Rural Districts Exhibiting Little Interest in Coming Primary Election

By H. E. Browne.

Aside from the fact that the new election law requires cities of more than 200 inhabitants to nominate candidates for municipal offices as the time the state primary is held, there seems to be little interest in the coming primary election in the rural districts. This fact, however, should call for a big vote in the cities as there is always more or less rivalry in the selection of municipal officers in small cities, and it is believed that a large per cent of the registered vote will be cast at the primary election.

As the end of the campaign approaches interest in the nomination of county candidates seems to increase throughout the county and some of the candidates who are closely contested in the race for office are making a diligent search for votes in all parts of the county.

Predictions "Difficult."

It is difficult, of course, to make anything like a safe guess as to the probable success of the several candidates for county offices except for sheriff, clerk, recorder and those who will have no direct opposition. The campaign this year has been attended with as little interest as any since the primary system was adopted.

The contest seems to be for county assessor and for representatives in the legislature. If one can have opinion upon what is said in different parts of the county Tom Kay is going to be first on the legislative ticket. Dave Looney of Jefferson is also recognized in most parts of the county as a probable candidate and is likely to receive high place on the ticket if Salem gives him the support he received at the last primary election. J. J. Keber, banker of Mt. Angel, is favorably spoken of in different parts of the county, and in Salem, and seems likely to be one of the lucky five. Mr. Keber was the last man to file and he is giving the campaign little attention, but having been known well in the county by reason of his activity in different public matters pertaining to the welfare of Oregon and Marion county, he is likely to be winner in the race.

Davey Likely Choice.

There seems to be considerable speculation as to the other candidates in the field receiving nomination, and who will be selected from the long list to fill the remaining two places is very difficult to determine at this time. Frank Davey, who has served in official capacity several times since choosing Oregon as a location for home and vocation, has the advantage over some of his opponents on account of his long political affiliation, wide acquaintance and efficiency as a statesman. Many are free to predict that the pioneer legislator will be nominated. One thing is certain, he will be well supported in Salem and in the eastern and northern part of the county. Martin Riggs and Wrightman, as near as can be calculated, are running neck and neck and no one dares bet on who will be first under the wire.

Assessor Race Close.

For county assessor the vote is likely to be close. West Jones and Stouffer are all working diligently in the country precincts, with sentiment in favor of the former in some parts of the county. What strength he will have in Salem is not easily determined, but it is believed that West is running ahead of the other two candidates in the country precincts. It has been said by persons who have given the contest considerable study that if West gets the vote in Salem that he will receive the vote in rural precincts proportionately. He will receive more votes than both of the other candidates put together.

The four per cent read amendment is meeting with favor throughout the county and also the educational measures, but there is some doubt, it is said, regarding the success of the latter. Sentiment in Salem is largely in favor of both and it is believed that they will carry.

Silverton, Or., Apr. 26.—Considerable interest is being awakened in this part of the county on account of the boxing match to be held in the opera house this evening. According to the
