not contradicted by Wood's campaign manager. If wrong is being done to Wood and his alleged contributors, authorized publication of the list of contributors will remedy it.

Tornadoes spreading devastation and death in their paths are inaugurating the annual spring cyclone season in the middle west and south—which makes us all thankful for the pleasure of living in Oregon.

A post-graduate course for football coaches has been inaugurated at Columbia University—notwithstanding which the successful coaches will continue to be those with initiative and resource enough to originate their own systems—just as it is in other lines of human endeavor.

One of the Standard Oil subsidiaries operating in the Rocky Mountain regions has declared a 200 per cent stock dividend, advancing the stock from 55 points to 645 points, by beating Uncle Sam out of the income tax.

The wealthy young Philadelphia draft dodger has been sentenced to five years imprisonment. He should have proved his patriotism by profiteering as other draft dodgers did, and secured immunity and fortune.

Chicago clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers are out on strike for $1800 a year salaries. Another effort to equalize brains and make the incompetent worth as much as the competent.

Rippling Rhymes

We all are after higher wages, the old time stipend won't suffice; and even clergymen and sages rear up and say they've raised the price. The price is multiplied by seven, though nothing has increased in worth; it costs us more to go to heaven, it costs us more to stay on earth!

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

In John's Arms
Helen came toward me with arms outstretched. "I am so glad," she said, "that you are feeling better this morning."

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE MAJOR HAS A PAIN
The party had come to an end; nobody was left except old Mr. Crow and his friend Major Monkey.

"You're in pain," she remarked to the Major.
Major Monkey moaned faintly. "I hope you'll give me something to make me feel better," he wailed.

"I'll give you a little something," said Aunt Polly Woodchuck.
Major Monkey drew back. "No!" he groaned. "I've had too many apples."

"I object!" he cried. "The less said about corn, the better!"
Aunt Polly Woodchuck hastened to explain that she meant no offense to anyone.

"I merely wondered," she said, "whether you gave your guests corn to eat at your party?"
"Certainly not!" Mr. Crow exploded.

"You're a stranger in these parts, I take it," Aunt Polly said, turning once more to Major Monkey.
Major Monkey admitted. "I've been living mostly on boiled rice, with a baked potato now and then."

"Ah! Cooked food!" said Aunt Polly. "And if you had that sort of fare, you must have been living with men!"
The Major looked uneasy.

"I don't care to talk about my past," he murmured. "Just you give me something to warm my stomach a bit. That's all I ask of you."

"Well, Aunt Polly Woodchuck handed him some peppermint leaves.
"Chew these," she directed him. "And if you don't feel better tomorrow I'll lose my guess."

"That haystack is a good place," said the Major. "I believe I'll live there as long as I stay in Pleasant Valley."

"It's not far from the farmhouse," Mr. Crow observed. "Perhaps you could steal—er—I mean find a little cooked food there now and then."

The Joy Of A Perfect Skin
Know the joy and happiness that comes to one thru possessing a skin of purity and beauty.

Better Than Pills For Liver Ills
Get a 25-Box
NATURE'S REMEDY
R-TABLETS-R

EMPEY TRANSFER
LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE HAULING.
TON, CONTRACT OR HOUR

Advertisement for Nujol laxative, featuring an illustration of a person and text describing its benefits for constipation and digestive health.

Advertisement for Vicks VapoRub, titled 'The After Effects of Pneumonia', describing its use for respiratory ailments and providing instructions for application.

Advertisement for Turpo Turpentine Ointment, highlighting its effectiveness for chapped hands and other skin irritations.

Advertisement for the United States Disc Separator, a mechanical device for cream separation, featuring an illustration and technical details.

Advertisement for Ladd & Bush Bankers, established in 1868, offering general banking services and listing office hours.

Advertisement for Abe Martin, featuring a cartoon illustration of the character and text promoting his humorous observations.