

Annual Tennis Tournament to Be Revived Here

An all-city tennis tournament, open to all enthusiasts has been announced by the Salem Tennis club to be played in the city courts commencing June 7 and continue four days.

This tournament is being inaugurated for the purpose of getting every tennis player in Salem into it, and thus put the capital city into the favorable tennis limelight that it formerly occupied. In former years tennis tournaments were an annual event here, and Salem players won laurels at the big northwest tournaments. There are so many new people here now, however, that this tournament will prove the unmasking of one dark horse after another.

Every player is urged not to let the fact that he or she may be a little rusty or out of form keep them out of this tournament, stranger against stranger, to get one on their toes.

There will be four events in the tournament, men's singles, men's doubles, ladies' singles and mixed doubles. If enough ladies signify their desire for a ladies' doubles event, this will also be scheduled. Entries for the tournament will close Saturday, May 29, and will be accepted up to that time by Dr. Burdette at Hartman Bros. Hardware and Fred Thielsen at the Rogers Paper company.

The tournament will be held under the rules of the United States National Lawn Tennis association. Balls and umpires will be furnished for all matches, and a nominal fee will be charged for each entry. Small trophies will be given the winners of the different events by local merchants. Every player is cautioned to get their entry in before Saturday as Monday is a holiday and Tuesday will be too late.

Before I had much to do with helping men in their political achievements I used to think that Canada thistles were the hardest things in the world to kill down and the swiftest to spread, but I've since learned that the political sorehead has a clench on immortality that makes the thistle a thing of passing moment.

I am told that a queen bee lays several thousand eggs a day and delegates the feeding of them entirely to slaves. But even at that rate Mrs. Bee is at a decided disadvantage in the work of perpetuating the species compared with the political sorehead who keeps reasonably busy sowing dissension. A social scandal in a small town is a slow grower compared to a well directed point of dissipation with the efforts of a newly in state politician.

It's a good idea to keep the sorehead from moving right to the ground and then cover the spot with rock salt every week or two. In other words give them the Canada thistle treatment in its severest form. Even then they are sure to show their heads in new places every little while.

It would seem that a man might as well make up his mind right from the start to defer being a statesman until after he's dead. If he's a good enough politician while living, his mourning constituents and the newspapers will take care of his promotion to the statesman class after he's gone. So set it down in the beginning that statesmanship is a luxury to be cultivated in moments of leisure. Of course it isn't particularly stimulating to one's patriotism to take this view of the case, but the practical man will square himself to the actual conditions—and if these are not now the conditions, things have changed mightily since I used to lay awake nights trying to pipe lines of influence into the working department of the political body. I used to think that I had fooled around the state house long enough to get onto all the important wrinkles that were really worth knowing; but I have since learned that familiarity breeds blindness as well as contempt, and hereafter I'll keep away.

Car Judged On Operating Cost Basis Of Claim

"A commercial car is judged on the basis of its operating costs—costs that can be figured in terms of money and time," says E. G. Delano, local dealer in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"One of the principle items of expense is gasoline. Another is tires. Economy in these items therefore is important."

"In selecting a commercial car care should be taken to see that the motor, in addition to being mechanically dependable, is known for its economy in fuel consumption."

"The economy of the truck should be as well proportioned to the power as to result in a further saving of fuel, and also in a saving of tires."

"Furthermore, commercial cars should be equipped with electric starters. This is an important feature in saving both gasoline and time."

"The inconvenience of cranking the motor to start is unpleasant to the average driver. It is a common practice to crank the motor with the car being loaded or is standing at a delivery stop. This is waste of gasoline and runs into considerable money in time."

"The electric starter eliminates this expense and the inconvenience which caused it."

"In addition the electric starter saves the time required to get the car started, walk to the front of the car, crank a cold engine and climb back to the seat."

"The combined saving of time and fuel effected in this way is a substantial item. It is a practical contribution to the greater economy of commercial car transportation."

A class of seven will be graduated this year by district No. 214 in eastern Lewis county, Washington. This is the largest consolidated school district in the state, comprising Morton, Mineral and Randle.

What Good Is a Dollar?

It's largely up to you. It depends on how you spend it —on the value to YOU of what you get for it—on your ability to find where that value is to bad.

Of course, it's all right to shop around a bit if you like, but why not let the other fellow make it easier for you by doing a little shopping after your dollar—by showing you what and where you can get most of it for your money?

It's a great idea, once you get the hang of it, and here's how!

Right in this paper you'll find dozens of advertisements offering you merchandise. Some things you'll need today; some tomorrow; some next week or next year—but the point is that these merchants are coming to you, looking for your dollar and offering the best they have to get it.

You'll find that by reading the advertisements consistently today and every day, you can increase the value—to yourself—of every dollar you have to spend. The things you see advertised are almost invariably as represented. The advertisers' statements are usually safer to trust than your own judgment. Advertised misrepresentation is business suicide.

Read the Advertisements and Increase the value of your dollar!
