Seeks Solution Of Japanese Problem

State Department

Tokio, Sept 13.—Efforts to reach a "peaceful and satisfactory" settlement of the Japanese problem in California are being made by Roland S. Morris, United States ambassador to Japan, and Bainbridge Colby, American secretary of state, said Viscount Uchida foreign minister, today. His statement was in answer to questions from leaders of the opposition party who visited the foreign office. He added that if the pending anti-Japanese bill should be passed by the California legislature it would involve an encroachment on acquired rights of croachment on acquired rights of government Japanese in that state, and that, therefore, the American and Japatherefore, the American and Japa-nese governments "probably will take the proper steps to come to a mutual understanding."

Washington, Sept. 14.—The ques-tion of the disposition of the North-ern or Rusisan half of Saghalien island is still a matter of discussion

The foreign minister declared that both Mr. Morris and Mr. Colby considered the question very important both to Japan and the United States and that President Willessen of the state department and the Japanese ambas sador, it was learned today.
