

Salem of Hoover's Days Shown in Display of Photos

Undoubtedly one of the most interesting collections of photographs shown in Salem for years is on display in the case of the Tom Cronise studio.

As remembers the appearance of the state capitol when that building was minus dome and approaches and a fence enclosed the grounds? Mr. Cronise also has a photograph of the court house in the days when the statue that surmounts that building was new and an object of admiration.

There is also a picture of the old Scotch mills on North Front street, before that plant was burned. Data from the ruins of the mills is being used in the construction of the new Deaconess hospital at South Winter street. The Chesapeake hotel as it stood in 1888 is also here showing single-storyed masonry driving along South Commercial street, which was not paved at that time. This hotel was the nucleus for the present Marion hotel.

These scenes were all familiar ones during Hoover's boyhood here, 1887-1892. At that time, Chinatown was in full bloom and the picture of the Sing Sing laundry on Liberty street, between State and Court, shows that the Orinetais at that time were encamped on what is now one of the most valuable sections in Salem's business district.

One picture is shown, a portion of which is familiar to even recent residents of Salem. This is a view of the Southern Pacific station at 12th and Oak street. That until three years ago was the reception "parlor" of this city. The building is now used as an adjunct to the new depot and stands nearly on its old site.

There are three views of Salem's fire department in all its glory. One photograph depicts a fire tournament in full blast with the Salem volunteers jubilant over having carried away the honors from rival cities. Another picture shows the police force of three men in 1880, the members of the group being Linn Smith, Jim Meade and Wells Lalourette. That Salem had carried service at that time is proven by the photograph of employees of this branch of the Salem postoffice.

Fred Lockley, now a special writer for newspapers and magazines and former neighbor of Hoover's is shown with mail carrier's equipment. There also, Salem residents are given 1888 versions of John H. Albert and Dr. W. H. Boyd.

This Salem had a bit of snow in 1887 is brought to our attention by a photograph of the old Joseph Holman residence with a heavy fall of snow in view.

There are many other reminders (the camera has changed quite a bit during the past years). The eyes of many of the older residents grow misty as they view these scenes for many of the people who figure there have passed away.

Mr. Cronise has labeled the photographs to the best of his ability and plans to add other interesting views from time to time.

Aggie Professor Resigns To Enter Federal Service

Corvallis, Or., April 10.—Dr. H. P. Barrows, professor of agricultural education at Oregon Agricultural college and state supervisor of agricultural education under the Smith-Hughes act, has resigned. He will become federal regional agent for agricultural education and his territory will comprise the seven western states. Headquarters for the work will be at San Francisco.

School Children Get Soup At Noon

Financed by the Mothers club of the First Methodist church and fostered by the Mothers club of the Highland school a successful movement is being carried on whereby children of the Highland school receive a bowl of soup every noon. The children are required to bring sandwiches and a charge of five cents is placed for the soup unless the child is unable to pay, in which case it is given free.

It is served in the old playground, cafeteria style. Equipment for the enterprise was furnished by the school board, and supplies are furnished by the Methodist Mothers' club. The project is receiving the hearty co-operation of both the parents and the children of the school.

Early Appearance Of Anthracnose On Trees Reported

What horticulturists held to be one of the direct results of the extreme weather conditions in December is being observed in the abnormal appearance of anthracnose canker on apple trees in various parts of Williamsonette, Va. E. L. Van Trump, county fruit inspector, reported today that the disease is noticeable here in many of the older orchards and especially upon trees that were injured by the frost.

Cancerous bark growths, formed during the winter are already putting out spore, a very unusual condition as the spore pustules are not usually developed until late in June or July. The abnormal appearance was first reported by Professor H. P. Baras, of the department of botany and plant pathology, O. A. C. Anthracnose is noticeable in the pimpled and pitted condition of the outer bark about the size of a pin's head.

Professor Baras has asked the co-operation of Mr. Van Trump in investigating the outbreak and a conference is planned, following which, treatment programs will be announced.

Calf Sells For $31.92; Cottage Grove Is Beat

Cottage Grove hasn't got anything on Salem or vicinity, when it comes to raising profitable veal calves. In a late issue of a Portland paper appeared an article from Cottage Grove wherein it stated that a Mrs. S. E. McFarland sold a veal calf at Portland for $27. This, Mrs. McFarland believed, was the record sale.

F. W. Castle, route 6, Salem, has got her beat. He sold a veal calf to the Haseivood company here several days ago for $31.92.

Murder Suspect Attempts To End Life With Knife

San Diego, Cal., April 10.—James Woods, whose real name the police say, is Andrew Huit and who was arrested yesterday in Los Angeles on telegraphic request of Seattle authorities for suspected connection with two murders attempted suicide in front of the county jail here today after being brought from the northern city, according to the police.

Woods used a rusty pen knife in his effort at suicide, the arresting officer said, and although he succeeded in inflicting serious injuries upon himself, he missed the jugular vein and it is believed that he will recover. Woods had several hundred dollars in liberty bonds and a large and varied assortment of jewelry in his possession when arrested.

County Agents Save Farmers Million Dollars

Corvallis, Or., April 10.—Nearly a million dollars was saved to the farmers of Oregon through the work of the county agents, according to the annual report of Paul V. Maria, county agent leader. This was done at a cost of $99,475, or approximately $10 saved to $1 spent. County agents were employed in 23 of the 36 counties of the state last year and three additional counties have employed agents this year. Thirteen of 25 county agents in the state are graduates of the Oregon Agricultural college here.

Bower Would Be Sheriff Here

Oscar D. Bower, chief deputy in the office of Sheriff W. I. Needham, filed declaration of candidacy for that office Saturday. Deputy Bower, who has served Marion county for several years has a good reputation for efficient service.

Local Briefs.

Custer Ross, Silverton attorney, attended to court matters in Salem, Friday.

Judge George G. Blinham returned to his home here, Friday, after holding court at Albany during the past week.

Combined anglers' and hunters' permits have been written out to G. H. Sturgis, Brooks and Fred Hattingson, Wayton.

W. F. Hoffman, manager of the Court Apartments, reported to police this morning that his auto sustained considerable damage when it collided with a machine driven by A. Daugherty of Junction City, on Court street, between Liberty and High.

A delivery car belonging to the Cherry City bakery was badly damaged when an auto driven by Dr. C. H. Hubertson, collided with it at the corner of Capitol and Market streets yesterday evening, according to police reports today. No one was injured.

The funeral for John Palmer, who died at Redlands, Cal., while there spending the winter, will be held at the chapel of the Rigdon & Son company at 2 p. m. Sunday. Burial will be in City View cemetery. Mr. Palmer made his home in the Rosedale section.

When workmen moving a house near the corner of Perry and Cottage streets drove a wireless pin into the street this morning, something happened they didn't expect. The pin pierced the water main, and for several minutes a geyser shot into the air about 50 feet before the water could be shut off.

Reports From Many Streams Show Good Season Coming

The information department of Hasser brothers' store has received a number of letters in response to queries sent out recently for information pertaining to the condition of streams in the localities named. While the recent rainy weather may have contributed to the turbulent conditions of the streams, several Salem fishermen have reported good strings in the upper reaches of the waters.

Reports follow: Big Elk and Yaquina river.—In vicinity of Elk City and tidehead. Water clear, streams falling. The trout are striking spinners, responding but little to bait. Good over-night accommodations.

Luckimute river upper reaches.—Clear and cold. Fish are striking late, slow on spinner. Too early for fly. Camp grounds and hotel at Falls City. Lyons on the Santiam reports fair fishing, with plenty of hotel accommodations.

Stream in vicinity of Jordan is running deep. Trout are striking spinner, sparingly at bait. Camp grounds and rooms at hotel-stores.

Little and Big Nestacaas, from head of tide up-stream.—Water is high but falling (April 4). Fish are taking bait and wild for spinner. Over-night lodging at Cloverdale hotel and farm houses. The fishing here is reported to be getting better all the time, good catches having been made in the clearer reaches.

Popular Girl And Dentist Married This Afternoon

Swelling the list of weddings that is giving April a record that bids fair to rival that of June as a "honeymoon month," Grace Marie Davis, one of Salem's most attractive young women, and Dr. W. A. Johnson, of this city, were married this afternoon at the parsonage of the Leslie Methodist Episcopal church, Reverend H. N. Aldrich, pastor, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

Although their engagement had been an open secret among their host of friends, the marriage of the young couple was a surprise. Miss Davis was for a number of months employed in the millinery establishment of Mrs. O. C. Locke, on Liberty street. Mr. Johnson is a dentist of this city. Both young people are extremely popular here.

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Pomeroy acted as best man and bridesmaid, and the guests, all of whom were relatives of the couple were: Mrs. C. V. Davis, mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Johnson, parents of the groom, Leola Johnson, Jean Johnson, Mrs. Audrey Hobson, of Seio; Miss Muriel Davis and Thelma, Ruth and Margaret Johnson.

After a brief wedding trip to Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will return to Salem, where they will make their temporary home at the residence of the bride's mother.

Funeral Service For Hughes Held

Portland, Or., April 10.—Funeral services for the late Matthew S. Hughes, resident bishop of Oregon for the Methodist Episcopal church, were held here today from the First Methodist church. Final rites were under the auspices of the church and of the Masonic lodge. Eulogies were delivered by Bishop Paul B. Mitchell of St. Paul and Bishop Earl Cranston, first resident bishop of the church in the northwest. The body lay in state today until the funeral at 1:30 o'clock.

Final ceremonies were held at the Portland crematorium late this afternoon, the body being placed in a vault there pending final burial arrangements.

Potato Boycott In Force In Tacoma

Tacoma, Wash., Apr. 10.—A boycott on the use of potatoes is under way here today. They are selling for $1.65 a ton and dealers were predicting that next week they will touch the $2.00 mark.

Local restaurants today displayed such signs as "Potatoes are outrageously high. Eat beans, rice and macaroni."

"Boycott potatoes for 20 days and watch the price drop."

Produce dealers said that housewives are refusing to buy potatoes, but that they are selling all they can obtain.

Alleged Thief Is Asked Re-Arrested

Portland, Or., Apr. 10.—August Junga, arrested yesterday at Scotland, S. D., on a warrant issued here charging larceny, has been released on bail, according to advices reaching here today. Local authorities have telegraphed to Scotland authorities asking that he be re-arrested.

According to Sheriff Harburt, Junga's alleged defalcations here aggregate more than $100,000.

Base Crook Takes Coin From Church

Portland, Or., April 10.—During his absence from the parsonage on Sunday, offerings of the day totalling approximately $200 were taken from the parsonage desk, Rev. G. J. Hatton, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church told the police today.

It was the first opportunity he had had to report the loss of the money, he said, all of which had been taken in the Easter offertory.

MURDERER SENTENCED

Butte, Mont., Apr. 10.—Steve Byrne recently convicted in district court here of the murder last December 9 of Sylvester J. Prenatt, was formally sentenced by Judge J. J. Lynch today to be hanged on Friday, May 28th.

ONLY TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Nobody swatted the fly. Nobody wore a wrist watch. Nobody wore white shoes. Most young men had "livery bills." Farmers came to town for their mail. The heavens were not full of manbirds. Nor the seas alive with under-water boats. The hired girl drew one-fifty a week and was happy. The butcher "threw in" a chunk of liver. The merchant "threw in" a pair of suspenders with every suit. Nobody "listened in" on the telephone. There were no sane Fourth's nor electric meters. Straw stacks were burned instead of baled. Publishing a country newspaper was not a business—it was a dueling game. There were no Bolsheviks or international anarchists. The safety razor had not introduced the clean-shaven face. And they didn't say Sedan.
