36 Industrial Club Projects Are Launched

Thirty-six boys and girls club projects have been organized in the schools of Tillamook and Yamhill counties by J. E. Calavan, field worker for the state department of public instruction, who has just returned from a two weeks' tour of these two counties. Calavan reports a very keen interest by both pupils and teachers in the club work projects. Tillamook county is especially strong in calf, sewing and cookery club work while Yamhill county's interest includes pig, poultry, sewing, cookery and garden projects. A number of the schools of Umatilla, Morrow, Columbia and Washington counties were organized in the club work earlier in the school year.

Died.
FITZGERALD—In Salem, Tuesday, December 21, 1920, J. M. Fitzgerald. He is survived by one sister, Miss M. Fitzgerald of Buckingham, Quebec, Canada. The remains are at the Rigdon chapel. Funeral announcements will be made later.

Mrs. Arthur Keeney of this city is spending a few days in Eugene visiting relatives.

Shop Early, Is Plea of Merchants Here
 Another reminder that Salem stores will not be open any evening before Christmas, together with the plea to shop early, came from the headquarters of the Salem Business Men's league this afternoon. Hundreds of Salemites are apparently waiting until the last minute to do their buying, it is stated.

Pratum, Or., Dec. 22.—I. S. Kaufman, a farmer living east of here, killed and dressed four big type hogs one day last week. One of the animals was exceptionally large. When hanging with its nose close to the ground it was all Mr. Kaufman could do to reach the end of its hind legs, and he is no "short kid" either. The hog weighed 469 pounds dressed and rendered 24 pounds of lard.

Bracelet watches at Love's.
