

How The Republican Platform Looks, Shorn Of It's Decorations.

Republican party reaffirms its unyielding devotion to constitution of United States.

Democratic administration unprepared for war and equally unprepared for peace.

Demonstrated incapacity of democratic party has destroyed confidence and weakened authority of government.

Republican party undertakes to end executive autocracy and restore constitutional government.

Justice of collective bargaining as means for promoting good will between capital and labor recognized.

Administration denounced for failure to demobilize military forces and stretch in expenditures following war.

Republican party congratulated for enactment of legislative budget law and president censured for its defeat.

Farmer is declared backbone of nation and entitled to adequate representation in government.

Administration of farm loan law so as to facilitate acquisition of land by men desiring to become owners demanded.

Program of constructive legislation in great part nullified by vindictive vetoes of president.

Republican congress has stopped flood of public treasure recklessly poured into the lap of an inept shipping board and laid foundations for a great merchant marine.

Permanent woman's bureau in department of labor established by the republican congress.

Party denies right of workmen to strike against government, but insists that rights and interests of employes must be safe-guarded.

Compulsory arbitration not advocated, but in its place impartial commissions and better facilities for voluntary mediation and conciliation.

Credit claimed for legislation in behalf of Civil War veterans and providing for needs of service men of recent world war.

Sound policy demands real reduction of tax burden and substitution of simple for complex tax law and procedure.

Prime cause of the high cost of living has been 50 per cent depreciation in purchasing power of dollar, due to gross expansion of currency and credit.

Republican party pledges itself to earnest and consistent attack on living costs by rigorous avoidance of further inflation of currency and promotion of production.

Party reaffirms its belief in protective principle and pledges itself to revision of the tariff as soon as conditions make it necessary.

Promotion and elevation of standards of living and citizenship declared first duty of government.

Recent legislation by republican congress to promote and maintain American merchant marine endorsed.

Existing policy of United States for practical exclusion of Asiatic immigrants is sound and should be maintained.

No alien should be permitted to become a citizen until he has become genuinely American.

Transportation service best assured through private ownership and operation of railroads under proper regulation and control.

Laws against combinations in restraint of trade approved, but amendments held necessary to make business situation clear.

Immediate resumption of trade relations with nations with which United States is at peace demanded.

Liberal appropriation in co-operation with the states for construction of highways favored.

Comprehensive reclamation policy to increase national wealth and production demanded.

Party holds in imperishable remembrance the valor and patriotism of the soldiers and sailors who fought in great war for human liberty and pledges itself to discharge obligation.

Republicans welcome women into full participation in activities of party and of government.

manuscript beginning deliberately and then warning up the Lowden supporters to repeated cheering.

Another Woman Heard

Another woman was called to the rostrum to second a candidate. Mrs. Fletcher Dobbins of Chicago made the seconding speech for the Illinois governor.

Mrs. Dobbins said: "In behalf of the women of Illinois who believe that business efficiency and common sense are a vital necessity of our government in this hour and for those who hope to lighten the burdens of the women as well as the men on the farm and believe in a program of humanitarian and social legislation to conserve the welfare of America, I have the honor in seconding the nomination of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois."

Governor Morrow of Kentucky made another brief seconding address. Then when California was called cheers broke out.

Johnson Nominated

Senator Beveridge presented Chas. S. Wheeler of San Francisco who made the speech nominating Senator Johnson.

son noise had been let loose, Senator Lodge tried to quiet it but at first he had little luck.

"He kept the chairman's table dancing with his gavel blows and shouted to the delegates to take their seats and clear the aisles. Most of the delegates got back into their places but the noise in the galleries kept up and the demonstration was just a half hour old when the hall was stillled enough for Senator Lodge to present Representative Schall the blind member of congress from Minnesota who seconded Senator Johnson's nomination. Led to the front of the platform by his little boy, Representative Schall was greeted by a new outburst of applause. He began his speech with an energy which kept the Johnson sympathizers cheering almost continuously.

Delegates Weary

When Senator Lodge announced that Representative Schall's time had expired there were cries of "go on, go on" but when the chairman asked if he wanted to suspend his rules and let the speaker proceed, some of the delegates said "no." The senator then agreed unanimously to grant two additional minutes to give Mr. Schall and the prevailing verdict of the delegates was "good, good."

It was after 2 o'clock before Mr. Doherty concluded and the delegates began to show plainly that they were getting tired and hungry. Several of the state delegation chairmen sent out and got bundles of sandwiches to pass around.

Another seconding speech for Senator Johnson was made by Charles P. O'Neil of Michigan. He said Michigan wanted a candidate for president "whose convictions on popular questions can be found without a search warrant."

Business Ability Landed

The Illinois candidate, Mr. Pickett said, represented no particular section and made his campaign on no narrow issue, but on a platform as broad as the nation itself; like Representative Rodenberg the speaker had a full, ringing voice and he kept the crowd well in hand. There was a rousing cheer from the convention floor when Mr. Pickett said the nation needs a practical man, and that Governor Lowden would fill that bill.

Governor Lowden, Mr. Pickett declared was not running on one principle but on the fundamental foundation of the republican party.

Domestic issues, he said, will be predominant. Governor Lowden also, he said, represents no particular class.

Mr. Pickett had to be told that his time was up.

"In Iowa," he said, "we know Governor Lowden; we believe in him, we trust him and we join with Illinois in giving him to the nation."

Straw Hats Smashed

The Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma, Connecticut, Arkansas and Kentucky delegations showed up among the Lowden pictures in the parade. Again the lights went on for the movie men and it's aroused another wave of noise.

Some of the delegates' chairs were overturned as the parade became more riotous and there was much smashing of straw hats as the enthusiasts pushed their way through the crowded convention floor.

Fifteen minutes after the demonstration began it apparently was gaining headway, and Senator Lodge was making no effort to stop it.

In the galleries there was a lot of noise but at first not the co-ordinated cheering which had marked the Wood demonstration.

Chief Leaders Busy

Presently, however, some Lowden cheer leaders got busy and loosed repeated roars from the galleries. Following the example of the women in the parade, Albert S. Smith, a grey whiskered delegate from Springfield, Ill., mounted to the shoulders of two delegates and was carried about the tortuous course of the procession.

Round and round through the delegates section went the paraders, walking on each other's and everybody else's corns and keeping up their cheering without a lull. Governor Morrow of Kentucky climbed on the speaker's platform and motioned to the Lowden supporters in the galleries to flutter the big American flags draping from the rail.

When it had gone forty minutes, just as long as the Wood demonstration the first attempt was made to stop the noise. Senator Lodge had given the chair to former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and the latter landed his gavel on the chairman's table so that it shook the platform. But the Lowden forces thought they ought to make the demonstration a little longer and Senator Beveridge sent for some of the leaders of the Lowden delegations and asked them to use their influence to quiet the convention floor, so as to speed up.

The noise abated a little and most of the delegates took their seats but the galleries kept it up, while Senator Beveridge industriously punished the gavel. At forty two minutes the demonstration finally was stilled and Charles E. Pickett of Waterloo, Iowa, seconded Governor Lowden's nomination.

Woman Gets "Hand"

Mr. Knox, a former private of the Rough Riders, told the convention that New Hampshire, the general's native state, regarded him "not as a son of the state, but a son of the whole nation."

The speaker got a lot of cheers but not so much as did Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, still in mourning for her brother, Colonel Roosevelt, when she took the platform to second General Wood's nomination. She got a rousing ovation when she was introduced by Senator Lodge.

To stop the demonstration Mrs. Robinson waved her hand.

She spoke with a clear, carrying voice with crisp enunciation, apparently heard with ease to the depths of the hall.

Mrs. Robinson declared she wanted Leonard Wood for president "not because he was my brother's friend, but because he is his type of man."

She was loudly cheered at the end of her speech.

Lowden's Name Presented

Senator Lodge soon got a hearing, however, and the roll of the states was continued. Arkansas yielded to Illinois and Representative William A. Rodenberg of that state was presented to nominate Governor Lowden.

Reservoir Permit Sought By Eastern Oregon Company

An application covering the construction of the P-ranch reservoir for the storage of 120,000 acre feet of water from Desner and Blitzen rivers for irrigation purposes, was filed with the state engineer's office here Thursday by the Eastern Oregon Livestock company of Harney county.

Other water filings made with the state engineer's office Thursday were covering the appropriation of water from an unnamed gulch for irrigation of a small tract in Josephine county. By Chas. H. Hoak, La Grande, covering the appropriation of water from Grande Ronde river for the irrigation of ten acres of land, in Union county.

Scout Camp To Be Biggest One Yet

Next Monday morning, June 14th, a majority of Salem's boy scouts will leave this city for their annual summer camp near McCredie Hot Springs out of Oakridge, Oregon. The Southern Pacific company has placed an entire special train at the disposal of the scouts for their trip, the baggage cars of which will arrive in this city for loading on Saturday.

Scout Executive Cook announced Friday that the camp has gained immense proportions and that articles for the commissary department have reached unusual numbers. Over 3000 meals will be served on the camp, and every member of the camp will receive all that he can stow away in the line of good grub.

Thirty generous hearted and broad minded business men of this city, who compose the Salem council, boy scouts of America, have made this trip possible, and are sparing no expense in order to insure every boy that attends a royal good time, a season of intense training in the scout program, proper supervision and leadership and an opportunity to gain a vision of service that will prove ever beneficial.

Two government experts, one from the department of agriculture, and one from the forestry department will lecture to the boys at the camp, using slides and moving pictures to illustrate their lectures. Others are also taking a great interest in the camp, including three college professors who will visit the camp on errands of instruction. Subjects such as wild life, camping and sanitation, forestry, fire prevention and methods of living will occupy the scope of these lectures. In fact, the camp will evolve itself into a school for leadership, and attempt will be made to prepare future scoutmasters and boys workers.

Scotts Mills To Gravel Streets

Scotts Mills, Or., June 11.—City council met Saturday night and transacted their general business. Several new bills came up and were discussed and were tabled until next meeting. Council asked street committee to notify property owners to place new sidewalks and clean up vacant lots. Street committee was authorized to purchase crushed rock and repair all streets that are in bad condition. Some new ordinances will be read at next meeting.

An attempt is being made to get the people of Salem to help the council secure sufficient tents to house the boys, inasmuch as the numbers of the camp have so increased as to make impossible to provide sufficient housing with the tents that are already owned by the scout council. If you have a tent that you would rent or loan, call the scout executive at 772.
