JOHNSON'S CHANCES GROWING.

California rallied to the support of her native son at Tuesday's primaries and endorsed the candidacy of Hiram Johnson for the presidency—a result to be expected.

Herbert Hoover, made a most creditable showing when it is understood that he was opposed by the most perfect of political machines, by the press and money interests and without effective organization or financial support.

The result of the primaries in Indiana, no less than in New Jersey, is a moral victory for Johnson, for without organization or a barrel, he has all but routed the heavily financed and well organized Wood forces and effectively punctured the Wood boom.

Johnson is the logical candidate of the republican senatorial clique which has killed the peace treaty. He was one of the three senators with whom Lodge packed the senate committee to obtain an adverse report on the peace treaty.

If the republican convention is to oppose the peace treaty, Johnson is the logical candidate. If Johnson is not named, no other candidate can secure his support and his followers will probably bolt with him and form a third party, for Johnson belongs to the rule or ruin type of politicians.

Says the New York World: "Hiram Johnson is the whirlwind from the sowing of the republican leaders in congress since the armistice was signed, and the republican party will be lucky indeed if the whirlwind does not develop into a cyclone at Chicago in June."

Senator Alec LaFollette, who never favored a bond issue has declared in favor of the 4 per cent constitutional bond limitation amendment, after having vigorously fought the measure in the senate.

Rippling Rhymes

When there is naught else to inspire the Scottish bard, he takes his lyre, and sings about the heather, and oftentimes I envy him; for when my stock of themes is slim, I've nothing but the weather.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

By the Noted Author IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON

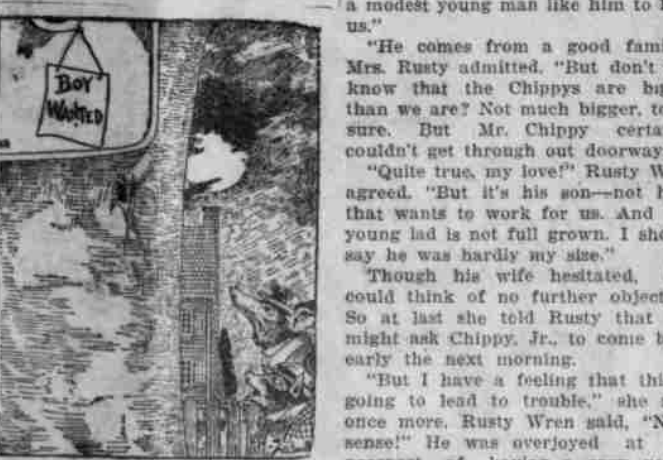

THINGS THAT MAKE A DIFFERENCE
"Katherine, Katherine, you must not feel this way," said Alice, as I still kept sobbing.

Going To Tell John.
"Oh, Alice, you knew, and you still know, that I am heartbroken. I think almost the last conscious thought I expressed was that I was going to tell John the entire truth; that I was going to tell him that I could not live with him any longer, and we both agreed that, as long as I had no children, it would be better to separate."

All Three Unhappy
"But you said, yourself, Alice, that since Bobby Gaylord fell desperately in love with Helen and left Ruth and their children in order to marry Helen, all three are unhappy. And you were right, Bobby writes and asks me to go and see his children and tell them about them. Try to persuade Ruth to let them come and see me," he says. Helen is unhappy because she has found that she cannot be everything to Bobby. The strings of his parenthood draw tighter and tighter. And even though Ruth told Bobby, when they separated, that she would be glad to get rid of him if he would leave her the children—she has always been more mother than wife—yet you tell me that even she, with money to bring up her children,

MR. CHIPPY'S SON
Rusty Wren was hurrying out of his house to find some supper for his family, when he almost bumped into a young chap who was gazing at the sign, "Boy Wanted," which still hung outside Rusty's door.

"Good evening," to Rusty very pleasantly and touched his cap. No doubt he would have taken it off had it not grown right on his head. "I see you want a boy," he observed. "I certainly do," said Rusty Wren. "What's your name?" "They call me 'Chippy, Junior,'" the youngster told him.

"Cattle Drives" Latest Terror Over Ireland

Dublin.—Conflicts over land attended by organized "cattle drives" to intimidate land owners and compel them to sell have been added lately to Ireland's other troubles. The disturbances are a revival of conditions which prevailed 50 or more years ago when farmers and graziers were forced by similar methods to sell large land holdings.

The malcontents complain that most of the good land in the south and west of Ireland is being used for grazing purposes and that they are unable to purchase it. Consequently they have resorted to the "cattle drives" and threats of bodily harm to the owners. It is very difficult to police all the country and many of the drives have resulted in three or four farmers losing all their cattle at one swoop.

The intimidators are represented as renters who are demanding longer leases of land, small owners and a certain number of holders of comparatively large tracts who believe their neighbors' land used for grazing is more suitable for tillage than the ground they are trying to cultivate.

"It is the same story again of the eighties," said a former south of Ireland land holder. They forced us to cut up our large holdings then by use of the same methods now employed. The land troubles should not be confused with crimes resulting from the political struggle. It is separate and distinct and shows evidence of being on the increase.
