

Scout' Drive for Paper is Earnest Effort for Funds

The boy scouts of this city are all set for the big paper drive. They have the stage all set for collecting every article of paper, magazines, rags and similar waste that can be located. Salem's finest citizens are behind them, and every thing has been prepared and is in readiness.

Many Ready to Aid
Scout Executive Cook announces that already a great many people have been saving and bundling paper for the scouts, and that from all indications, Salem will come through with all that is needed to put scouting "over the top."

Remember, 100,000 pounds of paper is needed to put the scout program on a firm financial basis in this city, and to insure all of Salem's ladies a part in the haven of pleasure that scouting affords. It will mean that every housewife or office man must give one hundred percent co-operation to the leaders of this drive, and when the scout calls at your home or office for paper, that you dig up as much as you can possibly find for this purpose.

Territory is large
The territory assigned the scouts in this drive is exceptionally large, and it may be possible that the drive will continue for at least two weeks, in order that the entire city may be canvassed, and everyone be given an opportunity to contribute to this drive. If you are passed up by the scouts in their rounds, please call the scout executive at phone 772, and he will be glad to send for your paper.

The paper will be stored in the Southern Pacific warehouse, at the corner of Perry and Front streets, until the required amount is accumulated, and then will be shipped to the big paper mills for manufacturing purposes.

Plumbers Open Session; Denton Gives Welcome

With the strains of "America" filling the auditorium of the Commercial Club where the delegates had gathered, the 19th annual state convention of the Oregon State Association of Master Plumbers opened in the city at two o'clock Friday afternoon. More than 150 delegates to the convention, their wives and children thronged the auditorium to capacity, rivaling any gathering at any former convention of the master plumbers.

Acting for the mayor, Walter Denton made a brief address of welcome that was received with long applause. "In behalf of the mayor and of the citizens of Salem, I wish to extend to you a most happy welcome to our city," Mr. Denton declared. "In olden ages it was the custom of the townspeople to hand to their guests the keys to the city, which were treasured by them and kept until the time when they should leave their gates and hospitality. But we have no keys in Salem. We have no keys. We recognize no boundary—only that which includes the outermost realms of the city. To this I welcome you; and to the county, to which we are so proud to have you come."

"I wonder if the people really recognize just what the plumbers do toward making their town or city the happiest, brightest and sanitary places in which to live? I am sure that they would had they only the opportunity to become more acquainted with you, know you, and to see you work."

A cordial response to Mr. Denton's welcome, in which he lauded the hospitality of the city and paid great praise to its beauty, was made by O. G. Hughson, of Portland.

"We came here because nowhere in this great land is there a better place we could have come to gather for the purpose of hearing the higher traits of plumbing expounded."

Washington, May 14.—Two or three years will be required for the sugar situation to get back to normal, Herbert Hoover, former food administrator, estimated today before the house committee investigating the sugar situation. Mr. Hoover, expressing what he said was an "off-hand" opinion, asserted that there would have been a "steep rapid" rise in domestic sugar prices had Attorney General Palmer not agreed that Louisiana producers could sell their "crop" at 17 and 18 cents a pound.
