A man who had made a study of poultry raising for some time said a few days ago that when the poultry of Oregon receives the same care and attention that is given to the stock on the farm, a long step will be reached toward the success of husbandry and is a profitable business, too, it bandled judiciously.

When all the incidents of the speak er's career are recalled, it is not surrising that brick blocks and Irish bonds are more highly regarded than the American public school, the Amerlean flag, and American boys and girls.

Could Peter D'Arcy cost (and count) torate (and he is reputed to know a few things along this line), we might expect him to turn our school houses in pig stys, our court houses and public buildings into Sinn Fein headquarters, our colleges and universities into temples of ignorance and illistracy, and our school books into bricks for business blocks on lot 1, block 1, Salem, Oregon.

A TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE.

It is a strange travesty on justice not to inflict the full penalty of the law upon "Bluebeard" Harvey, the Los Angeles multiwife murderer and arch criminal who admits having married over twenty women for their money and having in cold blood killed nine

In return for his confession, immunity was promised by the district attorney, but the web of circumstantial evidence had already enmeshed Harvey and confession was superfluous. It was only because he realized that the noose was tightening about his neck, that the trembling and cowardly wretch related the story

The net result of this official compromise with justice is to punish the people of California by burdening them for the guard-Black ing, clothing, feeding and care of this moral monster for an in-called definite period of years. The poor but honest man may suffer hardship and hunger and have no place to lay his head, but this beast in human form is assured of comfort and provision as long as his worthless heart beats, and without effort on his part.

This degenerate can never become a useful member of society which he burdens. He is not bothered with a conscience to reproach him. He married and murdered to secure money for a life of ease-and now the state provides him this easy existence as a reward of merit and relieves him of the necessity of more marriages and murders to secure the wherewithal.

Had this modern "bluebeard" been apprehended in Oregon, the confession would not have been forthcoming, for there would have been no fear of the gallows to extort it. The severest penmickle makes a muckle" can well be alty he could have incurred would have been a pension for life.

All of which emphasizes the need of restoring capital punishment as a penalty for murder. As long as society breeds bluebeards and degenerates of his type, just so long will the gallows be needed as a protection to society. While not a preventative of crime, the noose is certainly a deterant.
