

Gertrude Robison And Elmer Ross Married Today

Coming to their Salem friends as a decided surprise is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Gertrude Patricia Robison and Elmer L. Ross of this city, which took place this afternoon at 2:30 by Rev. Father Buck of St. Joseph's church.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Patricia Robison of Portland, claims a wide circle of Salem friends, having resided in the Capital city for several years. She was graduated from the Sacred Heart academy with the class of 1915. For the past year and a half she has been a member of the staff of 'The Capital Journal.' While engaged in journalistic work Mrs. Ross has made a host of acquaintances, not only by reason of her piquant and distinctive personal charm, but through the medium of her versatile literary ability, which found its most expressive channel in lyric verse of a high order. Many of her shorter poems were published during the war and made a wide appeal to poetry lovers throughout the state. She will continue to fill her present position on 'The Journal.'

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ross, of 323 South 17th street. Following his enlistment with company M at the outbreak of the war, he spent 27 months in the service, 18 of which were in France. Mr. Ross is employed in the Elliott Printing House.

The young couple will pass a few days in Portland, after which they will make their home in Salem, being domiciled at the Court apartments.

Another Bank at The Dalles Not Granted By Board

The refusal of Will H. Bennett, state superintendent of banks, to grant a charter to the proposed Citizens Bank at The Dalles is confirmed by the state banking board in a letter forwarded to Bennett Friday.

"We are fully of the opinion that there is not room for two new banks at The Dalles at this time and our finding is based solely upon such reason," the members of the board declare in explanation of their stand approving Bennett's refusal to grant the charter to the proposed new bank.

The Dalles already has two banks—French & company, bankers, a state institution, and the First National bank. A third bank, the Wasco County bank, a second state institution, will be opened for business some time this month. Business conditions at The Dalles do not justify the institution of a fourth bank, according to Bennett.

It is expected that the stand of the state banking board in withholding Bennett will result in the filing of a proceeding in mandamus in an effort to compel Bennett to issue the charter. George Joseph, Portland attorney, representing the stockholders in the proposed new bank having declared that such action would follow the failure of the appeal to produce the charter.

Hood River has voted a blanket concession to the local post of the American Legion for Fourth of July entertainment.

Willamette Host to Record Breaking Crowd of Guests at Annual May Fete

Attendance at the opening features of the annual May day fete at Willamette university yesterday was record breaking. In spite of the extra provision made for seating at the Queen's court, the scene of the coronation and May dances, hundreds of people stood up and many were unable to get a view of the dances. The weather was ideal although a trifle warm in the crowd, and so far the festival has been a great success from every point of view.

Probably eight hundred people enjoyed the picnic lunch at noon, and later inspected the campus and the college museum. At two o'clock on the Queen's court Marquis Rickel introduced President Doney, who formally opened the festival with an address of welcome, telling of the historical setting in which the celebration was being held, and mentioning present day conditions at Willamette and her need. He also presented to Merrill Ohling, president of the senior class, the pennant awarded to the class which should make the highest per capita subscription to the $100,000 drive.

Following this the Queen's coronation appeared, first the heralds, Cramer, McIntire, Sociolofsky and McGrew, followed by the master of ceremonies, Governor Olcott, then in order the maids of honor, Miss Odell Savage and Miss Freda Campbell, and finally Queen Evelyn J. Miss Evelyn Gordon, and her retinue of senior girls. Moving pictures were taken of the procession, the coronation and some of the dances.

Before the formal coronation, Governor Olcott told of the origin and history of the May Day custom, and ended with an appreciation of Willamette university, which he said was an Oregon institution, although not state supported. Among other things he quoted a statement made by James J. Hill, praising the denominational college, on the occasion of his presentation of fifty thousand dollars to Willamette.

Then the formal coronation, which was extremely simple, and the dances, participated in by university girls and by younger girls who are pupils of Mrs. White.

Of an entirely different nature were the two following acts of the festival. In the tub race on the mill stream, Leon Jennison of the freshman class outstripped his opponents by a good margin. Paul Fiegel of the juniors was second. The freshmen also triumphed over the sophomores in the push ball contest, putting the ball over the goal after eight minutes of fierce struggling, furnishing the spectators with much amusement and most of the forty participants with bumps and bruises to last them for weeks. The teams were about evenly matched with the ball on the ground, but when it rose overhead the superior size of the freshmen told. The green class also showed better endurance, as the contest was almost even for the first five minutes, but went to the freshmen from that time on. The rest of the afternoon was spent in getting acquainted with the three hundred visitors from out of town, as well as the Salem people who were present. Booths were conducted by the various literary societies, where light refreshments were served.

The atmosphere of old France after the revolution was carried out in detail in the presentation of 'The Lady of Lyons,' Bulwer-Lytton's romantic drama, by the junior class of Willamette university last night. The leading part of Claude Melnotte, the gardener's son who aspired to the hand of the haughty Pauline Deschamps, was lived to the letter by Loren Basler. The burden of the play fell on his shoulders, and he deserves great credit for the life and spirit with which he carried out the part.

Miss Fay Perring carried the leading role with grace and ease, and Edwin Sociolofsky was convincing as the villain, Miss Buckner as the widow Melnotte showed great histrionic ability. Myrtle Mason as the proud mother of the lady, and Ralph Thomas as the crusty colonel Damas, furnished most of the comedy of the play. Others who took part were Ivan Corneer, Mary Notson, William Sherwood, Kieth Lyman, Paul Fiegel, Fred Aldrich, Russell Rarey, Frank Foster and Herald Emmel.

London, May 8.—Profit-sharing and labor co-partnership development is not on the increase in the United Kingdom, according to a report issued by the Ministry of Labor, which says that 152 such enterprises involving 244,000 employees were in existence last October as compared with 356 which had been started since 1865.

TRADE MARK THE FARMERS POWER PLANT

"To make farming what it ought to be—the most pleasant and profitable profession in the world."

That is Henry Ford's vision of the Fordson Tractor and what it means to the farmer. The farmers of America have done wonderful work, they have labored hard and patiently and their efforts have made prosperity commonplace for the nation.

The limitless forces of gasolines, kerosene and electricity are now ready to loose the bonds of long hours in the field, uncertain crops and shortage of labor.

The farmer's wife can now enjoy more of the beauties of life. The tractor will make it hard to keep the boys and girls away from the farm. Conveniences now commonplace in the city are brought to the farm and far mhouse by the tractor.

Mr. Ford bought thousands of acres of land, experimented for years on 62 different models of tractors at a cost of millions of dollars, before he found in the Fordson Tractor a machine he had proven a success. Mr. Ford did the experimenting with his own money. The Fordson is ready to do your work.
