Suicide Attempt Follows Romance Of Girl Prisoner

Curtain fell late yesterday afternoon on a tragedy of life involving as leading characters, three prisoners of the Oregon penitentiary.

Love, thriving under the most severe circumstances, Fate, intervening with, and suspicion, revealing the situation, all contrived to bring the tragedy to a finale.

Revealing her love for a paroled convict and denouncing the "husband" whose name she bears on prison records, "Mabel Goodan," pretty eighteen year old "girl of mystery" attempted suicide late yesterday afternoon in her room at the Oregon penitentiary. She is serving a two year sentence for obtaining property under false pretenses.

Her life was saved by the prison physician, but she refuses to admit her real identity and remains "Mabel Goodan" on prison records. She was sentenced to prison from Jackson county last July, and at the same time, the man supposed to be her husband, Dan Goodan, was sentenced for three years on charge of forgery.

Into her life behind prison walls came David McCardell, who was paroled November 13, and romance under severe difficulties followed which ended yesterday in the girl's attempt on her life. McCardell, the authorities say, will be returned to Salem today as a parole violator.

Love Enters Scene

"Mrs. Goodan," the only woman serving in the penitentiary was not kept under close surveillance when she became indirectly in association with McCardell.

Fate intervened, and McCardell was paroled. But behind the prison walls, the little germ of love still flourished and letters addressed to "Alvin Bushy, Eugene, Ore.," came daily into the hands of the prison officials to be censored and mailed for the girl. "Alvin Bushy" was supposedly her cousin.

The suspicion, the destroyer, entered the scene when the prison officials received letters for "Mrs. Goodan" from the "cousin" and recognized in the writing a similarity to the writing of McCardell. Parole Officer P. M. Varney yesterday called the girl to his office and after a determined effort to unravel the mystery of the suddenly ardent cousin, the girl broke down and with tears coursing from her tired eyes, she revealed the little tragedy of love, denouncing Goodan as her husband, but refusing to admit her real identity.

"The girl will remain 'Mrs. Mabel Goodan' to us," today declared one of the prison officials, but when McCardell is returned, steps will be taken to halt the "flame."

Three hearts beating under the cover of prison garb, and under sentences as forger, thief, and "mystery woman" will continue their battle for power over the law of man. The girl was sentenced in July and will probably be released long before either of the two men in the case, and what is worrying the prison officials is the wireless of the underworld and whether through the long months of imprisonment, it will enable communication between the girl and McCardell.

Goodan would say nothing regarding the affair, and the prison officials have not yet talked to McCardell. The girl is being kept under close watch to prevent her harming herself.

The Commercial club open forum will be held this month on Thursday evening, December 9, at 8 o'clock, instead of Wednesday evening as originally planned. It was decided at a meeting of the club's board of directors last night. The meeting was postponed, it was stated, so that members of the club might attend a Masonic function Wednesday night.

La Grande, Or., Dec. 1.—Apples from the Grand Ronde valley are soon to be sold to Portland market at a penny apiece. The local market situation has reached the point where it is not profitable to ship the fruit east or to the middle west, according to apple dealers, as the freight rates eat up the sale price and leave the orchardists nothing. Orchardists around Imbler contracted their apples for a good price and the buyer paid down a small amount. Rather than take the apples, it is reported, the buyer allowed his first payment to go and the owners still have the apples.

Adequate Telephone Rates

In pre-war days all that was necessary to secure telephone service was to place an order. The telephone plant was there and ready for you. No one expected any other condition and it was natural that it should be so. The war came and the equipment ordinarily used to provide for your needs was taken to supply the urgent requirements of the nation. Men, money and materials became scarce. Telephone construction practically ceased. Almost immediately the resultant pinch was felt. Telephone service in some localities could not be secured at all; in others only after indefinite delay. Such conditions grow rapidly worse—a telephone plant must be constantly extended.

It has been impossible to catch up with the accumulated demand, much less restore the normal condition of having plant ready for service as orders are received. This is our problem today.

We must build millions of dollars' worth of plant in order to satisfy your service requirements. We are operating today in Oregon at a deficit. We are not even earning the interest and dividend charges on the present plant. We cannot secure the money to fulfill your service requirements and build the plant necessary unless we can show a fair return on the investment.

We are asking for rates that will give such a return and permit the securing of money to build the plant you require. We believe you are as greatly interested in this matter as we are, and we ask your support toward this end.

You are interested in good and sufficient telephone service. We must have adequate revenue to provide it.
