

Quarantine of Food May Be Modified As Result of Meet Here

Assured that potatoes can be rendered free of the dangerous tuber moth, through a process of fumigation with bi-sulphide of carbon in a vacuum, recommendations to the western plant quarantine board that permission be granted to ship California potatoes to other western states, and that the quarantine against alfalfa weevil be modified so that alfalfa hay products may be shipped into western states when it is reasonably sure that they are free from infestation, will be made by quarantine officers of the northwest, it was announced today.

The information was given out following a conference in Salem of prominent entomologists from Montana, Idaho, Washington, California, Utah and Oregon. The recommendations will be placed before the executive committee of the quarantine board, of which G. H. Mackie, California commissioner of agriculture, is chairman, and Charles A. Park of Salem is a member. Mr. Park is also president of the Oregon State Horticultural board.

New Plant Installed Here.
The conference of entomologists here was co-incident with the installation of a vacuum fumigator at the Salem King's Products company. For the first time in history a contrivance of this nature is being used to control pests in food products, it is stated.

The fumigator was installed by David E. Mackie of Los Angeles, by permission of the California department of agriculture, of which he is a member.

Fumigation of food products with carbon bi-sulphide is a distinct departure from former methods, it is stated. Carbon bi-sulphide was first used by Mr. Mackie in combating the tobacco weevil which was causing serious losses in the Philippines. Many years later he employed it to control insects which infested the dates in the Soachella valley, California.

Fumigators are now used by walnut growers of California to control the codling moth, by date growers to combat the Indian meal moth and other pests infesting dates.

Fumigator Great Success.
The plant installed by the King's Products company is used to control the Indian meal moth which is distributed all over the world and which infests all cereals, dried fruits and vegetables. The Salem plant is the largest and most efficient in the world, it is stated.

Glare Blinds Man; Smash-Up Follows; Truck Is Damaged

Blinded by the glaring lights of an automobile driven by one Mr. Dunnigan, J. M. Olles of West Salem, was unable to see where he was going and crashed into some highway machinery on the Silverton road Thursday night, he told police Friday morning. A truck owned by the Jewel Tea company, which he was driving, was badly damaged, he said.

Olles said he was traveling toward Salem when the accident occurred. The road machinery on which there were no warning lights he said, took up a large portion of the highway. Nobody was injured.

He Put Dummy In Bed, Then Jumped Room Rent, Claim

After he had placed pillows in his bed, so that he would appear to be within "the draperies of his couch," and had locked the door to his room, Jack Polley, who had been romping at the home of Mrs. Sadie Smith, 343 North Liberty street, left without paying his rent, Mrs. Smith complained to police Thursday night.

Polley, who had been employed at Adolph's cigar store, on State street, for some time, quit his job Wednesday night, it was stated. Police are searching for him.

Maruney Creates New Geraniums

J. W. Maruney, Salem florist and landscape gardener, has propagated two new geraniums, which are expected to create a sensation among floral exhibits at the Oregon state fair.

The new geraniums evolved in Mr. Maruney's Salem greenhouse, have been named "Gibraltar" and "Maruney Special." The geranium, "Gibraltar" is described by Mr. Maruney as having a deep red flower with cirrus shadings. The bloom of the "Maruney Special" is a rich scarlet with white central petals.

Only a few plants of each variety will be displayed at the fair.

Osborne Is New Official at "Y"

S. L. Osborne, newly appointed physical director of the Salem Young Men's Christian association arrived in this city Friday morning and will at once assume his duties with James Elvin, secretary of the local association.

The Salem 'Y's' gymnasium equipment and facilities will be improved in all possible ways in an effort to cope with the demands made upon it by a city of 29,000 population," states Mr. Osborne.

Mr. Osborne comes to Salem from Berkeley, California, at which place he has had charge of the Berkeley high school gymnasium for the past five years. At Berkeley, he had three assistant in gymnasium and athletic departments, with classes having a total attendance of 1500 students daily.

Work in the various departments of athletic activities at the Y. M. C. A. will be officially opened, October 4.

About Town

Candidates for membership on the executive committee of the Willamette university student body were nominated at a meeting Friday morning. Professors Hewitt and Sherman were entered from the faculty, and the student nominees are Lorlei Blatchford, Myrtle Mason, Rein Jackson, Dean Pollock, Harry Rarey and Lawrence Davies.

Willamette will again have a booth at the state fair in charge of Fred McGrew. The work of arranging it was begun Friday.

Dewey Anderson is back in Salem after serving in the navy for three years. He was on the U. S. S. Gillis and was stationed in the Mediterranean ports for 18 months. He served as chief gunner. He is a former Salem high school student and his brother Raymond Anderson, who has also been in the navy is at Philadelphia to be discharged. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Anderson of Mill street.

Through a typographical error the announcement of the death notice of Patrick Feeley who died Thursday morning was given as Patrick Seley. Mr. Feeley has been a well known resident of Salem for 60 years coming here from Ireland, his native country. The recitation of the "Rosary" will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock from the Terwilliger home and the funeral service will be held from the Catholic church at 9 a. m. Saturday with burial following in the Catholic cemetery.

Henry Ford to Conduct Model Farm

Henry Ford is setting up a model farm for the inspection of visitors at the Michigan state fair. He will endeavor to show how practically all of the work of a farm can be done by machinery. His Fordson tractors will supply the power.

The "farm" will be set up on a section of the fair grounds, where crops grown during the summer will be ready for harvesting. Model farm buildings, all lighted and heated by electricity developed by Fordson power, will be erected as a part of the complete farm equipment.

Fordson tractors will show farm ers visiting the fair how ground can be prepared for planting with the least amount of human effort, time and money. Planting equipment will be shown in actual operation. A field of wheat will be harvested and threshed. The grain will be hauled to a small mill on the farm and turned into flour which in turn will be made into bread in a model bakery. Slices of fresh warm bread will be passed out to visitors. In the meantime on another section of the "farm," tractors will be busy cultivating corn and other crops and gathering the same.

"We want to make the farm an educational show just what can be done on a farm with a tractor," says the Ford tractor expert. "The Ford plant in Dearborn, Michigan, is doing a big exhibit in being able to do a lot of work with a tractor. It is our idea to show the wide variety of uses a tractor can be put to. In ingenuity, he can find other ways of using the tractor. More than a dozen tractors will be used in the farm. The cases with which it can be adapted to many points to be brought out.
