

Firm Quits Market As Growers Ask Top Berry Prices

"Our company has temporarily retired from the loganberry market in the Salem district, on account of the extremely and unreasonably high prices demanded by the growers and the present attitude of the buyers, together with the high price of sugar."

This state was made today by W. R. Scott of the Puyallup and Sumner Fruit Growers' Canning company, in announcing the withdrawal of his company from the market in the local field. That the Washington canneries concern would re-enter the Salem market when buyers and growers demonstrated a better spirit of co-operation was assured by Mr. Scott.

Local cannery representatives and growers are non-committal as to the results of the Washington buyer's action, although one grower stated that it would probably mean "just that what may less Washington label" Oregon loganberries.

The Puyallup-Sumner company's representative claims that his firm has a number of contracts in Marion county and that they will content themselves with this supply and a limited output, unless there is a decided slump in berry and sugar markets.

favorable comment that is being accorded these concerts by Charles Hawley Jr. Mr. Hawley is truly an artist in expression and interpretation and his programs are admirably arranged from the standpoint of balance and musical value. His old folk songs have probably been the more widely appreciated and the practice of asking the audience to join in the singing of one popular song, the words of which are thrown on the screen, during each concert is proving extremely popular.

Public Is Invited To Contest Tonight

An event of special interest to Salem high school students and patrons is the declamatory contest in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight April 23. With the exception of athletics this contest marks the culmination of interclass rivalry for the school year. Miss Elizabeth McLeay of the English department is coach and sponsor for this event. No admission is charged and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Co-Ed Debaters To Appear Once More

Willamette's co-ed debaters will again appear Friday night at a debate with the women of McMinnville college. This time the affirmative team will travel, and the local supporters will have an opportunity to hear their negative team, which has debated away from home in the two former debates, and has defeated both Pacific university and College of Puget Sound. Helen Hoover and Ina Moore compose the team which will debate here, and Loriel Blatchford and Myrtle Mason will go to McMinnville. The debate here will be held in the First M. E. church at 8 p. m.
