Governor Urges

People to Aid

Salvation Army

The people of the state of Oregon are urged, in an open fetter issued by Governor Ben W. Olcott, to "give as-and to ald the Salvation Army in their ampaign in the state for funds which regime May 1. The Salvation Army an also received suveral other latters

To the People of Oregon: It has been called to my attention that the Salvation Army contemplates setting aside the period from May 1 to May 10, inclusive, for its home service campaign, at which time it will seek to secure funds from the people of the state for the purposes of advancing its home service work. The Salvation Army has outlined a very comprehensive home service program for 1929. We are all familiar with the magnificent services which the Salvation Army gave during the late war. In a general way we are familiar with the work which that splendid organization is doing at home among the down-fallen and the needy. The concrete results of this great work are not so well known to our people as the Army in thousands of cases ex-tends its helping hand quietiy and without estentation. The Balvation

Army has entered a field which no other organization touches, with unto worthy causes, will not be lax in this respect. I can conceive of no more worthy cause than genuine whole-hearted and well planned organization to give assistance where as-summarizes the program in a brief

"I believe you are certainly on the right track in organizing county advisory boards. The Salvation Army has a great opportunity. The great world was brought the organization in a new light before the American people. The organization is being more and more recognized as a body doing a practical, fielpful work that no other body is undertaking. The army is practicing a real christianity, is helping those who need and must be helped. The work

"I have road your public announce-ment with some care, and am pleased to say that it meets with my cordial approval. The history of the Salvation Army for the past forty years has demonstrated beyond question its pe-culiar qualifications and adaptability for the work which it has undertaken to accomplish in the uplifting of humanity, and it has proven its merit by doing successfully a work in which the efforts of other agencies have
