

Willamette to Graduate 45; Programs Out

Commencement at Willamette university comes next week, beginning Sunday, June 13, and ending Wednesday for a class of 45, the largest for several years. President Carl Gregg Doney will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning in the First M. E. church. Monday evening President and Mrs. Doney's reception to the seniors, their guests, the alumni, trustees and students will be held in Eaton hall.

Tuesday's events include the annual meeting of the board of trustees in the morning and the class day exercises, including stunts by each of the lower classes and the presentation of the senior gift in the afternoon. Wednesday brings the commencement proper, beginning at 9:30, when a procession headed by the seniors will march from Eaton hall to the church. The address of the morning will be given by President P. L. Campbell of the University of Oregon, and the degrees will be conferred by President Doney. At 2:30 in the afternoon the alumni association will hold its election of officers and at 5:30 will come the annual banquet, at which the class of 1920 will be formally welcomed into the association.

Price Cutting Is Held Dangerous To Country Now

General price cutting at this time will be fatal to the financial condition of the country unless manufacturing efficiency in the nation is increased and production improves to an extent never known before. In the opinion of E. L. Eddy, of the Ladd & Tilton bank, of Portland, who addressed the business men at their luncheon in the Commercial club Monday noon.

The nation faces a serious inflated condition in its currency that will spell panic or at least serious trouble. This condition is brought on in the country by the promiscuous issuance of obligations by the Government during the war that is not based upon actual assets, Mr. Eddy said.

Price cutting is dangerous at this time, Mr. Eddy asserted, because there is no surplus of staple goods. Price cutting, therefore, he held, would cause a great drain on what surpluses that do exist, causing only greater shortages of goods generally.

"I know men who drive autos who have no business to," Mr. Eddy declared. "People have become wildly extravagant, with no mind at all of former financial standards upon which the development of the nation has been based for years. We can not go on this way."

"Consumption must lessen in this country, and efficiency must be built up if prices are to be cut. It would be folly and dangerous to reduce prices otherwise."

Chautauqua for Salem Scheduled For July 18-24

The opening announcement of the Ellison-White chautauqua program for this year seems to assure music, lecture and entertainment fans a week of enjoyment. The dates have been definitely announced as July 18-24.

A musical feature of outstanding interest is that the Royal Welsh Lady Singers of Wales, Great Britain, under direction of Madame Hughes-Thomas, is coming on the fourth day in two concerts. This organization is widely famed as one of the greatest of ladies choruses.

Other unusual features of note are: Paul Pereira, the Portuguese violinist and composer with the string quintet; the return engagement of Mary Adel Hays, the coloratura soprano from New York who made such a successful tour over the south and west under Ellison-White management last year; The Parnells, a company of musical entertainers standing high in the musical world; and the Alaska Duo, featuring Lona Laska, a native Alaskan girl with soprano voice of remarkable beauty and power.

Lecturers of note are: Judge Fred G. Bale of Ohio; Judge Geo. D. Alden of Massachusetts; Carlton Chamberlayne, editor and publicist of New York; Julius Caesar Mayrho, of Athens, Greece; Dr. G. Whitfield Ray, F. R. G. S., with his story of fourteen years exploration work in South America, and E. B. Fish, the famed two-fisted fighter for Americanism who has been chasing bolshevists out of the northwest.

Instead of a band on the fifth day as in previous years, a splendid production of "Kindling," the big New York dramatic success, is to be presented by the Maurice Browne Players.

811 Oregonians Died In Service

A total of 811 Oregon men gave their lives for the cause of freedom in the recent world war, according to a list just compiled by Adjutant General White from officials records of the war department. The list includes only men serving in the army and marine corps and does not include men in the navy which together with Oregon credited to other states, it is estimated, would bring the list up to approximately 900.

Multnomah county heads the honor list with a total of 239 dead, 99 of whom were killed in action and 140 dying from wounds and disease. Marion county is second on the list with 60 men, 23 killed in action and 37 dead from other causes.

The "red" cards of the war department, from which the list was compiled contain a complete record of each man's connection with the service, including the date of his enlistment and induction into service, the organizations with which he served, rank and promotions and the battles or engagements in which he participated. This complete information, Adjutant General White states, will be transmitted to the relatives of any of the men upon request.

The war department has also been requested by the adjutant general's office to furnish a complete record of every man and woman entering the service from Oregon in any capacity.

Church Observes 40th Anniversary Of Pastor's Work

Silverton, Or., June 7.—Yesterday was the fortieth anniversary of Rev. J. C. Roseland's ministerial work in the United Lutheran church society of America, and the event was fittingly celebrated by members of St. John's congregation, of which he is pastor.

Rev. Mr. Roseland came to Silverton several years ago and has since been pastor of the St. John's church. During his pastorate a large and entirely new edifice has been erected and in this a new pipe organ was installed a few months ago. The congregation has increased nearly 50 per cent in the past five or six years and the church has never been in such favorable condition as at the present time.
