

Drugs and Deceit Used By Japs To Undermine China, Students Claim

By Jack Royle.
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Nov. 2.—Drugs and deceit are among the methods Japan is using to undermine China and her people and to get a hold on Chinese trade which America will never be able to break, according to statements of Chinese students, coming to this country for college education, to army and navy officers to-day.

The opium traffic, barred by the Chinese law, which was concentrated in by nearly every civilized nation, is being replaced in Shanghai and several other provinces by morphine and other drugs, they asserted. These drugs, they stated, were introduced among the Chinese people by Japanese under the guise of "remedies" represented to be the latest and most wonderful discoveries of medical science.

The usual method employed in fostering the habits, the students told the officers was for a Japanese, or a Chinese hired by them, to collect a crowd in the streets by banners or breath of drums. Then the alleged physician addressed the crowd, declaring that science had now produced a remedy which would cure and aches, pain or ill, and even banishing sadness and low spirits.

The usual procedure, the students said, then was to ask those with aches and pains to stop forward and be treated free. If any responded the Japanese administered a dose of morphine or other pain-diminishing drug and as soon as it had time to take effect the patients would be asked if they continued to suffer.

When they answered that they had no pain the crowd would be informed where they could obtain the marvelous remedy, the students declared.

Hold Up American Goods
Strong efforts, the students said, were being used to discredit American manufacturers by preventing prompt deliveries of American goods. They declared that tons of American goods which it was necessary to transport for China at Kaitum were held there until time of delivery was past. The Chinese purchasers were then approached and told the Japanese could furnish these same goods immediately.

The marking on the American goods then were removed according to the students, and the goods themselves forwarded without delay. No monetary profit was gained by the Japanese, the students claimed, as the goods were sold at the price named by the American shippers. When the shippers presented claims for damage the Japanese, it was declared, paid these claims without protest.

The object, the students explained, was to give the Chinese the impression that American firms were not to be depended on and that they would not keep faith, whereas the Japanese made deliveries as promised.

The students claimed that the Japanese had stifled competition in the iron mines of Shantung through control of the railroad and failure to supply cars to mines other than those controlled by Japanese.

Royal Mail Stages Passes Into History

(By International News Service.)
Seattle, Wash., Nov. 2.—The royal stages of the Klondike have passed.
No longer will the famous stages of the White Pass and Yukon Route, drawn by fleet-footed horses, attractly picturesque drivers who knew no fear as they drove the white trail north from Dawson into the Klondike. The frozen hills of the North country no more will echo back and forth the weird, stirring malamute call of the stage drivers as they brought their vehicles through the canyons and passes, or the beating of hoofs that heralded the sleds of the royal mail, the king mail—for they have gone.

News of the passing of a great work is contained in the announcement of the White Pass and Yukon Route that it will no longer be able to operate the stages because of increasing costs, and must therefore shut down.

Twenty-Year Record
And so, when snow flies, in a few weeks, over the Klondike, there will be no stages to take up the work. After twenty years' service, service as regular as morning and night, the stages have stopped. Unless some other company takes up the work there will be no communication with the "inside," and the Klondike will drop back again into the primeval isolation which was hers before the white man came in the great rush for gold.

But many who know the royal mail stages have gone. The Klondike kings whose pleasure it was to ride forth on the stages elbow to elbow with the incoming prospectors have, for the most part, gone their way. Swiftwater Bill Gates, "Big Aleek" McDonald, famous Skookum Jim the Indian, Jack Boyle and Thomas S. Lippy, great men of great times, were some of them. And "Swiftwater Bill" is somewhere south, in a South American mining camp; Tom Lippy is a Seattle banker and president of the Post Commission. "Big Aleek" sleeps on the endless trail in the Dawson Cemetery. Skookum Jim is also dead, gone to the happy hunting grounds. Jack Boyle was one of the Klondike heroes of the great war, and is now regarded as the friend and benefactor of the Rumanian royal family.

Had Noted Drivers.
And the drivers themselves—"Hoto Bill" and "Big Sim" were two of them; two of the gallant company that plied back and forth in the Arctic night, perched on the speeding sled, guiding their horses with miraculous accuracy as they skidded over the snow, the hard packed snow that was like marble. It was an event in Dawson when either of these two men piloted a royal mail into the imperial city of Yukon, carrying down the Klondike road. These drivers never used horns or bugles. Their only call, their warning as they flew around the sharp corners of the Yukon trail, was the loud, piercing, spine-chilling cry of the malamute.

Everybody gave them the right of way, the right of way to the king's mail! They knew no obstacles. And yet in the long roster of those who captained the stages there was not one who ever abused this privilege. The royal mail stages received fresh relays of horses every twenty miles and they always travelled on the dead run.

Over New Trail
In the early years of the White Pass and Yukon royal mail service the great trail followed the route of the Yukon River. But a new trail was built through the magnificent scenery by the Canadian Government. An overland route. And not only the stages used this trail but practically all of the multitude of travelers, prospectors, patrols of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, went back and forth from trading post or trading post, from camp to camp.

And now the famous old stages are gone, the stages of the royal mail. But the great white trail remains, the great white line of the overland trail that links the Klondike and the outside world during the long Arctic Winter.

Highest Degree To Be Conferred at Grange Meet

Boston, Nov. 2.—Fully 20,000 Patrons of Husbandry are expected to attend the National Grange session to be held in Boston from November 19 to 19. A feature of the session will be the conferring of the seventh or highest degree of the organization on approximately 10,000 men and women members during the second week of the gathering.

Massachusetts is expected to furnish 5,000 of the candidates for the degree. Large numbers will come from elsewhere in the New England States, in which there are 175,000 members of the organization. The agricultural States of the West will be represented. A similar degree was exemplified in Boston thirty-five years ago. There were only nine in the class.

During the session there will be a mammoth agricultural show at the Mechanics Building, Huntington Avenue. Fruits, flowers and other leading products of New England will be displayed.

Coal Shipped To New England In Large Quantities

Boston, Nov. 2.—Anthracite coal is coming into New England in steadily increasing quantities, according to a statement issued from the office of Eugene C. Huttman, State Fuel Administrator.

The statement said that in an effort to still further increase the flow into this section Huttman would personally call on the producing and shipping agencies in Philadelphia and New York some time next week. It was added that Robert B. Stone, who was director of conservation in Boston during the Federal capacity for Massachusetts during the present shortage. It was also stated that B. Campbell, vice-president of the New Haven, had received reports from all the coal carrying railroad which were optimistic in nature.

Diaz to Foment Disturbance In Mexico, Is Belief

Mexico City, Mexico, Nov. 2.—
Enemies of Felix Diaz think that a mistake was made in permitting him to sail away from Mexico to Havana, Cuba. They say that he will certainly disturb the peace of Mexico at some future time through revolutionary conspiracies. They believe that he will begin at once to organize a junta when he reaches a safe place for such operations.

These enemies, who charge that Diaz was the moving spirit in the conspiracy which resulted in the assassination of President Francisco I. Madero, insist that he should have met the fate which, they say, he marked for Madero, or that he should have been put in a Mexican prison where he could have been kept out of mischief.

The revolt of the troops at the Altotongo garrison when a rumor reached them that Diaz had been shot was pointed to by the opposers of Diaz as proof of the hold he still has upon some elements in the army and the justice he may prove to be to Mexico.

Many of the Altotongo soldiers were once in the army commanded in Diaz and they still have affection for their former general, who understood perhaps better than any other man in Mexico the art of catching the eye and commanding the admiration of ignorant peoples.

Order was not restored at Altotongo until it was explained to the soldiers that Diaz had sailed from Mexico on the steamship La Plandre, and was at the time of the revolt well on his way to Cuba.

Those who supported the plan to let Diaz get out of Mexico as quickly as possible believe that his remaining popularity will disappear when it is known among his followers that he surrendered and abandoned them, making his surrender under the appearance of capture by General Sanchez, so as to avoid possible violence at the hands of his band, who had for years made every sacrifice in support of his cause.

New York has something new in the way of clubs, the Pioneer Women's Athletic club with a membership of six hundred to start with. The club proposes to make a drive for seven thousand members and build a two-million-dollar club house near the Plaza. The purpose of the organization is to develop and encourage physical culture and athletics among women and also foster social and intellectual activities.

Mrs. Nellie B. Van Slingerland of New York, president of the Daughters of Michigan, advocates a movement for a political party to put the United States under a "matrilineal" form of government with a woman for president and women at the head of all important departments.

Salem Evidence for Salem People

The Statements of Salem Residents Are Surely More Reliable than Those of Utter Strangers.
Home testimony is real proof. Public statements of Salem people carry real weight. What a friend or neighbor says compels respect.

The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts. Here's a Salem man's statement. And it's for Salem people's benefit.

Such evidence is convincing. That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor.

Why Be Afraid of Good Food?

Eat What You Like Best But Follow It With a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.
When the stomach sours or becomes gassy, with heartburn, it needs the alkaline effect to offset the acid condition. This you get from one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Relief is usually very prompt. The regular use of these tablets after meals gives the stomach and small intestine substantial help to digest food and you will then be bold enough to eat baked beans, fried eggs, sausage, buckwheat cakes and many other things you thought would make your stomach miserable. Get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and you will then eat whatever you like and be fortified against the acid, sour stomach due to indigestion or dyspepsia. (adv)

When the car owner is confronted with the condition of excessive oil consumption and no reasonable explanation is forthcoming, it is well to suspect the rear crank shaft bearing. Looseness in the fit of the bearing permits the oil to work out and materially increase the consumption.

Never start your car with a jerk. It is preferable to engage the clutch gradually and see that the car starts with as much ease as is possible.
