

Descendant of Barry Is Sponsor for New Yankee Torpedo Boat

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 9.—Uncle Sam has a new addition to his ever-growing navy. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Barry has been launched at the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation in this place and will soon be in active service. This Barry is the last of the thirty destroyers awarded this corporation by the United States Navy during the war period.

The destroyer Barry was named for Commodore John Barry of the United States Navy. He was born in Ireland in 1754. He received one of the first commissions in the navy in 1776. He commanded the Lexington, the first cruiser to sail and captured the British schooner Edward, the first navy prize. In 1781 returning from conveying to France our Minister Latroun, in the Alliance, he captured the Atlanta and the Theopasa and was severely wounded. He held many important commands and was one of the bravest and most daring officers. He was the third commander-in-chief of the navy.

According to the Naval History, this is the third Barry; the second Barry was a torpedo boat destroyer launched March 22, 1902, recently scrapped. The sponsor of which was Miss Charlotte Adams Barnes, the great grand-niece of Commodore Barry. The sponsor of the Barry which succeeds the former Barry was Mrs. Shelton E. Martin, of Peapack, N. J., who before her marriage was Miss Charlotte Adams Barnes, and enjoys the distinction of christening two destroyers named after her distinguished ancestor.

Mrs. Martin was accompanied by her husband, who commanded the machine gun section in the Argonne, France her brother, Colonel James Barnes of Princeton, N. J., was in charge of the Aerial Photography Section overseas; and among those present were Rear Admiral Knemmering, Admiral and Mrs. R. T. Hall, Captain T. G. Roberts, H. A. Magoun, senior vice-president of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation; Commander B. H. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Workman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Humphreys and Mr. and Mrs. Geutings.

French Plan to House Thousands of Laboring Men

By Newton C. Parks, Paris, Nov. 9.—Under the direction of the Minister of Liberated Regions, a gigantic scheme for the housing of hundreds of thousands of workmen during the war, has just been launched.

The plan provides for the organization of the "home-construction organizations" in every district of the devastated zone, modelled to some extent on the "building and savings" societies in the United States. These organizations will be financed by private capital and will have a free hand in the work of rebuilding, but the Government will maintain close supervision to avoid the danger of speculation. To facilitate their operation and cheapen the cost of construction the Government will waive numerous kinds of taxes which would otherwise make the cost of building tremendous. In this manner it is hoped to build thousands of homes at approximately the same cost that prevailed in 1914, despite sharp increases in the cost of material and labor since the war.

The problem of housing workmen in the devastated area is one of the most serious confronting France in her effort to get quickly back on her feet. Though more than 75 per cent of the factories in the war zone have resumed operations, they are now employing less than 45 per cent of their personnel before the war. To some extent this is due to a substantial demand for manufactured products but largely it develops from the fact that there are no buildings in which to house the workmen and their families. French manufacturers, eager to get back to the "business as usual" basis, devoted all their efforts to rebuilding their wrecked machinery. The employees were left to look out for themselves when it came to a matter of finding shelter.

The restoration of factories went forward so rapidly that in the summer of 1920 the lodging situation reached an acute crisis. Unless immediate steps are taken to provide shelter for the laborers, French industry is bound to suffer in 1921.

300,000 Houses Needed. An investigation by the bureau of industrial reconstruction of the Ministry disclosed the fact that at a very minimum 30,000 houses, sheltering 200,000 workers and their families, must be erected before the end of 1921. This estimate does not take into account the condition in the mining centers, where thousands of men already have resumed work.

For this work of reconstruction alone it is estimated that a total $150,000,000 will be required. Furthermore, the needs of 600,000 men who already have resumed work under unsatisfactory housing conditions in many cases, are not considered.

The first organization to take over the work of rebuilding workmen's houses has been formed in the Lille district. Manufacturers themselves subscribed a large part of the funds, but part of the money was furnished by the State. To remove the society from any suspicion, the Minister of Liberated Regions and the Minister of Hygiene have approved the by-laws of the new organization.

Each society will be limited in its operations to a certain district set aside for it. But one or more may unite in buying or building operations for the purpose of obtaining lower prices.

Grid Hero First in Law Class

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Richard C. Curtis, who got his letter in varsity football as a member of Harvard's 1915 team, which overcame Yale under the leadership of Captain Mohan, has finished first in a class of 220 members of the second year in the Harvard law school. Curtis' achievement has won him one of the five Sears prizes.

The remaining students awarded were A. W. McCurdy, of Murphy, N. C., also a Harvard graduate; Sidney P. Simpson, of Galesburg, Ill., who was graduated from Knox college in 1917; Ethan A. Ayles, of Clifton, N. J., a Princeton man, and Bertram F. White, of Ithaca, N. Y., who took his college degree at Cornell in 1917.

"Toughest Guy" In Chicago Dies At End Of Rope

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Chicago's "toughest guy" is dead. Frank Zagar, twenty-two years of age, executed his debt to society at the end of a hangman's rope within the grim walls of the Cook county jail. During the last night on earth Zagar spurned his 12-year-old sister as she begged him for a kiss, jeered and reviled his gray-haired, emaciated mother and cursed the priest who offered him spiritual consolation. He sullenly paced the floor of his cell until the time for his execution and then, with a defiant oath, walked into the death house.

Zagar was found guilty of shooting down two men in cold blood during holdups. "They didn't stick their hands up fast enough," he explained. Zagar brought of his superhuman career until the very last.

Sims Not Among Decorated Men

Newport R. I., Nov. 10.—An announcement at the navy war college today of awards for notable naval service during the war contained no mention of honor for Admiral William S. Sims, president of the college, who was the commander of the American naval forces in the war zone.

Admiral Sims had refused an original recommendation for a distinguished service medal as a protest against failure of the navy department to accept his recommendations for honors to subordinates.

2 Alleged Drunks Jailed Here; One Was Driving Auto

Sidney Morley of Silverton and Al Marrel were arrested here last night and lodged in the city jail charged with being intoxicated.

Morley, who was taken into custody by Officers White and Brown, was driving an automobile when arrested, according to the police report. Marrel was jail by Officer Victor.

The men were released this morning on bail. Morley's was set at $25, and Marrel's was placed at $20. Both are slated to appear before Judge Rice tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

He Hit Streetcar; 'I'm Sober,' Dallas Motorist Insists

C. Richert, who puts "Dallas" on the hotel register, had a misfortune yesterday. The automobile he was driving collided with a westbound streetcar at the intersection of State and Liberty streets, according to police.

Officer White, of the Salem police force, was on the job. He began to question Mr. Richert. "I'm sober," White says Richert told him. No arrest was made, the police report said.

John Owens, elected justice of the peace in the Killing precinct, Clatsop county, is under arrest charging with operating an illicit still.

Bearcats Leave For Tacoma To Play Saturday

Coach Mathews and his Bearcat squad of 17 men will leave this evening for Tacoma to play College of Puget Sound in the Stadium Saturday.

It is thought that the team will lineup about as it did a week ago against Pacific university, with Wapato playing fullback. Easter may return to center from the tackle position he has been playing for the two latest games. If he does, Harry Ravey will play tackle.

Nickel, who made his first appearance in the lineup last Saturday, seems to have the guard position landed at least until Rainey gets back in the game. Barnes and Lyman are likely to play the ends, with Socolofsky on the injured list. Those who will make the trip are

Harding was Miss Florence King, daughter of Almos King, before she married the President-elect in 1891. Mrs. Harding was an ardent worker during her husband's campaign and often remarked that "a man must be well fed and well groomed if he would succeed."

Captain Ravey, Irvine, Zeller, Wapato, Sherwood, Barnes, Lyman, Harry Ravey, Lawson, Nickel, Dahn, Insler, White, Gannous, Power Bird and Oliver.

Because today is a holiday, no rally will be held before the men leave, but it is thought there will be a rally Friday and some sort of encouragement will be forwarded to the team to reach them just before the game.

No excursion has been planned and only a few rooters will attend the game from Willamette. Because of Saturday's victory over Pacific, which a week before tied with the sound team, Willamette expects to win, but it is known that Puget Sound will put up a game fight, and the team is not counting on an easy victory.

As a result of having been hit in the face with a bird shot from the accidental discharge of a shotgun last week, Clair Westcott, 16-year-old boy of Acme, will probably be come totally blind.
