The Salem chapter of American War Mothers sends out another call for jams and jellies to fill the box which is to be sent to the Fort Bayard government hospital in New Mexico as a Christmas gift to the many boys who are there for treatment. This hospital is located on a barren mountain in a desolate New Mexico district. There are at present 891 men who are stationed at this tuberculosis hospital to receive treatment. Men who have become afflicted with this disease during their service in the United States army. Miss Cornelia Marvin of this city, state librarian, visited this hospital during her several months' library work in the south and in Mexico, and started the first library in the hospital. She became very interested in it, and it was through her suggestion that the War Mothers are sending the Christmas box there. It is to be sent to the librarian there who will distribute the contents to the men. It is urged that all Salem women, whether they are War Mothers or not, send to the armory what jams and jellies they can, and to persuade her neighbors to donate what they can. The box is to be packed by the American Legion Friday and shipped that night to New Mexico.

Once Prominent Mexican Hopes to Return Home

By Louis P. Kirby, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Mexico City, Mexico, Nov. 3.—Don Luis Cabrera, who was Secretary of the Treasury under President Carranza, has asked the Mexican Government for permission to return to Mexico. No announcement has yet been made as to what action the Government will take in the matter, but it is known that powerful influence are working both for and against General Cabrera.

Those who want to see him back in Mexico are old Carranza supporters and financiers, with whom he has many interests. Those who oppose him are supporters of the new Government, who assert that his was the dominant mind back of Carranza and that he is to be blamed for many of Carranza's blunders and acts which brought him unpopularity. These opposers say that back of his polished, ingratiating manners is the mind of a constitutional mischief-maker.

 In making application for permission to return, General Cabrera said that he desired to take charge of a publication in Mexico City. This publication it is believed, is the new daily newspaper, La Vanguardia, which is backed by wealthy supporters of Carranza and is directed by Ernesto Hidalgo, who was President Carranza's private secretary.

It is not understood how General Cabrera could find time to direct a newspaper and attend to his multitudinous other interests in Mexico. Opposers say that if he gets back to Mexico City he will spend little of his time in the newspaper office.

General Cabrera fled from the country when the Carranza Government was overturned.

Horse Delayed Escape
 A story is told in Mexico City that Cabrera's horse was the cause of Carranza's great and fatal misfortune.

When Carranza fled from Mexico City he rode on a train that was nearly two miles long. There were twenty-two sections, but these were practically linked together, with the rebels captured when they were pulling out of the city. The sections were merely divided by the engines, which pushed one section and pulled another.

It was Carranza's intention to leave the city under cover of darkness, but daylight came while boxes of documents, money, baggage and horses were being put aboard the trains. When all was about ready there was a hitch because a magnificent stallion, because a magnificent animal, would not get into a car. Because of the importance of the owner and his desire to have the splendid animal with him in case duties compelled him to appear before the troops, nearly two hours were spent in coaxing the horse into the car. The horse is said to have been General Cabrera's favorite steed.

Captured Supplies
 When the trains began to move the rebels were entering the city from all directions and were able to capture three sections, one bearing the doctors, nurses and medical supplies; another loaded with artillery and the third containing airplanes. This was a heavy loss, as Carranza was forced to fight his battles along the way without artillery, excepting six cannons, which one of his officers picked up on the way.

The long delay in departure enabled the rebels to take effectual measures to block the progress of the train.

Cabrera's friends say that he did not own the horse and was not responsible for the delay in getting the to block the progress of the train. When General Cabrera left Mexico, after Carranza's tragic death, he went to New York.

CAFE MANAGER HAS GAINED 18 POUNDS

Los Angeles Business Man Says Tanlac Put Him Back on His Feet and He Now Enjoys Fine Health

"In less than a month's time Tanlac has restored my health and built me up to where I have actually gained eighteen pounds in weight," declared B. Frank Hill, manager of a popular cafe at 319 West 6th street Los Angeles, Cal. "Several times during the past year," explained Mr. Hill, "I had to neglect my business on account of bad health following an attack of influenza. I lost my appetite and my stomach was in such a bad fix that what little I did eat seemed to do me more harm than good. I was constipated all the time and suffered terribly with gas on my stomach. This condition pulled me down until I only weighed one hundred Marrages in France increased rapidly in the last months, ninety-eight percent more in one day at one of the is mayoralties.

"A friend advised me to try lac and spoke so well of what had done for him that I decided to give it a trial. I started on a bottle that he gave me, I commenced to improve before I finished it. My appetite came right up and I felt so much better that I bought another bottle. Pretty soon I was able to do anything I wanted without any one bit of trouble with my stomach. I am now back at work, my gain in weight and strength is simply remarkable for 18 pounds in one month and just three pounds and just feet from the time. The way Tanlac built up was the surprise of my life. It will always get a good recommendation from me."

Tanlac is sold in Salem by the drug store and in all towns by leading druggists.

THE "WELCOME" ON THE DOORMAT

"What I might have done," is a phrase that is kept on ice in the morgue of vain regrets. It is the pet alibi of the failure who insists that opportunity in knocking must stumble over the "Welcome" on the doormat as well.

Years ago the Common Stock of the Beech-Nut Packing Company went begging in its home town of Canajoharie, New York. There were too many who knew the officers when they were in the hay or creamery business who had no patience for what they called "fandangled notions."

These same croakers who were so busy making close hard money in the anvil chorus had the doubtful pleasure in later years of watching some of their neighbors with vision sit back and enjoy almost incredible dividends on Beech-Nut Common Stock.

Last year a Preferred Stock issue for three million dollars was offered by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. The doubting Thomases fought for a place in line and the whole amount was over-subscribed in less than a week.

But not a cent of Common Stock was offered. Common Stock or convertible Preferred Stock is the reward of faith and vision, and, like opportunity, rarely comes but once.

The Phez Co. offers you your opportunity now.
