Veteran Of Civil War Is Buried At Monmouth

Monmouth, Or., May 21.—Funeral services for the late Warren Neal were held at the family home in this city Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Neal died Tuesday morning after a brief illness. He was buried in the K. P. cemetery, south of town.

The death of Mr. Neal removes another of the this line of surviving veterans of the Civil war. He was born in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, April 2, 1846. When but twelve years of age, through the death of his father he was thrown on his own resources and learned the blacksmith's trade. As soon as he reached a sufficient height to pass the physical requirements he enlisted in the 18th Pennsylvania cavalry in company A and was with the army of the Potomac until he was discharged July 10, 1865.

Like many other young men of the mines of the west attracted to him and he set out to seek his fortunes arriving in time to take part in Indian troubles which prevailed in New Mexico and Arizona in the early seventies. He was a blacksmith in one of the army companies, serving under General Crook.

Eventually he located at Wichita, Kansas, as a blacksmith but tried his hands at raising sheep for a time. July 2, 1881, he was married to Elva Pickering at Arkansas City, Kansas, and they soon moved to Salem, Oregon. Three years later they returned to Arkansas City.

In 1894 because of the poor health of Mrs. Neal they returned to Oregon, locating in McMinnville where Mr. Neal worked as a blacksmith. Because of poor health he quit active work at his trade and in 1908 they came to Monmouth where they have since resided.

He was among the Oregon veterans who attended the Gettysburg reunion in 1913. Of four children born to the Neals, two survive with the widow. They are William H. Neal of Camas, Washington, and Mrs. Mabel Grover of Clatskanie.

Silk Sports SKIRTS

Of Silks, Satins and Crepe de Chine

Fashion has decreed the sports skirt a necessity of the summer wardrobe. And surely it is a delightful necessity when one finds such lovely models as we are now showing. Your skirt may be a gleamy white or a pastel shade of delicate tint. When worn with the sheer blouses of the present mode, a silk sports skirt becomes a thing of beauty.

We regret that we were able to secure only a hundred and fifty of these skirts, for they were such a fortunate buy that we are able to price them most attractively. We will doubtless have many more calls for these skirts than we can accommodate, but, of course, it is the early shopper that will reap the advantage of this sale.
