

Bull Laughs at "Pussyfoot" Movement, Writer Says

By Earle C. Bevers,
News Service Staff Correspondent

American always have been regarded as having made the trip over on the Mayflower, during three centuries, and their tendencies they took with them to the West End, London, or to the impression that Americans are "pussyfoot" and "idealists."

What is here branded as the "Pussyfoot" movement comes over the cables, and bids the smart weeklies and music halls new content for many weeks.

We "lead them laugh."

England prides itself on the liberty of the individual. The "liberty of the individual" isn't always in the eyes of the foreigner. But they have it here, and generally John Butt, himself in the movement, he thinks Cousin Sam is getting into anything to do with himself in his earlier and liquid form.

And to the Englishman, though the English play tennis in his own neighborhood, a Sunday himself, forgets that the club of the American who may have to be embarrassed on the day of best, and the punishment of his Sunday liberty.

Long staple or Egyptian cotton is included in the list of commodities named in the bill on which import duties would be imposed. This item was omitted from the list given out last night by Chairman Fordney because the committee had been unable to prepare estimates of the total revenue which would be derived on the basis of the seven cent a pound duty imposed.

Conservative British Find "Ads" Needed

London, Dec. 22.—At last the British manufacturer and advertiser in the world—have come to the realization that advertising is a necessary and vital part of their business.

An exhibition recently opened by "White City." This exhibition was, in the words of the promoters, intended to show "the power, the possibilities and the latest developments of advertising." For several days the streets of the city have been a pageant of "sandwich men" attired in costumes made familiar by well-known advertisements.

This has been described by the press as "a wonderful outburst of British enterprise." Much has been made of the fact that the exhibition is a co-operative effort "to show British resilience to the winds."

America has been selected by the promoters and those who have taken part in the exhibition as the standard on which to base their efforts. As one of the leaders here is for England—new departure explaining it:

"The literary and pictorial advertisement is not nearly so widely adopted in this country as it is in the United States. Recognizing this fact the 'Thirty Club' of publicity men and a number of advertising experts have voluntarily organized this exhibition in order to demonstrate and explain the uses of advertising—its methods and possibilities."

"One great object of the exhibition is to educate the public to a trust in advertised and trademarked goods. Just as the British manufacturer is reluctant to embark on an advertising campaign so the public is doubtful regarding the economy of purchasing advertised wares."

England is Aware

The lesson must be brought home to the English to its present "pussyfoot" issue is merely a wet issue. For instance, the Lord's Day Alliance has its way a stern club or revolver will hold up the ship to discover what are his reasons for absent on the day of rest, while the Sunday probably be executed on the spot and death hole.

country are beginning at last to free our- selves of Puritan toils which forbade in- dustry on Sunday. But pussyfootism is one of the campaign to deprive us of our glass. For all we know, a preliminary to make- ing of a set of dull and relentless fanatics.

Telegraph discusses the issue roundly in a column of close type, including for British con- siderations from the early American col- onial pilgrims, says the Daily Tele- graph the captain and crew of a slave trader village on the Sabbath in far-off Africa. It asks doubts whether the two American nations will be able to "put it over." It states effect of the wholesale discussion of Sunday movement in America will be of the prohibitionists of Britain. Ridicule is served to advertise them and their aims. The prohibition with a movement for freedom of personal liberties is bound, so far concerned, to weaken the cause of prohibi-

Old Horse-Car Driver Winner Of Nobel Prize

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Few of the "old timers" who rode the Halsted streetcars when horses were the motive power in Chicago remember the erratic conductor who called all the streetcars wrong and stopped in the middle of the block for acquaintances and shivered on the back platform in the early '80's while diving into the mysteries of Greek classics. The erratic conductor's name was Knut Hamsun and his birthplace was Norway and his name now is given back to Chicago as the winner of the Nobel prize for 1920.

The name of the book which has won fame for a former Chicago street car conductor is "Hunger." Hamsun has been translated into twenty-three languages.

Dr. Andrew Dow is one of the "old timers" who remembers Knut of the days of horse drawn streetcars.

"I remember him well," said Dr. Dow in a recent interview. "A dreamer he was, thin, white-haired. He came to Chicago from North Dakota. The passengers used to get mad at him, so Knut lost his job. An old lady asked him which way the car was going and his outburst brought about his discharge."

Hamsun went from Chicago to New York, engaged as a fisherman off the Newfoundland Banks and finally drifted back to Norway, where he began to write. He is 55 years of age, in humble circumstances, and his book tells the story of his struggles to make a bare living.
