

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER Published every evening except Sunday by The Capital Journal Printing Co., 135 South Commercial street. Telephone—Circulation and Business Office, 51; Editorial room, 52. G. PUTNAM, Editor and Publisher. Entered as second class mail matter at Salem, Oregon.

BUYING THE PRESIDENCY. The senate probe of primary campaign expenditures of presidential candidates is calculated to open the eyes of the people as to the methods of manufacturing popularity and the power of wealthy coteries and syndicates to control government.

Governor Lowden admits putting up $400,000 for his own candidacy—so that he is under no obligations to anyone, but the expenditure of such a huge sum for selfish purposes comes as a shock to the country—the commercializing of the presidency.

Where there exists a real sentiment among the people for a candidate, as should be the case with the presidency, there is no need of a slush fund, but when the sentiment has to be manufactured, as in the case of Wood and Lowden, a slush fund is essential.

Another amendment to the federal constitution providing a single standard of morals for men and women and inflicting severe penalty for immorality is favored by William J. Bryan.

Success in putting over the prohibition amendment has evidently convinced the Commoner that all that is needed to change human nature, regulate humanity and complete the reformation of man is a constitutional amendment enforcing ancient blue laws.

The "single standard" is already the moral and statute law of the land, and if social ostracism and the severe penalties imposed, have failed to make its observance universal, it is difficult to understand what a constitutional amendment could accomplish.

Rippling Rhymes ANOTHER STRIKE. The cost of ink drives men to drink, or would, if there were liquor; and paper pads demand the scads till bards grow sick and sicker. I bought some wire to fix my lyre, for it was badly busted; and oh, the price! It must suffice to say that I'm disgusted.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE By the Noted Author IDAH McGLONE GIBSON Two Letters. There was a light tap on the door and Hannah brought in two letters. One was the long-delayed letter that Charles had spoken of in his telegram before John went away, the other was from John himself.

Abel Martin Life had just returned from a trip and reports millions of dollars worth of rubber standing idle for the want of sugar. It's kind of a holiday when father gets sick, but it puts a strain on everything when mother

On the Beaver Dam. Timothy Turtle was so angry that he went about snapping at everybody and everything. And since the whole Beaver family kept carefully out of his way he had to content himself with setting his jaws upon roots and sticks. Now, the Beavers' dam was made of sticks and mud. So Timothy found plenty of chances to bite. And because he could not hurt the sticks, no matter how much he tried, nobody cared. Really he acted in a most silly, surly fashion.

Out of a corner of his eye Brownie Beaver watched Timothy Turtle closely. Brownie had not forgotten how Timothy seized his mother by the tail before marriage was John camouflaged with the beautiful colors of a man in love.

G. O. P.-Convention Snap-Shots THE STORY OF 16 NOMINATIONS By A. H. VANDENBERG Seventh Convention. The seventh republican national convention, which met in Chicago, June 2, 1880, will always remain historic.

Blaine forces fought the designation of Powell Clayton of Arkansas and beat him 424 to 384 with John R. Lynch, a colored delegate from Mississippi. John B. Henderson of Missouri was permanent chairman.

Ninth Convention. When the ninth quadrennial republican party convocation met in Chicago, June 9, 1888, James G. Blaine was still the towering giant among all republicans.

On the first ballot Blaine had 254 votes—a figure which never grew. On the second ballot one lone delegate swung to Garfield. Thus dead-locked, there were few changes through one roll call after another.

Eighth Convention. The eighth republican national convention, meeting June 3, 1884, at Chicago, finally gave Blaine the decoration which two previous conventions had denied—gave it to him by strange prank of fate, the first time in 24 years that the republican nominee was to fail of election.

Wilson Says Such a Peace (Continued from page one) tered the war is safeguarded—is, or ought to be, inconceivable, is inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and liberties of her citizens, and with the very fundamental conditions of civilization.

Wilson Says Such a Peace (Continued from page one) tered the war is safeguarded—is, or ought to be, inconceivable, is inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and liberties of her citizens, and with the very fundamental conditions of civilization.

Wilson Says Such a Peace (Continued from page one) tered the war is safeguarded—is, or ought to be, inconceivable, is inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and liberties of her citizens, and with the very fundamental conditions of civilization.

Wilson Says Such a Peace (Continued from page one) tered the war is safeguarded—is, or ought to be, inconceivable, is inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and liberties of her citizens, and with the very fundamental conditions of civilization.

Wilson Says Such a Peace (Continued from page one) tered the war is safeguarded—is, or ought to be, inconceivable, is inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and liberties of her citizens, and with the very fundamental conditions of civilization.

gave me any orders young fellow! I shall do just as I please; and nobody can stop me." Timothy noticed that Brownie went to a number of the other workers and whispered to them. And when every one to whom he spoke called to Timothy and asked him if he wouldn't just as soon let go of that stick and grab another one that crusty old coddler Worn Out In Mind and Body Your child is quick to observe disturbances in your mental attitude or physical condition. And when he asks: "What's the matter, Daddy?" there's a tone of solemn anxiety in his little voice.

Advertisement for LYKO Tonic. It includes an image of the product bottle and text describing its benefits for vitality and health.

For Sale by all Druggists. Always in Stock at Perry's Drug Store.

Large advertisement for LADD & BUSH BANKERS. It features the text 'Advertisements Tell You' and 'Advertisements Save You' along with an illustration of a woman and a child. The bank is established in 1868 and has a general banking business.