Wood Retains Lead Over Johnson in New Jersey By Margin of 5000 Votes

Newark, N. J., April 28.—Major General Leonard Wood was still leading Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California this afternoon in New Jersey's presidential preferential primary contest.

The Californian, who took the lead on the first returns last night but who was 738 votes behind his opponent at 7 o'clock this morning, managed to cut down this margin at one time to 332 but later the general regained ground somewhat. At 12:45 o'clock revised returns for 1858 election districts out of 2025 gave Wood 49.770 and Johnson 49.237 Wood 49,770 and Johnson 49,237.

Returns for district delegates still were incomplete. Republican results were known only in five district which elected five Wood delegates four Johnson and one unpledged. Incomplete returns from six other districts showed a close vote but indi-cated election of eight Wood, two Johnson and two unpledged delegates. Complete returns from the 12th district showed that Johnson had obtained two more district delegates, bringing his total to six as compared to Wood's four.

In this district both Johnson and Wood candidates far outstripped two pledged to Senator Harding of Ohio. This was the only district in which the name of Harding adherents appeared.
